Desert Balks Australians Seeking Fabled Gold Cave

Adelaide, Australia.—The great central Australian desert once more has vanquished party seeking the cave of gold said to exist somewhere in its vastness. Returning prospectors said they barely escaped with their lives, although sent out well equipped and armed by Central Australia Gold Mines, Ltd.

To reach the legendary cavern they had to penetrate a country inhabited by gorgines, who trailed the party day after day, remaining in the darkness outside the light of the campfires at night, awaiting an opportunity to attack.

The gold hunters were within sixty miles of the supposed cave when they ran short of water. They will try again next winter.

The cave was discovered by C. A. Lasseter, a famous prospector, who lost his life in trying to return to it.

Deeds

Thy deeds now are the seed corn of eternity. Each single act on each several day, good or bad, is a portion of that seed. Each day adds some line, making thee more or less like Him, more or less capable of his Love, fitter for greater or less glory, to be nearer Him or to be less near.—Dr. Pusey.

Yet it is always effective, for older children, too. Remember, Castoria contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics—is absolutely harmless. How to play Bridge
AUCTION and CONTRACT
by Wynne Ferguson
Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

ARTICLE No. 15

Many times in these articles the writer has strongly urged the necessity of making original bids mean something.

There are certain definite requirements of bidding that should be complied with at all times, if the player wants to become a sound bidder. These requirements are more or less arbitrary and vary with the position of the bidder. For example, if you hold five hearts to the ace, king, it is a sound heart bid as dealer but if three players have passed, it is not a sound bid by fourth hand. In the same way a bid may not be sound on the first round of bidding but may be perfectly justified on the second round.

The real reason for these so-called conventions of bidding is the fact that all sound bidding is part of an harmonious whole. Each bid, if it be sound, should consider not only the bid itself but also its effect upon and interpretation by one's partner. If it tells him the truth, it is a sound bid; but if it deceives him or may be misconstrued, it is not sound. When ever you make a bid, think not only of your own cards but also of your partner and what he may do after he hears your bid. You should also consider your own course of action if the bid you intend to make should be overbid by your opponents. Have you started something that either you or your partner can carry to a logical conclusion? If so, it is a sound bid but not otherwise.

When you are dealer and bid one no trump or one of a suit, you should convey the exact information to your partner: First: In case of a no trump bid, that you have at least two and one-half quick tricks, distributed in at least thre suits; Second, in case of a suit bid, that you have a suit of at least four cards and two and one-half quick tricks in the hand, one of which is in the suit bid. Original bids should always give exact information for they are the first bids of the hand and have the chance to start partner off on the right foot by telling him what you have. This is the time you should tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. If you don't tell the truth, you are laying up trouble for yourself.

Lay a firm foundation for the partnership and you will get good results; but, if you build your house on the sand of untruth or misinformation, look out, for trouble is sure to result.

There are no trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win all the tricks against any defense?

Solution: Z should lead the king of clubs and A must discard. He cannot discard the king of diamonds or Y's jack will be good, so is forced to discard the four of spades. Y should now discard the jack of diamonds and B must also discard. He cannot discard the jack of hearts or Z's eight will be good, so is forced to discard the seven of spades. Z now leads the jack of spades, Y overtakes with the king and makes the balance of the tricks.

This forcing of discards is the so-called "squeeze" play and, as both A and B were forced to discard, it is a good example of the "double squeeze."

Hearts are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win six of the seven tricks against any defense?

Solution: Z should lead the queen of diamonds and trump in Y's hand with the jack of hearts. A should discard the four of spades and B follows suit. Y should now lead the six of hearts, B should play the seven and Z the ten. A should discard the nine of clubs. Z should now lead the king of hearts and A is again forced to discard. He cannot discard a club or Z will lead a low club, place A in the lead and thus force him to lead a spade. Y will win two spade tricks, on which Z will discard one diamond and one club Y will then lead a club, which Z will win. On the third trick, therefore, A is forced to discard the nine of spades. Y should discard a club. Z should now lead the six of diamonds. A's discard is immaterial. Y should discard his last club and B must win the trick. As B has nothing but spades left in his hand he must lead spades up to Y, who thus wins the rest of the tricks.

Atoms Weighed In 2-Ton Scales

New Scientific Instrument Records Minute Particles

New York, N.Y.—Completion of a two-ton scales which weighs single atoms at the Bartol Foundation, Swarthmore, Penn., is announced by the American Institution of Physics. An atom weighs about one sextillionth of an ounce. Yet this invisible bit of matter swings the pointer of the new scientific instrument about half an inch, as much as flopping a pound or more of meat upon a butcher's scales.

The pointer is a stream of electrified atoms, called ions, shot out of a vacuum tube into a magnetic field between two immense magnets, whose size accounts for the great weight of the scales. It works like the spray of a fountain. The atoms rise into the magnetic field, curve over to one side and fall straight down. They are caught on a photographic plate.

The heavier particles shoot higher and curve wider, so that they fall farther out. Thus a "fat" atom will land farther out on the sensitized plate than a "lean" one. Each one will leave a black mark where he strikes. The distances between these black marks shows the varying atom weights just like the lines on the butcher's scales.

