Dick Brummage, the young Englishman who left his home in Derby, Eng., on the 1st of June, 1900, to walk around the world, was in Meaford on Tuesday forenoon and made a short call at the Mirror office. Brummage, who will be thirty years of age on the 1st of November next, expects to complete his trip in 11 weeks, when he will return to his home in England. He has travelled through every country in the world except Siberia, where he was refused a passport. He was all through the Holy Land, visiting the tomb of Christ, the tombs of the ancient kings, Mount of Olives, Jacob's well, the Sphynx and the pyramids. In India he was attacked by malarial fever, from which his recovery was at one time considered doubtful. Brummage is not making the trip as the result of any wager, but rather in the way of amusement and education. In his school days he was somewhat of an athlete, and one day he and one of his chums agreed to start out on a trip around the world. His chum, however, backed out when they got as far as Germany. The trip, Brummage says, has had its hardships and privations as well as its pleasures. While he has had difficulties to contend with he has everywhere met with courtesy and kindness from the representatives of the press, as well as from public officials to whom he has been introduced. When he arrived in Meaford he had completed 32,850 miles of the trip, mostly on foot. Canada is the last country he is visiting. He left home with only a shilling in his pocket, but has managed to pay his way by delivering lectures for voluntary contributions, and writing a descriptive account of his trip every few days for a weekly paper in England. In addition to these contributions he has "notes by the way" which he claims he could readily dispose of to Old Country publishers for $40,000, but which he is thinking of having published in book form under the title of "Brummage's Travels Abroad." Brummage left here shortly before noon for Owen Sound, where he expected to deliver a lecture last evening under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Since starting out on his trip he has worn out 62 pairs of shoes and says he will soon need another pair.—Meaford Mirror.

A Remedy Without a Peer

"I find Chamberlains Stomach and Liver Tablets more beneficial than any other remedy I ever used for stomach trouble," says J. F. Klote, of Edma, Mo. For any disorder of the stomach, biliousness or constipation, these Tablets are without a peer. For sale by W. E. Richardson.

In conversation with a former member of the Bruce County Council he informed us that while in a pedlars supply house in Toronto, and needing some grey blankets, he asked the price of some he saw in stock. The actual wholesale price of such blankets was thirty-two cents a pound, but the sales man said the price was twenty cents a pound—"But" said the salesman, "I would not advise you to buy them—we keep them for the pedlars; they were used in an isolation hospital and disinfected, but it is scarcely safe to depend too much on disinfection." That salesman was honest but still his employer would sell those blankets. He bought them to sell, and he knew where he could get his customers. Our informant declined to run the chance of spreading contagious disease in his home locality—the pedlar took the stock, and if the facts were known we might be able to account for the origin of some mysterious disease. Filth and disease are frequently spread by the foreigners who prefer to go from house to house to house with their packs, rather than do an honest day's work.—Chesley Enterprise.

The Paisley Advocate says: One of the most remarkable incidents we have yet heard of in medical practice is that related by Dr. Black this week. A gentleman came to him on Thursday asking advice and treatment for throat trouble. About the first thing the doctor's eye fell upon as he pressed the back of the patient's tongue down to get a look into his throat was the white gleam of a pair of teeth in that out-of-the-way location. Hardly knowing whether to be serious or facetious the Dr. asked his patient if he ever had false teeth. Upon receiving a very short affirmative reply, his next question was, as to whether the teeth had been lost. Again the answer was in the affirmative, and the doctor thereupon wanted to know what reward would be given for finding them. A few moments later hooked forceps were reached in, and a lusty pull brought forth the missing teeth and plate, still intact. The patient's countenance assumed a mixed expression of amazement, delight and relief, as he gazed upon the lost, found molars. He went home cured and happy, wearing in his mouth the teeth that had been hunted for, high and low. Unless the patient's name had been given, it would be impossible to believe the story to be anything but fictitious.

Three Jurors Cured.

Of Cholera Morbus with One Small Bottle Of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr. G. W. Fowler of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Clebourne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some souse meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drugstore for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us." For sale by W. E. Richardson.

PSYCHINE

HAS TRIUMPHED OVER AND VANQUISHED CONSUMPTION

Had Galloping Consumption

Twelve Years Ago—Lives To-day Through Using Psychine.

"It is twelve years ago since Psychine cured me of galloping consumption. I caught the cold working as fireman on the C.P.R. The doctors said there was no hope for me. I had Night Sweats, Chills and Fever, and frequently coughed pieces of my lungs. I was fast sinking away. Was advised to try Psychine and two months treatment put me right on my feet again. Have had no return of lung trouble since Psychine saved me. To-day I work on my farm near here. I am six feet tall and weigh over 175 pounds. Use my testimonial and photo if you so desire."

Aug. 27th, '04. A. E. MUMFORD.

PSYCHINE is pronounced SI-KEEN.

For sale by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. For further advice or information write or call at Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited, 179 King St. West, Toronto, Canada.

When in town give us a call

Archie McNee, President of the Canadian Press Association, while on the annual outing of the above organization, related the following story: Two of his Scotch friends, Sandy and Donald, came to town one day, and after attending to their personal business, prior to leaving for home. Sandy invited Donald to have a drink of pure hot Scotch. Sandy being of a religious turn of mind and believing sincerely that whether we eat or drink, we should do so to the glory of the Great Father, closed his eyes and fervently asked the Lord's Blessing on the whiskey,—but when he turned to appropriate the cup of blessing, he found it empty, and Donald saluted him thus. "Sandy, the good Book tells us to both watch and pray, and you have been negligent in your duty."

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Aids Nature.

Medicines that aid nature are always most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy act on this plan. It allays the cough, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions, and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by W. E. Richardson.

A remarkable incident is reported from Penetang. A horse put his tongue out at his stable companion through a hole in the side of the stall. The other animal bit the tongue so seriously that the stricken horse had to be shot.

Cured of Lame Back After 15 Years of Suffering.

"I had been troubled with lame back for fifteen years and I found a complete relief in the use of Chamberlain's Pain Balm," says John G. Fisher, Gillam, Ind. This liniment is also without an equal for sprains and bruises. It is for sale by W. E. Richardson.
