No Extra Dams For Eugenia Power

Recently rumors have been current of a hydro project for a new dam to be erected in the Beaver Valley by the Hydro Commission. We believe them to be only rumors as it is not likely that the Hydro has any intention of building a dam on the property in question. The land in question is situated by the Beaver river in the Valley. When the waters of the Beaver river were diverted in 1914 from its natural fall over the Eugenia Falls and down the valley a mill site, owned by Mr. Andrew Graham, was destroyed thereby and compensation was asked. The case has been pending since that time and only recently became active again, with the notice of exprovriation published a few weeks ago. A number of years ago a saw mill and chopping mill was in operation by the Grahams, but has not been in use for a good many years. We believe that the above is an answer to the rumors and that a dam on that property is not considered.

No High School Rate

A certain amount of relief is being given to the tax payers in Artemesia Township this year by the withdrawl of the trustees' rate. A considerable surplus is on hand at the present time which justifies the dropping of the rate for this year. This will be of great interest to most of the tax payers in the township.

AMUSING ERRORS IN PRINT

Humorous mistakes creep into every paper at some time or other. Recently the Simcoe Reformer carried this heading: "Farmers Viceless at Economic Conference." Surely that speaks well for the farmers in these days when they are driven almost to desperation by economic conditions. The Mount Forest Confederate tells this one: A week or two ago one of our esteemed correspondents sent in items describing events in connection with the leaving of a young lady, evidently to get married. There were presentations of a china tea set, and the closing remark, as it appeared in type to our proof-reader, was: "Our best dishes go with her.

The ladies of the Presbyterian Association are holding a cake sale on Saturday afternoon at Mrs. Hanley's late residence. The sale will start at 4 p.m. and a corn roast will be given at night.

Sweet Trick By Bees

Mr. D. McTavih has a real problem on his hands and hopes that some expert will send him a solution. One of the chimneys on his residence had not been in use for the past seven years. One day last week occasion was found to use it and a fire was started in a stove of which the chimney formed the smoke exit. On this occasion, however, there was a bark fire and the room was filled with smoke. The chimney would not draw. Investigation at the top disclosed the fact that a colony of honey bees had taken possession of the chimney and had probably been housed in it for several years. A stick was shoved down the chimney and it was found that there was at least six feet of comb and honey in the flue. Then honey began trickling down into the room below. The problem is, how will the little busy bees be dislodged and the chimney cleaned out. The question has not yet been answered. Come along with your suggestions.

Priceville Memorial

At a fairly well attended settling-up-meeting for the year of the Memorial Organization on Saturday last, all costs and expenditures were satisfactorily settled. Committees were appointed to look after certain improvements, in procedure, in the grounds and in the general management. A hearty vote of appreciation was passed and left in the hands of Sterctary to pass on to the various speakers who took part in the services, which Mr. McBride, our new station agent here, in a fine speech, described as the best of the many he had attended elsewhere. On motion the past year's officers were all reelected en broc, viz, W. G. Watson, President; W. W. Ramage, Secretary; Mrs. Farquhar McKinnon, Treasurer. A comfortable balance was left on hand to make contemplated improvements that may be desired. An honorarium was given the Secretary for clerical services. The meeting was held at the comfortable home of Mr. and Mrs. Aldcorn.

Are Moving Building

Work commenced on Tuesday on the moving of the old town hall from the property on Toronto street, where it has stood for the past 60 years. The removal of this building makes way for the erection of a $6,000 building to be used by both Prince Arthur Lodge No. 333, A.F.&A.M., and L. O. L. No. 2855 and other ection of the new building, which will be of brick construction, was given to Mr. H. A. McCauley of Flesherton, which will be of brick construction. This new building will add materially to the appearance of Toronto street and when completed should be a dredit to the builders and the village. We understand the old town hall building will be purchased from Mr. McCauley when it is moved on the lots purchased by Mr. Jack Brackenbury last week and will be converted into a duplex house.

HOPKINS — MacCUAIG

Of special interest to the many friends of the bride in Priceville and vicinity is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Pearl Lillian MacCuaig, youngest daughter of the late Archibald and Mrs. MacCuaig of Top Cliffe, to Clarence Willard Hopkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hopkins of Breckenridge, Mich. The marriage was performed on Thursday, Sept. 8 at the home of Rev. H. H. Savage on the First Baptist church, Pontiac, They were unattended. Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins will reside at 33 Stout Street, Pontiac, Mich.