Whether there are "fat" and "lean" atoms is not certain, but the differences in weight have been proven beyond a doubt. The latest was discovery of hydrogen twice as heavy as ordinary. Several kinds of gold atoms have been found. The scientific term for the weight differences is isotopes. The fat and lean weights all are due to differences in the composition of the nucleus of the atom. The discovery of these differences and their actual weighing is one of the world-wide scientific plans for breaking into this baffling nucleus. Out of it is expected a pandora's box of tricks, useful rather than pesky. One is hope for power to operate engines, another more and better synthetic products, and the oldest dream of all—alchemy.

London Fog Eats Stone In Cleopatra Monument

London—Cleopatra's Needle, famed landmark on the Thames embankment is crumbling away. The monument stood 3,000 years in Egypt's sunshine, where Cleopatra saw it and Moses may have known it, but fifty years of London's fog and damp have been too much.

Sulphuric acid, which forms in the air when chimney smoke mixes with fog, eats into the stone. Plans to save it include a suggestion that it be given a monthly bath with fresh water.

The greatest evils are from within us, and from ourselves also we must look for our greatest good.—Jeremy Taylor.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick Tells How Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Made Her Well.

Can Now Run Upstairs.

"I became run-down and unable to do my work for a family of seven," writes Mrs. W. P. Fitzpatrick, Marquis, Sask. "I was told I had anaemia, and I took treatment, but with very little improvement. Finally my sister, who had had the same disease, advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they had done her so much good. I have taken seven boxes. Today I'm well; able to do my own work; no more tired feeling or weak spells. I can run upstairs without puffing. I sleep and eat well. My friends are astonished at my changed appearance and never fail to ask what I'm taking. My reply is: 'Dr. Williams' Pink Pills'."

Soviet Peasants Reported In Need in Grain Shortage

Riga, Latvia—Reports from Miscow say that 40,000,000 Russian peasants, affected by a failure of the harvest in various parts of Russia last fall, will require food relief, with a resulting interference to the Soviet government's spring grain program.

In the Ukraine in particular the backwardness of preparations for the spring sowing is causing anxiety, the reports said, with not more than half of the grain required for sowing now read. Joseph Stalin ordered 1,000,000 tons of grain sent to the distressed regions last month, the reports added.

Tired? Well, what of that?
Did'st fancy life was spent on beds of ease,
Fluttering the rose leaves scattered by the breeze?
Come, rouse thee! Work while it is called to-day!
Coward, arise! Go forth upon they way.

Dark? Well, what of that?
Did'st fondly dream the sun would never set?
Dost fear to lose thy way? Take courage yet!
Learn thou to walk by faith and not by sight;
Thy steps will guided be, and guided right.

"I could make a lightning change," a girl told her boy friend who had, according to Brushville Betty, waited an hour and a half, "but I would look like thunder."

Here's a good one from the lips of a well-known merchant: "The sale is never closed until the customer is so well satisfied that he tries to sell the product to some one else."

Daughter—"Did you have many love affairs, daddy dear?"

Soldier Daddy—"No, child; I fell in the first engagement."

"Banquet is a good enough word in its place," according to Ambrose Bierce in his "Write It Right," "but its place is the dictionary."

Archibald — "Won't you ever look with favor upon my suit?"

Annabelle—"I didn't want to appear rude, but it looks to me as if it needs cleaning and pressing."

A teacher was trying to develop the word "sleigh."

The Teacher—"Now, Jimmie, what is it that comes along on runners?"

Little Jimmie—"Rum."

Hubby—"I never could understand why you women wear furs in summer."

Wife—"Good heartedness, dear—it's a time when the animal don't need them."

Jojan was hanging over the stern-rail. Very rough sea. Came the disgustingly healthy person to torture the less fortunate:

Healthy Person (booming with joy) —"Not sick, are you, Jojan, old man?"

Jojan (weakly but with spirit)—"No, I'm not sick at all. I'm just looking over the back of the boat to see how the captain cranks it."

The best way for a young man who is without friends or influence to begin is: First, to get a position; Second, to keep his mouth shut; Third, Observe; Fourth, be faithful; Fifth, make his employer feel he would be lost in the fog without him; Sixth, be polite.

John—"Sam, I hear you've been sick."

Sam—"Yeah, but when the doctor told me it wasn't asthma I breathed a lot easier."

Seems to be fewer artificial blondes around nowadays, and maybe the reason is they have seen those two books: "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," "But They Marry Brunettes."

101 Towns Back 5-Year Plan To Landscape Western Texas

Dallas, Tex.—With a "five-year plan" all its own, west Texas has undertaken an ambitious landscaping plan involving 160,000 of the state's 262,117 square miles.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce, enlisting the assistance of 101 affiliated towns, has retained a landscape architect to direct the work of transformation. Plants and trees will be ordered jointly by the cities at wholesale prices. Five varieties of shade trees have been recommended by the Texas forestry service as suitable for planting—the Chinese elm, green ash, American elm, silvery maple and honey locust.
