THE SALARY GRAB

The session of the House just closed exemplifies pretty strongly the danger of giving one political party entire control of our national affairs without adequate opposition. The autonomy bill was serious enough and the Opposition put up the best fight it could against the measure; but the salary grab which was perpetrated in the last hours of the session is one of the most iniquitous things this country has suffered from in a long time. It was done so quietly and without warning; so hastily, too, that the country has scarcely yet awakened to the enormity of the robbery that has taken place, and had no time to make a protest. When the extent of the pension system as now inaugurated is thoroughly understood there will, or ought to be, a noise throughout the land which will shake somebody into oblivion. The idea of pensioning off ex-Ministers to the tune of $3500 per annum for life is utterly uncalled for, and when this pension goes to such millionaires as Sir Wm. Mulock and Sir Richard Cartwright the question is reduced to an absurdity that no logic can justify. The adding of $1000 to the salary of all members, making their sessional allowance $2500, is an impudent grasping of unearned funds and a burden which this young country should never be called upon to pay for its legislation. It simply places an extra thousand in the hands of every unscrupulous member to be used for the purpose of bribing the electorate by making public grants and playing the part of "Lady Bountiful" with money to which they have no right, and in other even more nefarious ways, if that be possible. In North Grey we have already heard of $500 of this money being heralded as a public benefaction by the munificent benevolence of the member for that constituency. The impudence of this grab certainly passes all bounds, and the painful part of it is that no person or party of men in parliament to-day had sufficient back bone to put up anything more than a very half hearted fight for the rights of those who pay the piper. The pension system referred to is an outrage upon an already too generous paymaster, and the $1000 grab of salary is more costly and cannot be defended any the more successfully. Every elector in the country ought to make it a personal matter and we think in that way the government could be made to undo the wrong it has perpetraed.

Thos, McLeod, son of Wm. McLeod, near Riverview, met with a very painful accident which has him at present under the care of Dr. Martin. He was one of the gang working at Martell's gravel pit, and was loading a wagon when a portion of the bank fell in burying him. The weight doubled him up and when he was extricated it was found his jaw bone was fractured. He is able to be around but his diet is necessarily very light. It will be some time before he will be able to resume active duties aagain.—Herald.

The Georgian Bay Fruit Growers, Limited, have been incorporated by Ontario charter with a share capital of $25,000, and with headquarters at the town of Thornbury, in the county of Grey. The purposes of this company are; (a) To deal wholesale and retail in all kinds of fruit; (b) to build and own fruit houses and cold storage plants, and (c) to own and operate evaporators, canning factories, cider and pulp mills, factories for the making of barrels, boxes, baskets, crates or any other packages required in the handling of fruit. The directors are Grey farmers.—The Canadian Grocer.

Weather prognostigators say that we are now on the fourth year of wet and cool summers. The period, they say, started in 1902, and will last for seven years. It will be a case of crescendo and diminuendo, that is to say, get worse until the centre is reached, and will then gradually taper off till 1909 is reached. According to the theory this will be the wettest and coolest summer for four years. Then things will gradually improve till normal Canadian summer weather is again reached in 1910. There may not be much in this theory, but it seems to have worked out all right so far.—Stayner Sun.

The succession tax of the late George Gooderham, of Toronto, will net the province $500,000. Gooderham died worth $9,400,000.