Durham Won 10-2

Flesherton juniors received their first defeat on Tuesday night when they played Durham's juniors and seniors, combined, in the latter's rink. The game was a hard-checking affair but the the more experienced players had the advantage of their own rink and with a number of players of senior rating were naturally better than the locals.

Durham secured the first goal when Lauder slipped one past Ferris, but this was soon equalled when McCutcheon bulged the twine behind McEachnie. Dean then put the count one up for Durham, while Anderson tied the score again with about 20 seconds to go.

The second period opened with both teams trying to gain the lead and not until ten minutes of battling did Durham finally manage to send a tricky shot past Ferris. This ended the scoring for the period, but not the battling. Two of the players were mixed up in a little squabble and before the referee could interfere it was a free-for-all. The bell then rang for time, ending round two for the fighters.

Durham added three more in the third period and four in the fourth, making the final score 10-2. Many penalties were handed out in the third period, just a continuation of the scrap in the second.

The Flesherton lads tell the tale of two Durham lads going home with a piece of fat pork covering their eyes from the effects of the above fight. We would like to see these two teams clash again in Flesherton in the near future as the Durham boys are real good players and make an interesting game.

Fleserton players were: Goal, E. Ferris; defence, E. Alexander and K. Betts; Centre, McCutcheon; Home, F. Gorrel and H. Best; Rover, L. Ferris; alternates, M. Johnson, G. Boyd, L. Anderson E. Patton.

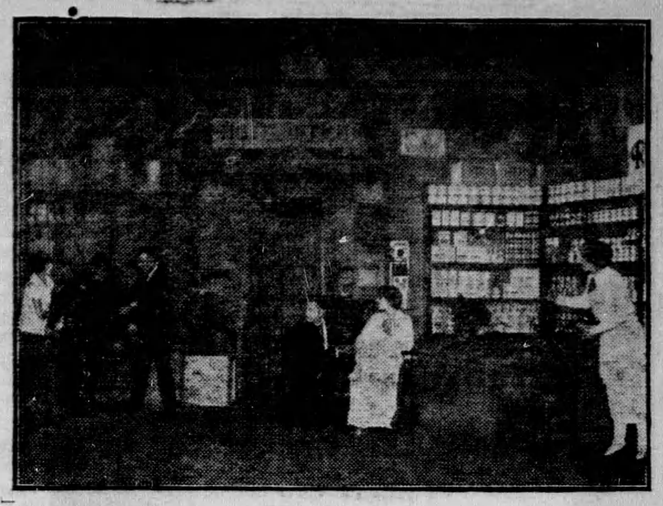
BARBER—MORRISON

A beautiful day, Saturday, September 10, greeted the nuptial event of a wedding of a popular Maxwell young lady, Miss Ethel Morrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Morrison and Mr. Cecil Earl Barber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Barber, Varney, Ont. The wedding took place on the lawn of the home under a beautiful arch of evergreens, flowers and bells. Rev. G. McPherson, pastor, of McIntyre United Church, officiated, at 4 p. m., the bride being led to the altar by her father. She was becomingly attired in a gown of mauve orchid georgette, with band of tulle of same shade on hair, surmounted by orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of tea roses. Miss Ada Findlay, Owen Sound, was bridesmaid, and was attired in yellow silk net, carrying Talisman roses. The bride and bridesmaid wore the gifts of the groom, viz, a necklace set with diamonds and a gold necklace respectively. The groom was supported by his brother-in-law, W. J. Allan, of Varney and there were two little attendants in pink and white, Jean Sim and June Morrison, carrying small floral baskets. Mrs. Wm. Gollinger, Toronto, played the wedding music.

About 40 guests sat down to the prettily decorated bridal tables. A four story wedding cake was as attractive as it looked. At the close of the repast, Rev. Mr. McPherson proposed a toast to health of bride, to which the groom responded in a few choice words. Other members of the wedding party also added a few words. Later, the bridal couple left by motor for Barrie, Muskoka, Peterborough and Niagara and in a short time will be home to friends at their home on the Provincial Highway, four miles south of Durham. For this trip the bride chose a wine-shaded outfit, with all accessories to match.

Assistants at the wedding luncheon were Miss Jean Henry, Misses Ada and Elsie Morrison, Miss Mamie Findlay, Mrs. Gollinger, Mrs. Sim.

