Could Not Turn Her Head

Her Body Had to Turn With it

Tortured By Muscular Rheumatism

An ounce of help is worth a ton of pity. It was to this woman. Many friends pitied her. But one gave her a word of advice. After that word of advice she was no longer an object of pity.

She writes:—"I suffered with muscular rheumatism in the neck—it was torture. I spent quite a large sum of money in trying certain treatments and medicines, but could get no relief. I could not turn my head round when I wanted to—I had to turn my body as well. My friends all pitied me. Then one advised me to try Kruschen Salts, which I did. And in six months I was a different woman. Now if I feel the least twinge of rheumatism, I take a dose of wonderful Kruschen Salts, and it vanishes. I shall never fail to recommend Kruschen after what I have suffered."—Mrs. S.

Kruschen is a powerful solvent of the torturing crystals of uric acid. It swiftly dulls their sharp edges, then flushes them out of the system. Your pains ease; swellings subside, knotted joints become loose. Afterwards, the "little daily dose" of Kruschen so stimulates the liver and kidneys that regular and complete elimination is ensured. Your inside is kept clean. Mischievous uric acid never gets the chance to accumulate again.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c, and 75c per bottle.

Owl Laffs

The day is coming when the fellow who has horse sense will be considered terribly old-fashioned.

The average man who attends the movies cannot understand why the husbands of the actresses should desire to be divorced from them.

Changing Conditions

A girl may love you from the bottom of her heart, but there's always room for some other guy at the top.

Sunday-School Teacher — "William, can you tell me what we must do before we can expect forgiveness of sin?"

William—"Yes sir. We must sin."

Dumb—"Funny, how Fred is so lucky at cards and then loses his winnings at the race tracks."

Notsodumb—"Not so funny! They won't let him shuffle the horses."

A buzzard does a man much more service than a humming bird, but it isn't nearly as popular.

Wife—"The couple next door seem to be very devoted. He kisses her every time they meet. Why don't you do that?"

Husband—"I don't know her well enough yet."

Nevertheless

But for Thomas A. Edison we would not have the moving picture, the talking machine, or the telephone—but he was a great man nevertheless.

An angry telephone patron who was charged extra for a call, roared:

Telephone Patron — "Outrageous! Why, in my home city one can talk to Hades and back for ten cents."

Telephone Operator (chirping) — "No doubt. That's inside the city limits."

Wife—"Oh, I'm so sleepy. Is everything shut up for the night, dear?"

Husband—"That depends on you. Everything else is."

"My idea of a cheapskate is a person who'd reverse the charges on a long distance call to the poorhouse," said Awful Oswald, the Brushville pest, as he picked up another cigarette stub, and asked for a light.

Wife—"When I married you I did not know you were such a coward. I thought you were a brave man."

Husband—"And so did everybody else."

Convalescent (in hospital, to a friend)—"Thanks very much for the brandy peaches. Although the doctor wouldn't let me eat the peaches, I enjoyed the spirit in which they were sent."

Many people have found out that the only way to end divorce is to marry the second wife first. Before letting your conscience be your guide, it is a good idea to be sure you have one.

Polite Book Agent—"Have you a Charles Dickens in your home?"

Lady of the House (snapping) — "No."

Book Agent—"Or a Robert Louis Stevenson? Or a Eugene Field?"

Lady— No, no, we haven't, and what's more, we don't run a boarding house. If you're looking for those people, you might ask across the street."

Men who stand around waiting for something to turn up should begin with their sleeves.

Movie Director—"Can you act "

Applicant—"Act! Why on the stage last week I died so naturally my life insurance agent, who was in the audience, fainted."

Medical Examiner—"And what did your grandfather die of?"

Patient—"I don't remember, but I am sure it was nothing serious."

Too many young couples come to look upon marriage as an endurance contest.

"Do you like simple things?" "Are you proposing?"

