The Advance has had complaints made this week about boys who stand on the street corner Sunday evenings and ogle the girls as they go to and return from church. We say boys, because their brains have evidently not grown in unison with their bodies. No self-respecting young man would be found guilty of such actions. In some towns, young men who do this sort of thing, are called hoodlums. Here, of course, we have no such thing as hoodlums, but if such acts are continued some young men of the town are in great danger of being placed in this class by those who are capable of judging.

A little excitement was caused at the station one day last week, when Wm. Taylor, hostler at the Queens hotel, was found insensible in one of the stable stalls with a carbolic acid bottle, empty by his side. It was taken for granted that Wm. had poisoned himself. Dr. Carter was called and got his stomach pump in operation but could find no trace of poisoning. Taylor, when he came to, explained the position as follows: He was putting down hay from the mow when his fork slipped and he was precipated to the floor below, the fall rendering him insensible. The bottle of acid was in his pocket to be used for legitimate purposes. The fall knocked it out, the cork loosening and contents spilling. The excitement quickly subsided.

I Am a Cured Man

After Victory Over Rheumatism.

Mr. Andrew B. Day says: "I am a cured man--this glorious triumph over a terrible disease. Mark well: was effected by Cameron's Rheumatic Cure."

If there is a man in Owen Sound who can tell of terrible suffering from rheumatism it is Andrew B. Day, an employee of the Sun Portland Cement Co. Mr. Day is on the night shift at the works. Yesterday afternoon a press reporter saw him at his residence, 42 Payne street. He had suffered from rheumatism in its most intense form. His employment made it necessary for him to be exposed in all kinds of weather, resulting in an attack of rheumatic pains which spread gradually through his entire system. About a year and a half ago the disease became so severe that he was compelled to quit work. He tried many of the widely advertised cures but they had no effect whatever. One Friday night almost in despair he purchased a bottle of Cameron's Rheumatism Cure. Tuesday night found him entirely cured and he resumed his work at the big cement mill. He took a little over a bottle and has not had a touch of rheumatism since. Mr. Day is enthusiastic in his praise of the medicine that relieved his sufferings permanently in so short a time. The medicine is prepared and sold by D. A. Cameron & Co., the White Front Drug Store, Owen Sound.

Interest in the robbery which took place at Mr. C. W. Hartman's private bank at Clarksburg last fall is revived by the finding by three young Meaford men, of the notes which, together with some forty-five cents in small change, were stolen on the occasion. Mr. S. H. Irwin, merchant tailor; Mr. Hugh Murray, ledger-keeper of the Molsons Bank; and Frank Mitchell, youngest son of Mrs. D. R. Mitchell, were strolling along the Big Head River on Sunday afternoon when they made the important find. About two hundred yards below the dam and a few feet back of the bend which forms part of the river bank on the south side, is a pool of water probably two and a half wide by three feet in length. Mr. Irwin's attention was arrested by seeing some loose papers lying in this pool of water. He immediately fished them out, when the party examined them and found to their amazement that they were notes stamped with the name, "C. W. Hartman, Clarksburg, Ont." Under a log close beside the river Frank Mitchell discovered another lot of notes with a piece of elastic band around them, while Mr. Murray picked up a third lot a few feet east of the second bundle. Many of the notes were for $100 and over, while quite a number, principally sale notes, ranged foom $10 up to $100. Most of them, though slightly discolored by water, were in a good state of preservation. Mr. Murray took the notes to the manager of the Molsons Bank and asked what he would do with them. On Monday morning Mr. Ferguson informed Mr. Hartman by telephone, of the find. In the afternoon Mr. Hartman came to Meaford and identified the notes as the ones stolen from his private bank. After suitably rewarding the young men for their find he accompanied Mr. Murray to the place where the papers were recovered and succeeded in finding several addition al notes. As all the notes had been duplicated they would be of no value to any one finding them.—Meaford Mirror.

How Pneumonia Starts.

You catch a little cold to-day, by to-morrow it has reached the throat, next day the lungs are affected and you wish you had used "Catarrhozone" which kills colds in five minutes. In the first place Catarrhozone soothes the irritated membranes and relieves congestion,—then it cuts out the phlegm and destroys the germs. It enables the blood to retain a natural supply of oxygen, lung food, and vitality. In any cough, bronchitis or lung affection it's guaranteed to positively cure. Decline any substitute for "Catarrhozone."
