Industrial Home Notes

(By an Inmate)

Jonn McIntyre, referre to in last week's report, passed quietly away at 2 15 a. m on Wednesday last. His sufferings had been intense, his death was a happy release to himself and a relief to those who had attended him. The burial service was read by the Rev. J. S. I. Wilson at the home prior to the removal of the remains to the Markdale cemetry, on Thursday morning. A couple of his relatives came, intending to be at the funeral but were too late.

The sudden change from warm to winter like weather makes some of the old fellows closely hug the radiator, and none more so than old D. F., who, by the way gabbles away from morn till eve, much after the fashion of a Galway goose and just about as intelligibly. His mainspring is long and strong, when once wound up it takes a long time to run down, and his audience frequently consists of his walking stick and a half-bewildered reporter, the remainder of the assembly finding relief in nodland.

Neither the rapid strides of science and invention of the last half century, nor the advanced educational system of the last decade or two has succeeded in eradicating from the minds of many in this enlightened twentieth century, the superstitions of the dark ages. There are those to be found to day whose faith in witchcraft and the evil eye, is as deep seated as that of their forefathers two centuries ago; to wit: the assistant dairy man, late hospital sergeant of this home, not only believes in the sun dancing and the asses in Ire'and braying with joy every Easter morning, but his faith in witchery is equally deep rooted. While engaged churning the other day the butter was rather tedious in making its appearance. One of the old ladies had occasion to pass by a couple of times during the process and he vehemently attributed the cause to the fact that she had cast evil glances at the churn and himself and bewitched the butter, be dad. His irascibility did not reach its zenith however, until an old fellow (a Lowland Scotchman) passed by carrying a scuttle of coals to the kitchen range. That was the cap sheaf of his indignation. He vows by all the crasses in a yard of Scotch plaid, that he'll aiver churn agin whin there's anny ould weemin or coal haivers around.

The Divine service on Sunday was not so largely attended as on previous occasions, owing no doubt to the inclement weather, nevertheless it was an enjoyable and impressive service, conducted jointly by Messrs. Ennis and Harness. The latter had no abstract text but delivered a direct and impressive discourse from the 78th Psalm and dealt largely on the murmurings and disobedience of the children of Israel when journeying in the wilderness which he compared with the murmurings and disontent of the Israelites of the present day. The discourse was a forceful one and it is to be hoped that it will be engraved in the minds of all who heard it and have good effect on all to whom it may apply.

The change in the weather put a temporary stop to root-raising. Beets and mangolds were an exceptionally good crop. Mr. H. showed your cor. a couple of sugar beets whose united weight was 34 pounds, their dimensions are: length, 18 and 15 inches, circumference, 26 and 22 inches, weight, 18½ and 15½ lbs. Quite a number of the crop are of similar dimensions and we are informed that a few, since raised, are even larger. We do not think the turnips will be quite so good as last year. They appear to have been stricken with a blight lately, but still there is a fair crop.

Eugenia

Thanksgiving service will be held in the Methodist church Sunday evening next.

A very pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mr. Simon McAllum, Eugenia, on Oct. 18, when her son, Alexander, was united in marriage to Miss Mamie Teeter, of Vandeleur. Rev. L. W. Thom tied the bridal knot. Miss Teeter, of Erin, acted as bridesmaid and Mr. Laurie Munshaw, of Markdale, assisted the groom. As the young couple are so well known and very highly respected the congratulations of a large circle of friend is extended to them

Mr. and Mrs David Parliment of Paisley are visiting their daughter, Mrs. T. E. Fenwick, at present.

Mr. Reesor of the Electric Power Company has gone to Algoma on a hunting trip for a couple of weeks.

Mr. Munshaw starts on Monday next for Muskoka to shoot the fallow deer and enjoy life in the wilds for a few weeks.

Mr. Duckett had a loss of one of his horses the past week from inflammation Mr. Ike Smith of the Collingwood gravel had a fine young mare die from the same cause last week.

A Judicious Inquiry

A well known travelling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or an adult, and if for a child they almost invariably reccommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale by W. E. Richardson.

Portlaw

Rev. Mr. Wass has been conducting special meetings in Mt. Zion church for some time past.

J. H. Watson, who was severely injured by a fall, is slowly improving, although still requiring to use crutches.

William and James McLellan left last week for Tobermorey, where they expect to remain for the winter.

Mrs. James Hill has had her residence veneered with brick, which gives it a handsome appearance.

Robert McMaster has sold his farm, 3rd line, Osprey, to James Linton and William Russel.

Frank Blakie has gone to Uxbridge to join his wife, who is visiting at her parental home there and is in a delicate state of health.

The Artemesia Sabbath School Ass'n held their quarterly convention, Monday evening of last week in the Orange hall, 4th line. The attendance was fair.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. For sale by W. E. Richardson.

Thanksgiving service will be held in the Methodist church here on Sunday next, 10.30 a. m.

The Montreal Herald in a New Form.