How to play Bridge AUCTION and CONTRACT

by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

ARTICLE No. 35

With what type of hand should a player raise his partner's bid? One of the first points to notice is that no player has a justifiable raise for his partner's suit bid unless he has at least three small trumps or two to an honor. Lacking such holdings in the trump suit, a player should deny, not assist his partner's bid. Provided, however, that the player does hold at least three small trumps, he may assist his partner's bid if he holds any of the following supporting values: (first) aces, kings and queens of the other suits; (second) ability to trump some short or missing suit; (third) the fact that the supporting hand holds four or more cards of partner's suit, or three to an honor. Please note, that the values of the high cards in support of partner's best bid are very nearly double their sure trick or defensive value.

"Ability to trump some short or missing suit" is usually valued as follows:

A doubleton is worth ½ trick with 3 trumps and 1 trick with 4 trumps.

A singleton is worth 1 trick with 3 trumps and 2 tricks with 4 trumps.

A blank suit is worth 2 tricks with 3 trumps and 3 tricks with 4 trumps.

"The fact that the supporting hand holds four or more cards of partner's suit of three to an honor," is usually valued as follows:

Three small trumps	0 tricks
The ace or king	1 trick
The queen	½ trick
Four small trumps	1 trick
Four trumps headed by an honor	1 trick plus honor value
Five small trumps	1½ tricks
Five trumps headed by an honor	2 tricks

Two values must be placed on all high cards; First, their values in defense of opponents' bids. This is their sure trick value. Second, their value in support of partner's best bid. The latter valuation is much higher than their sure trick valuation because the chance that they may be trumped is less and the chances of setting up a suit much stronger. Their value as cards of re-entry is also considerable. These additional values are practically double their sure trick value.

One of the best liked members of one of the New York Card Clubs is an old Professor of Greek at one of the local universities. He has read everything that has been published on the game, but has never been able to become a good player. Every once in a while he has a bad night, and, when he does, his partners try to grin and bear it. The following hand is an illustration of the Professor's game, and is applicable either to Auction or to Contract:

Hearts—7, 5
Clubs—9, 6, 2
Diamonds—Q, 10, 2
Spades—Q, 9, 8, 5, 2

: Dummy :
: A B :
: Professor :

Hearts—K, 4
Clubs—A, Q
Diamonds—A, 8, 5, 4, 3
Spades—A, K, J, 10

The Professor's contract was five spades and A led the ace of hearts and then a low heart, which the Professor won with the king. He then took out the trumps and led a small club from dummy and finessed with his queen. The king was in A's hand, so that the Professor failed to make his contract as he subsequently lost the king of diamonds, which was also in A's hand.

After the hand was over, the Professor said to his partner, "Well, partner, if the king of clubs had been on the right side, I would have made my bid." His partner, a very good player, replied: "You could have gone game without taking the finesse. After you had taken out the opponents' trumps, you should have led a low diamond toward the queen in dummy. A had the king, so that your diamonds were set up an on the last two in your hand, you could have discarded two losing clubs in dummy." This criticism was correct and the Professor apologized for taking a finesse when it wasn't necessary. His partner was silent for a minute, and then said: "Well, Professor, it looks as if anybody can teach Greek but bridge seems to require a head."

Hearts—none

Problem

Hearts—None
Clubs—8, 5, 3
Diamonds—6, 4
Spades—Q, 8, 6

Hearts—none
Clubs—Q, 7, 2
Diamonds—7, 3
Spades—J, 7, 4

: Y :
: A B :
: Z :

Hearts—K, 8
Clubs—J, 9
Diamonds—K
Spades—5, 3, 2

Hearts—A, 10, 9
Clubs—K, 4
Diamonds—Q, J
Spades—9

There are no trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win six of the eight tricks against any defense?

Z should lead the nine of spades. If A covers with the jack, Y should play the queen and then lead the three of clubs. If A refuses to cover, Y should also play low. Y should then play the king of clubs. In either event, Z would win the second trick with the king of clubs. He should then lead the four of clubs. A can either (a) win the trick with the queen or (b) allow B to win with the jack.

(a) If A wins the trick with the queen of clubs, he can lead a club, which Y will win and lead a diamond, putting B in the lead and forcing him to lead hearts to Z's tenace or spades to Y's tenace. A can also lead a diamond, putting B in the lead with the same result. A can also lead a spade to Y's tenace. Y would win these two tricks and lead a diamond, putting B in the lead and forcing him to lead hearts to Z's tenace.

