Industrial Home Notes

(By an Inmate)

A few weeks ago we announced a record in the number of outside attendants at our divine service, but the attendance on Sunday the 24th ult outnumbered the previous meeting, a dozen or more chairs being crowded into the room and still a number of worshippers had to stand in the corridor. It was neither the introduction of the organ or the performance of the blind organist that was the occasion of drawing so large an attendance as no previous announcement of either had been made but we simply beleive that it is the increasing interest being taken in our nonsectarian services that was the real cause. Mr. Ennis, of Markdale, in his usual able manner conducted the service throughout, delivering a powerful discourse from Matt. 5, 13 Deliver us from evil. Mrs. Simmonds, the blind inmate, presided at the organ; the singing by the congregation was spirited and pleasing. Miss Smith, of Markdale, presided at the organ during the after service and is an efficient organist for all ordinary purposes, as well as being possessed with a strong, clear voice. One of the principal features of the after service was the rendition of that beautifully pathetic hymn "The old fashioned family Bible," by Mrs. Simmonds, accompanying herself on her favorite accordeon which she handles effectively. The aged, yet apparently youthful, clear voice of the singer, swelling from beneath those life-long sightless eyes, seemed to penetrate the hearts of the audience and stir the tender emotions of many, as if calling to memory some cherished reminiscence of years long gone by. It is intended that on some future occasion the old lady is to take part in the service by reading the lessons from her raised type Bible. When conversing with your correspondent, the old lady regreted that she did not do better on the organ, but, said she, "the key-board felt so strangely different to my own little melodeon." I assured her that it was my impression that everybody thought she did remarkably well under the circumstances. And so she did.

Mr. Editor, we believe that many people are under the impression that the inmates of this institution are not well treated generally as well as being underfed. When out on a couple of weeks leave in July last your correspondent was asked by different parties if such was the case. To such enquiries he could only give an emphatic denial. Again a few days ago your scribe was informed that such a report had been scattered broadcast in his neighborhood by one who had been an inmate. Even later, one of the inmates, whose veracity is unquestionable was interrogated on the same subject when in Markdale, and your correspondent feels it his duty to give his emphatic denial to all such scurrilous reports and desires to dispel from the minds of the public any such impressions by laying before them the following daily bill of fare, which speaks for itself, viz: Breakfast, oat or wheat meal porridge and milk bread, butter and good tea. Dinner, fresh meat, potatoes, well seasoned soup, and bread with either rice or tapioca pudding, or dumplings at least three times a week. Supper, boiled bread and milk (generally) bread, tea, applesauce or other preserves and golden syrup. Although your scribe has never been in the dining room (his infirmity necessitating the bringing of his meals to him) yet he frequently hears rappings on the table to replenish plates of bread, etc., which at once tells him that no one is allowanced, and he has yet to learn that anyone was ever refused when applying for more. In regard to the first instance, in all such institutions there are always to be found those who think themselves badly used if they are not petted, pitied and patted on the cheek like children, they think they ought to sit in Morriss chair from morning till night to be waited upon at every call, just because they are getting old and the ratepayers pay for their keep. Others again grumble and growl because they do not get venison, fresh fish and all sorts of luxuries and yet at the same time they would not know how to use a table napkin or perhaps they have many a time fared sumptously on potatoes and salt. This is the class that are generally numbered among the discontented, but how many of them will ask themselves, how came I to be here? whose fault was it? They dare not ask the question—they are afraid of the echo. No Sir, the inmates of this institution have never been underfed or ill treated. Had such been the case your cor would have been just as fearless in informing the public of the facts as he has been zealous in the praise of the institution and its management.

Mrs. James Smith of Bentinck, was admitted to the Home on Sat. 30th.

The management respectfully requests that in the case of strange ministers of the gospel visiting the Home, they will kindly make themselves known to the managers or members of the staff in attendance, prior to being shown through the building. The reason is obvious.

On Wednesday last county councillor R. L. Frost, wife and four children, of Owen Sound, accompanied by Miss Wardell, of Toronto, spent the day with Mr Harness and family. These ladies and gentlemen are highly esteemed friends of the governor and matron and for many years made it a point to spend a day each year with the family. They all returned to the Sound on the night train. The councillor treated the inmates to a basket of peaches. Many thanks, kind Sir.

On Wednesday last your cor. had the pleasure of spending the afternoon in the Markdale Standard printing office. Notwithstanding the busy bee-hive appearance of the sanctum the courteous editor and proprietor, C. W. Rutledge, Esq., did not fail to explain to your scribe the process of running his press, it's printing capacity and the method of labelling, bunching, mailing and distributing, etc. As it was printing day and as operations were in full swing your cor. availed himself of the opportunity of closely watching every operation While doing so, the days of more than half a century were vividly revived, when as a boy he watched similar operations on a similar revolving press, but turned by hand instead of a gasoline engine, as in this case, in the Chronicle office of his native English city. How rapidly has time passe away and what wonderful have taken place in the last century.

Rev. Mr. Roach of Priceville and a lady friend visited the home on Thursday last. Geo. Campbell, Stone's line, was also a visitor that day.

Miss Robinson of the staff took in the Flesherton show and says it was good.

The large table in the men's day room will soon be getting bow legged with the increasing weight of unread literature. We would like to exchange some of the inmates for others more appreciative of the gifts of a generous public.

Valuable Advic To Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of grippe, sore throat, or sickness of any kind, get out your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Nerviline, which has been the great family remedy in Canada for the past fifty years. Try a 25c. bottle of Nerviline.

"Worn Out" People

—Don't neglect the first symptoms. Oftentimes the irritating cough, the insipid cold, the listless and languid feeling, are due to a weak state of the system. It is a sure sign of breakdown. Nothing else will put you right so quickly and effectively as "PSYCHINE." If you feel "worn out," it is time for a tonic, a real tonic. There is only one really good tonic. It is "PSYCHINE." Keep a bottle handy—never be without it. It tones up the system and restores your old time vitality. Ask your druggist about it.