The special and exclusive clubbing arrangement which we have made with The Weekly Montreal Herald promises to be even a more attractive proposition to our readers than we anticipated. With the issue of last week The Herald was enlarged to a seven column page, thus giving room for a large increase in both reading matter and illustrations. The editors have taken full advantage of their new opportunities and several important features appear in the enlarged Herald.

Prominent among these is an illustrated page for women, conducted by Marion Harland, whose name is so well known the continent over through her contributions to the Ladies' Home Journal and through her writings and lectures on cookery and other household topics.

Another departure in the Herald is Children's page profusely illustrated. In fact, a great portion of the added space is devoted to illustrations, the centenary of Nelson's death calling forth some excellent views.

The serial and short stories in the Herald are sure to attract thousands of readers. In fact the whole paper is of a character to make our joint clubbing offer by all odds the best ever made and one that should not be neglected. Remember The Montreal Herald and The Advance from now until the end of 1906 for only one dollar.

Largest Organ In the Body.

Is the liver. Small wonder that liver trouble makes you feel so miserable. The symptoms are constipation, dizziness, indigestion, headache, feeling of depression and lack of appetite.

There is but one sure cure,—Dr. Hamilton's Pills. In every case they are successful. By trying on Dr. Hamilton's Pills you are sure of strong vitality, nourishing blood, bright cheery spirits. No longer will you suffer from disordered liver or kidneys. The marvel of this medicine is that it keeps you well—prevents and wards off disease of every kind. 25c. per box everywhere.

Two Clifford young men, Charles Grisch and James Fisher, are in Guelph jail on a very serious charge made by two Ayton girls, who struck up an aquaintance with them at the Clifford fair and who started to drive home with the young men. Judge Chadwick said he had no jurisdiction to try such a serious charge, and the two were remanded to jail. Whatever the outcome of the scandal, it has lessons for young people in this day of liberty.—Confederate.

A man told us the other day that we did not publish all the things that happened. We should say not. In the first place there is somebody depending on us for a living. If we print all that happened we would soon be with the angels. In order to please the people we must print only the nice things said of them and leave the rest to gossip. Yes, it's a fact, we don't publish all the news. If we did wouldn't it make spicy reading? But it would be for one week only; the next week you would read our obituary--in some other paper. All the news is all right when it's about the other fellow.—Elmore Gazette.

The Youth's Companion In 1906.

During 1906 The Youths Companion will publish in 52 weekly issues serial stories, each a book in itself, reflecting American life in home, camp and field.

7

50
special articles contributed by famous men and women—travellers, essayists, soldiers, sailors, statesmen and men of affairs.

200
thoughtful and timely editorial articles on important public and domestic questions.

250
complete stories by the best of living story-writers—stories of character, stories of achievement, stories of humor.

1000
notes on current events and discoveries in the field of science and natural history.

2000
bright and amusing anecdotes, items of strange and curious knowledge, poems and sketches.

This is what THE COMPANION offers its readers during 1906. And the quality of it is fully equal to the quantity. The paper is interesting without being sensational, bright without being flashy, elevating and strengthening without being prosy—a paper for every member of the family.

A full Announcement of the new volume will be sent with sample copies of the paper to any address on request. The new subscribes for 1906 who sends $1.75 for the new volume at once, will receive free all the remaining issues for 1905, including the Double Holiday Numbers; also THE COMPANION'S "Minuteman" Calender for 1906, lithographed in twelve colors and gold.

Medical practitioners who fail to see how they are under any obligation to the state are continuing to give trouble over the registration of deaths and births, and some, it is said, have gone so far as to openly defy the provisions of the Act and refuse to send any notification to the municipalities. The latter are being asked by the Government to furnish names of doctors who are taking this attitude, with a view to finding means to have the law enforced. The act requires the doctor or other persons present at the event, to notify the municipal clerk immediately of deaths and births. In case of the latter the parent must, within thirty days, give the child a name, which may, however, be changed on the official record any time within 10 years.

The hospital for sick children at Toronto will receive a contribution of nine or ten dollars as the result of success of a new departure in connection with the Chatsworth fair which was conceived by the members of the local branch of the Women's Institute. The ladies secured a section in the hall, which they attractively decorated, and in which a counter was erected. Over the counter lunch of first quality was served at reasonable price, and the patronage was generous. The edibles were the free contributions of the members of the institute and several others who volunteered to assist in the commendable undertaking. The institute also assisted the fair by contributing three special prizes for the writing competition open to schoolchildren. The entries were numerous and the competition keen.—Banner.

The blind horse and a lantern, by an accident on Wednesday, caused a loss of $1200 or more to Mr. Thomas Charlton. He went to his barn, which is about a mile south of Chatsworth, about nine o'clock to turn his horses out after feeding. One horse was released and passed out, but the second, which was blind, from some cause made a sudden forward movement and crowded Mr. C. and the lantern he carried against the partition, the former falling and the latter breaking, and in an instant the straw was burning, and the efforts of the owner to smother the flames with his jacket proved unavailing. The building, together with hay and grain, were destroyed.—Banner.