(b) If A allows B to win the third trick with the jack of Clubs, the result is the same. All B can make is the king of diamonds, so that Y Z must make six of the eight tricks against any defense.

A LITTLE ONE'S PRAYER

Lord, teach a little child to pray,
And, oh, accept my prayer.
Thou hearest all the words I say,
For Thou art everywhere.

A little sparrow cannot fall
Unnoticed, Lord, by Thee;
And though I am so young and small,
Thou carest still for me.

Teach me to do whate'er is right,
And when I sin, forgive;
And make it still my chief delight
To love Thee while I live.

WAITING

One of our severest lessons is to learn to wait. We have been so hypnotised by the popular thought of doing.—C. B. Newcombe.

Relief for That Exhausted Feeling

Happiness Came Back With Health

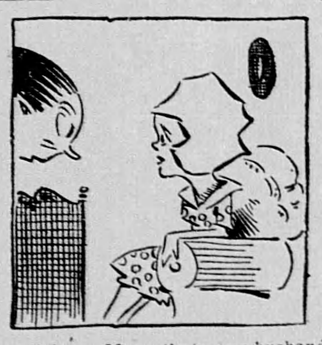
There is a relief for the drain on your vitality caused by Summer heat. Read how tired-out women and growing girls have been benefitted.

"Since taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, my daughter has lost that tired, sluggish feeling," says Mrs. Asa Dow, Port Daniel West, Que.

"Before taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was always tired. Now I am full of pep," states Doris Andrews, London, Ont.

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills built me up and put me in fine condition," asserts Mrs. James Doughty, Brantford.

Men, women and growing girls by the score write in similar high praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The Pills rebuild health by actually creating an abundance of new blood and increasing the blood cells, thereby restoring wasted tissues and revitalizing the exhausted system. Try them. At your druggist's—50c a package.



"I hear, Mary, that your husband is a golf enthusiast."

"He is, mum."

"Well, does he do good work in the links?"

"Indeed he does, mum, he is cutting grass to-day."

Self-Reliance

This is self-reliance—to repose calmly on the thought which is deepest in our bosom and be unmoved if the world will not accept it yet. To believe that what is truest in you is true for all; to abide by that certain that, while you stand firm, the world will come round to you—that is independence. It is not difficult to get away into retirement and there live upon your own convictions, nor is it difficult to mix with men, and follow their convictions. But to enter into the world, and there live firmly and fearlessly according to your own conscience—that is Christian greatness. —F. W. Robertson.

Genius

The universal genius who can manage all himself has yet to appear. Only one with the genius to recognize others of different genius and harness them to his own car can approach the "universal." It is a case of different but co-operating abilities, each part of the complicated machine fitting into its right place and there performing its duty without jarring.—Andrew Carnegie.

Manna For Zulus

Natives in Natal have been suffering badly recently, for their cattle were largely destroyed by a long period of drought. You can judge their astonishment when, one morning, they saw a great area of the veld covered with a milky white flaky substance. "Manna! Manna!" they cried, and promptly proceeded to collect it in baskets.

It was found to be sweet and pleasant to the taste and in every way like the manna described in the sixteenth chapter of Exodus. A farmer in the neighborhood who gathered some of the manna describes it as looking like small popcorn and tasting like wafers made with honey.

Manna has fallen in South Africa on a previous occasion, and scientists have endeavored to discover exactly what it is. It is believed that it originates from a kind of gum secreted in eucalyptus trees. This becomes light and dry and is blown from the trees by the wind.

Some years ago there was a fall of manna in Palestine. An expedition sent by the University of Jerusalem found that insects feeding on tamarisk trees secreted drops of honey, which on the ground turned into small white grains and flakes.

They were having a dance in one of the large towns of Texas. A cowboy, just in from the prairies, went up to the hall and entered. The master of ceremonies led him gently to the door and put him out.

The cowboy went back. The master of ceremonies seized him by the back of the neck and kicked him rudely down the stairs.

The cowboy gathered himself up slowly and, looking back at the hall, said: "I know what it means! I can take a hint. They don't want me at the dance.
