The Bulletin and Dr. Sproule

A couple of weeks ago The Advance had occasion to draw attention to a bitter and untruthful attack upon Dr. Sproule, M. P., published in the Collingwood Bulletin. Last week's issue of the Bulletin had the following to say:

If The Advance desired to be fair it would publish the item it complains about and let it's readers judge as to its truthfulness. What the Bulletin said is correct. Dr. Sproule did vote with his party on the Jesuit Estate Bill. He did go west with his party leaders and on his return endeavor to create the impression that he was ignored by them and kept off of many public platforms on account of his recent prominence in the Orange Order. When charged with this in the House of Commons he denied it. If The Advance would like to defend a few more of Dr. Sproule's breaks we might mention his heartless attack on the only son of the Minister of Militia who had distinguished himself in South Africa and lost his life there.

The Advance is not a special champion of Dr. Sproule, but at the same time we do not care to stand idly by and see the Dr. sneered at and charged with inconsistency in his parliamentry career, when, as a matter of fact, there is not a member of the House of Commons who can point to so clean a record for consistency as can the member in question. During the whole course of his political life he has been a strenuous advocate of provincial rights, and on two occasions at least he has refused to sacrifice his opinions for political exigencies—notably his vote on the Jesuit Estates Bill and Manitoba coercion. In the former case he voted contrary to the desire of his constituency, but for a principle, and is now honored for it; in the latter case he voted according to the desires of his constituency but against his party. In neither case was there an atom of inconsistency, and the question of provincial rights alone was involved. We reassert that not a member of the House can show the same consistent record that Dr. Sproule has shown throughout his long political career. And moreover, there is not a man in the House to-day who is more respected than the member for East Grey, and that by both sides of the House. It ill behoves the Bulletin or any other paper to gratuitously publish sneers, insinuations and false statements against one who stands so high in the esteem of his fellow members and constituents as does Dr. Sproule.

The Assizes

The assizes were held last week before Chief Justice Falconbridge. The action by the widow of Chas. Mott, against the G. T. R. had been previously settled by payment of $1500 including costs. McGillivray vs McKechnie, an action for seduction, had been amicably settled before conrt The action Horne vs G. T. R., for injuries sustained on account of alleged negligence of the defendants was settled, judgement being entered for $500 and costs. Owen Sound Iron Works vs Brennan was referred, by mutual consent, to the county judge for settlement. McFarlane vs Forbes, an action concerning the setteng aside of a will, was settled between the parties. Wm. Ezeard was was found guilty of rape. Chief Justice Falconbridge sentenced Ezeard to fifteen years imprisonment in Kingston penitentiary. The prisoner is married and about 28 years of age. The crime for which he hss been sentenced to a long term of imprisonment in Kingston penitentiary was committed in Sarawak last July, since which time he has been in goal.

Gun vs Bailey—This action for slander was settled between the parties after the jury had been empannelled, the defendant withdrawing the statements made and and apologizing to Dr. Gunn, of Durham, the plaintiff, and each paying his own costs.

Bartlett vs Seaman—In this case Geo. Bartlett, of Owen Sound, sought damages for the loss three fingers of his left hand while working in the defendant's mill at Woodford last January. The jury after being out about three hours returned with answers to questions submitted to them by the judge. The answers, however, were contradictory and written argument is to be put in by counsel, and judgement has been reserved. Damages were assessed by the jury at $500.

McDonald vs McArdle.—In this action for libel the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff of $250, for which amount and costs judgement was entered.

Bradley vs Elliott.—An action brought by the plaintiff who lives in town against a widow residing at Chesley. The plaintiff claims that he bought from P. A. Black as agent for the defendant certain land in this town. The defence was that Black was acting as agent for plaintiff who is his brother-in-law, and that he was paid for his services by the plaintiff, and that there was no offer made by the defendant which was buly accepted by the plaintiff After argument as to the legal points was made, judgement was reserved.

Grey vs Markdale.—An action brought by the County of Grey against the village of Markdale for an order requiring Markdale to supply electric light to the House of Refuge. By arradgement the facts were admitted and written argument is to be delivered by Counsel.

The United States government has made a tardy restitution to the Oneida Indians for land taken from them years ago in the state of New York. The Indians were offered in exchange land in Kansas but they refused and emigrated to Canada. On Monday last A. G. Chrisholm, of London, Ont., counsel for the Oneida Indians, who settled in Delaware township in 1841, received word from Washington that the Court of Claims had awarded the tribe $300,000 in lieu of land taken from them by the United States government in New York state. The action has deen pending for many years.