Guests present from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Otto Madjic (sister of bride), New York; Mrs. Madjic, Sr., New York; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Henry and son, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. John Sim and daughter, Toronto; Mrs. Jennie Gadd and family, Holstein; Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Findlay, Owen Sound; Mrs. Fortune, Miss Ada and Mr. Woodburn, Ayton; Miss Jean Henry, Lauderdale, Florida.



"THE MENDER"

"The Mender" with its philosophy cannot fail to inspire both old and young. The rare humor of it and the sweet love story will appeal to all.

Sam Giddings, a delightful character, full of the "milk of human kindness" is a mender of hearts and lives as well as of pots and pans. When he comes to the town of Hintonville, he finds it dominated by a ruthless and greedy man whose one redeeming quality is his love for his invalid daughter, Lucy. Sam finds that there is much mending to be done here and through his faith and love he brings about a great deal of happiness. In the quaint story revealed in the play, Sam finally mends his own heart.

"The Mender"—in three acts—is an intensely dramatic play, but through it all runs a thread of delicious comedy. It tells a fascinating story; it gently teaches us, without preaching, one of life's greatest truths. To be given in the Armories, Markdale, on the evening of the fourth day at 8 p. m.

HUNTING IN CANADA

WIDE VARIETY OF BIG AND SMALL GAME

HUNTING GROUNDS EASILY REACHED

SEASONS OF GENEROUS LENGTH

DURING recent years there has been an exceptional increase in the number of people of this country who enjoy the sport of hunting and many thousands go afield yearly, with rifle or shotgun. No other section of the world can offer to the sportsman the same favourable conditions as prevail in Canada with its immense areas of virgin territory within rapid and comfortable means of access.

Vast Hunting Areas

This country possesses over 1,000,000 square miles of forest, which shelters game animals ranging from the timid rabbit to the huge and dangerous grizzly bear. Moose, caribou, elk, deer, bighorn sheep, mountain goat, timber wolf and bear are plentiful and may be hunted during open seasons of generous length.

Wild Fowl Abundant

The numerous lakes and ponds of northern Canada are the breeding places of the main waterfowl population of the American continent, consequently ducks, geese and other waterfowl are plentiful, in normal years. The ruffled grouse or partridge is the most important upland bird and is common to every province, while woodcock, prairie chicken, Hungarian partridge and ptarmigan provide good sport,

Hunting Grounds Easy of Access

Accessibility is an outstanding feature of much of Canada's hunting territory. The country is well served by roads, railways and steamboat lines, over which the sportsman may travel in comfort, to the "going in" point. Areas previously inaccessible may also now be reached by airplane in a few hours' flight. Detraining or "going in" points are numerous throughout game areas and at these will be found reliable outfitters and qualified guides, who are prepared to look after the sportsman's every need and guidance while in the hunting territory. In several of the provinces it is compulsory for the hunter to be accompanied by a guide but, even in those provinces where it is not compulsory, it is often advisable to engage guides. These men, being familiar with the territory in which they operate, are able to add greatly to the enjoyment and success of the trip.

Conservation of Game

In Canada a practical form of conservation is found in the setting aside of tracts of public lands, as game reserves, and in the rigid protection of game in its extensive national and provincial parks. In these areas the game multiplies rapidly, under protection, and spreads over into the surrounding country. This favourable condition, coupled with sound protective legislation regulating the open seasons, bag limits, issuing of licences etc., assures continuance of a supply of game animals and birds in their native habitat. Canada is thus able to offer the hunter exceptional opportunities for sport in season.

Hunting with Camera

To the camera-hunter and the student of wild life, the Canadian Provinces offer unusual opportunities for interesting experiences and records. There is no closed season on game, to the camera-hunter and, throughout the year, he will find favourable conditions to study the habits of game animals and birds and to photograph them in their natural surroundings.

Game Laws of the Provinces

The game laws of the different provinces are drafted by the provincial Governments with a view to meeting local conditions; consequently there is no uniform game law for the Dominion as a whole. As these game laws are subject to revision from year to year, persons contemplating a hunting trip are advised to obtain copies of the current game laws and regulations of the province in which they intend to hunt.

The National Development Bureau of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa will gladly supply information on hunting in Canada, by either complying with requests, or referring same to other sources from which the particulars desired may be obtained.
