Miss Lizzie Armstrong, eldest daughter of the late Frederick Armstrong, is a missionary at Oxford House, near Hudson Bay. She arrived home on furlough in time to be with her father at the end and attend the funeral. Miss Armstrong remained a few days with friends here after her sad duty to an aged parent was performed.

Messrs. G. F. Kilgour, Toronto, and E. R B. Martin of Virginia, U. S. A., were in town on Thursday last. These gentlemen have been looking over the proposed electric railway route, east and west. It appears to be a fact that the work of construction has actually commenced at the Port Perry end of the line, but whether this actually means that the line will be built throughout, we have no means of informing the public. We can only live in hope. Mr. Martin expressed himself as thoroughly pleased with the country.

Messrs. Fisher and Robinson of Allisston, who have been working for several months on a shock-loading machine have now produced a machine which is destined to revolutionize the loading of grain in the fields, particularly in the west, where farming is carried on extensively and where help is scarce in the harvest time. Some time ago they produced a machine which worked very well, but after testing it they decided to change the principle and reduce the weight, with the result that they now have a machine which does the work more perfectly and is easily operated by one team, being of lighter draft than a binder. Mayor Fisher leaves next week for Winnipeg, where he will exhibit one of the new machines—Allisston Herald.

The editor of the Markdale Standard last week in a sneering item attempted to brush off the odium of a junior club of that place playing a Shelburne club on the grounds here on July 12, for what there might be in the gate receipts. The Advance said it was the cheekiest piece of business we had seen in sports for some, and we again repeat the assertion. These clubs were not invited to play here and neither did they get or ask the consent of the committee in charge of the day's program to allow them to play. The advertising matter which they brought along with them was misleading, and the whole thing was a disreputable scheme to make money at the expense of those whom they could pursuade to put up a quarter to see a game of no interest whatever. These youngsters may have thought it smart to play this grab game but others call it impudence, and the Standard has little to do in attempting a justification.

The funerl of the late Frederick Armstrong took place on Thursday afternoon last to the cemetery here, from the residence of Mrs. J. W. Armstrong. The Globe of Wednesday, July 26, contained the following announcement of Mr. Armstrong's death. "After a short illness, Mr. Frederick Armstrong of 17 Pembroke street, died at St. Michael's Hospital yesterday afternoon, where he had recently undergone an operation. The deceased, who was in his 80th year, was born in Kilkenny, Ireland, and came to Canada with his parents in 1848, settling in Toronto. Subsequently Mr. Armstrong went to Grey county, where he occupied the position of Sheriff, his brother being Division Court Clerk. He returned to Toronto about thirteen years ago, where he had lived in retirement. The late Mr. Armstrong had been a member of the Methodist Church for upwards of seventy years. Three sons and five daughters survive him."
