The Other Side of the Story

There was no fatted calf awaiting the families who left Meaford several weeks ago to settle on land near Bladworth, N. W. T. From letters received in town by friends of some of the people who made up the party it is learned that the settler's train did not reach its destination until the morning of April 25, or exactly one week from the time it left here. The same day they pitched their tents and proceeded to get things in shape for removing their stock and supplies to the colony, some 20 miles distant. The sun was so hot that it blistered the faces of some of the settlers and they were obliged to abandon their work until there was a change in the weather. The change came the next day in the shape of a snowstorm which blew down their tents, compelling them to return to the railway coach for shelter. The weather for several days was extremely cold, and it was all the settlers could do to keep from freezing. It was about a week before they got settled on the sections of land comprising a portion of what is known as the Armstrong colony.

Mr. George Francis, who went up with the party, had an experience which is not likely to induce others to forsake their Ontario homesteads and "Go west." One of his horses by some means was thrown to the ground and he had to pay $2 to several foreigners to help him get the animal on its feet again. In the work of raising the horse Mr. Francis had several of his ribs broken, and as there was no physician within a distance of 20 miles the suffering he endured until medical aid arrived can be better imagined than described.

Many people are beginning to find out that the rosy tales of fabulous wealth in the Northwest are bound to bear fruits sooner or later. Distance lends enchantment to the view, and as the land will produce lots of grain, it is quite natural that many in this part of the Dominion are impelled to go out and try their chances at farming. But while plenty of grain can be grown in the Northwest, it must not be forgotten that it takes some time and money to secure results, to say nothing of the trials and inconveniences incidental to life in a new country. Men of abundant means can no doubt do well in any part of Manitoba or territories, but men with small means will do well to think twice before giving up comfortable homes in Ontario to risk all in trying to extract sunbeams from cucumbers.—Meaford Mirror.

Why Suffe Fom Rheumatism

Why suffer from rheumatism when one application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm will relieve the pain? The quick relief which this liniment affords makes rest and sleep possible and that alone is worth many times it's cost. Many who have used it, hoping only for a short relief from suffering have been happily surprised to find that after awhile relief became permanent. Mrs. V. H. Legett, of Yum Yum, Tennessee, U. S. A., writes. "I am a great sufferer from rheumatism, all over from head to foot, and Chamberlan's Pain Balm is the only thing that will relieve the pain." For sale by W. E. Richrdson.

"Raffles" Stories in The Mail and Empire.

Mr. E. W. Hornung's stories of "Raffles: the Amateur Cracksman" are universally admitted to be the most fascinating tales of criminal adventure ever written. The character of Raffles, the gentleman burglar and jewel-robber, is one new to fiction; the story of his exploits excel in vigor and thrilling interest the work of any other moder writer. The Mail and Empire will begin publication in the Daily on May 13, and the Weekly edition on May 18 of Mr. Hornung's new series of "Amateur Cracksman" tales, which have never before appeared in periodical form.

The first of these tales, "The Ides of March," introduces Raffles and his faithful companion' "Bunny," in their first and most exciting burglary of the great jewelry store. One of these new tales will appear every Saturday in The Daily Mail and Empire, as well as in the Weekly edition for the next three months.

Orders taken at this office for The Weekly Mail and Empire and The Advance, to be mailed to any address in Canada, Great Britain or the United States from now until Jan. 1, 1906, for 80 cents.

The school at Hamilton hill, one or two miles north of here, has been closed since Easter, the teacher having left without giving the required notice, and the trustees have not yet been able to fill the vacancy. Some of the pupils are attending the school at Chatsworth.—Banner.

The river at Rowebottoms' still continues to yield up the choicest speckled trout. On Friday evening last a tray in Mr. Gardiner's store window contained twelve beauties ranging in weight from half a pound to a pound and a half, the dozen almost reaching the twelve pound mark. Messrs. John Gardiner and S. Bell were the lucky anglers.—Herald.

Valuable Advice to Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness of any kind, get out your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which has been the great family remedy in Canada for the past fifty years. Try a 25c bottle of Nerviline.

John Elkerton, the Chesley bigamist, was sentenced at Guelph to four years in Kingston Penitentiary by Judge Chadwick. The charge of perjury preferred against him was suspended.
