F. T. HILL & CO.

TIMELY ADDITION TO OUR ALREADY VERY LARGE STORE

In order to keep pace with our very large and increasing trade, we have again added to the selling space of our store. This time we have taken in and fitted in and up-to-date manner the second flat of our building. This large additional room we are devoting entirely to Crockery and Glassware, Carpets and Linoleums, and purpose carrying the largest and most up- to-date stockof these lines to be found outside the large cities. This means increased selling, lower prices and better facilities for showing tc meet the approval of our customers. Remember when next visiting the store be sure and inspect the new department.

New Winter Furs on Exhibition

Never before have we had the pleasure of showing such an extensive range of Ladies' and Gentlemen's Furs. Never were our values better for up to date styles. When you are thinking of your requirements for the cold weather in the fur lines be sure and see our large and well assorted stock of—

Ladies' Stoles and Ruffs in the different fur values	95c to 12.50
Ladies' Caperines, now so popular, and the price	1.25 to 15.00

Temperance In Owen Sound.

(From the Toronto Star.)

"The hotelmen of Owen Sound are shaking in their boots over the move of the temperance people up there," said Mr. F. J. Shipman, formerly of the Seldon House, one of the two hotels purchased by the temperance element of Owen Sound. Mr. Shipman was at the Rossin House to day.

"This simply is the first vigorous step toward a local option vote at the municipal election in January, and those who are still in the business are afraid of the result. The temperance people up there have, according to their own report, $175,000 to expend in buying hotels. If they have, the situation, to say the least, is acute."

The action of the Owen Sound temperance is unique. In July they accepted an opportunity to purchase the Seldon House from Mr. Shipman for $38,000. They secured the license, good-will, and all the rest of the definite and indefinite things which go to make up the price of an hotel in Ontario, and when they obtained possession, a week or so ago, closed up the bar, and are now running it as a temperance house.

Where did the money come from?" Mr. Shipman was asked.

"The amount was subsribed by a list of people ten feet long," he replied. The subscription list altogether includes amounts from about one dollar up to several hundred. Everybody interested in the temperance movement is in. They paid me in cash but I understand that another man has a mortgage for $20,000 on the place. The place was purchased from me originally by Messrs. J. P. Raven and Leggett. Raven wanted to maintain the bar, but Leggett would not hear of it, and the result of the split was that Raven, who had put in $2,500, was given $3,500 to drop out, and he accepted it. His place was taken by Miss Doyle, one of the strongest temperance women in the town.

"The temperance people are just running my hotel with the object of showing that a temperance place can be run at a profit, in order that they can use this as a good argument for local option. They will sink all the money they have on that subscription list before they make a dividend-paying proposition out of it. I expect that the temperance people will go ahead and buy out other properties. The idea is spreading in the north country, and I would not be surprised to see other towns up there follow suit. Neither would I be surprised to see local option carry in Owen Sound.

Potato Rot.

The November, 1904, crop bulletin of the Ontario Bureau of Industries stated that considerable rot had appeared on potatoes, especially where the crop was grown on heavy soils or on low-lying land. The extent of the loss was variously estimated at from 20 to 50 per cent. This "soft" or "wet" rot is quite distinct from so-called "blight." At first sight the potato appears to be sound, but on examination the skin over certain areas is found to be discolored and on pressure, the part beneath is soft. On breaking the skin a turbid liquid can be pressed out. This liquid may contain gas bubbles and turns black on exposure to air. The skin from affected parts easily peels away and the newly-exposed flesh is watery and white but soon discolors in the air, becoming almost black. Later, the flesh softens to a white pulp and becomes highly offensive, with a putrefactive odor. Finally, the potato becomes a mass of black soft pulp.

The stem of the poratoes may or may not be affected. In the former case the base of the stems becomes discolored or black, then the leaves about wilt, and the entire stem falls over. If a piece of diseased stem is cut open, the fibrous strands in it (the fibrovascular bundles) will be found brown to black in color.

The cause of the "Blight" which particularly affects the leaves, is a fungus, and the Bordeau mixture properly made and applied will hold this disease in check but the wet or soft rot cannot be managed by spraying with this mixture, because the disease is present in the roots and tubers and hence, cannot be got at. The cause of the "Rot" disease is a bacterium, a minute rod about 1-20,000 of an inch long, which grows with great rapidity in the tissues of the potato and secretes a substance which has a dissolving action on the cell walls which hold the starch and other contents of the cell in place. When those cell walls are destroyed the potato becomes watery and soft, putrefaction sets in and the tuber is destroyed.

The Bacteriological Department of the Ontario Agricultural College, which has been studying the disease for the last year, would like to ascertain if the disease in various parts of Ontario is similar to the one with which it has been working, and which caused so much damage last year, and would like farmers troubled with this disease, to mail an affected potato and state at the same time if they were troubled with the soft or wet rot last year and to what extent the rot is present in the present season's crop.

How to Cure Corns and Bunions

First, soak the corn or bunion in warm water to soften it; then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing blood and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily, rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application A corn plaster should be worn a few days to protect it from the shoe. As a general liniment for sprains, bruises, lameness and rheumatism, Pain Balm is unequalled. For sale by W. E. Richardson.

An Unpredecented Offer.

Two papers for the price of one is the liberal offer we are able to make our readers by reason of a special arrangement we have completed with the publishers of The Montreal Herald, which enables us to offer that fine family paper and The Advance at ONE DOLLAR for the two. The Montreal Herald was established in 1808, and although the second oldest journal in Canada, possesses all the vigor of youth. It is essentially a paper for the home, paying especial attention to subjects that interest and entertain the various members of the household. One of its best features is the high class fiction which it gives in abounding measure. Two complete stories are printed each week—at present the celebrated copyrighted Sherlock Holmes stories, by Sir A. Conan Doyle, being the special feature The ladies of the family will find a rich budget of reading matter every week, while the farmer has several pages devoted to his especial interests Altogether the Montreal Herald is a paper we can unhesitatingly recommend to our readers and the offer we make in connection with it is unprecedentedly liberal.
