An Old-Time Burial.

The Algoma Conservator gives the account of a trial which took place in the Township of Arthur, County of Wellington, many years ago. The Township of Normandy, County of Grey, adjoins Arthur in the north. A cemetery in the Township of Arthur had been opened some ten years before, the people in both townships taking plots, but there was only a few who had paid, and the wardens of the church decided that no more burials were to be made until those parties cashed up. An old lady in Normanby died, but when her friends went to dig the grave they were refused admittance until they paid up. Those were the Arthur Township people.

The Normanby people heard this and they were very indignant. The news spread rapidly over that country and the funeral was the largest that had ever been seen in the section for years. The Arthur people sent word for those interested not to come there with the corpse if the debt was not paid. The Normanby people decided they would go there and bury the corpse and that they would not pay the debt.

W. H. Ryan, a J. P., known as the "King of Normanby" headed the procession. He was a big, burly Irishman. He headed the procession with an Irish black thorn stick in his hand. The indignation was great. When they arrived at the cemetery they found a crowd on the other side who were not so large in numbers, but were as equally determined in an opposite direction.

When the Normanby people asked for the gate to be opened they were refused and one of the wardens told them what the consequences would be if they attempted to trespass. Ryan told the warden they would plant the corpse and gave him ten minutes to open the gate. The gate did not open. Those inside were armed with sticks. Ryan who had previously had some military training, organized his forces and headed the crowd with a moderately sized fence rail, and then shouted in his stentorian voice: "Men of Normanby, forward!"

They cleared the fence at the first dash They mowed a road through the crowd, formed a circle, dug the grave, said the last sad rites and filled up the grave. Then Ryan, with the rail on his shoulder shouted: "Normanby, fall in; Normanby march," and the funeral was over.—Farmers' Sun.

You Are Ailing.

Not quite sick, but robbed of ambition to work—find it hard to think clearly. Not ill enough to think of dying, but bad enough for life to be pretty dull. There is a remedy—Ferrozone—that quickly lifts that half dead feeling. Gracious, but Ferrozone makes you feel good; it sharpens the dullest appetite, makes it as keen as a razor.

Blood? Ferrozone makes lots of it, the rich nourishing kind that vitalizes the whole body. You'll be wonderfully quickened, immensely strengthened, feel hearty and vigorous after using Ferrozone. Buoyant health, surplus vigor and reserve energy all come from this great restorative. Fifty cents buys a box of fifty tablets at all dealers.

Among the curiosities on the show grounds at the Guelph Central Exhibition was a colt, two months old, exhibited by Messrs. Doyle and Turner, Grand Valley. It has three jaws and two tongues. It seems healthy and likely to live; it feeds fairly well.—Star

THIS BOY CURED

Mrs. A. O. Fisher's Recent Statement:

November, 1902, my son Lauren, was taken down with Pneumonia. Two physicians in town attended him. He lay for three months almost like a dead child. His lungs became so swollen that his heart was pressed over to the right side. Altogether I think we paid $140 to the doctors, and all the time he was getting worse. We commenced the Dr. Slocum treatment. The effect was wonderful. We saw a difference in two days. Our boy is well and strong now and able to enjoy life to the full, and has not taken a drop of medicine since that time.
