WHERE CANADA'S WHEAT GOES

When judges of the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference, opening at Regina in July next, commence the prodigious task of placing the samples they will be confronted, in one only of the seven wheat classes, that for ten bushels with about 60 tons of the best wheat in the world — over 200 entries.

In view of the wide-spread interest in this staple cereal it is interesting to note just where the wheat grown in Canada goes:

Canadian wheat last year was sold to almost 60 countries, made up of 20 within the Empire and the balance beyond Empire boundaries. Of the total of 140,000,000 bushels to Empire ports no less than 15,000,000 went to the United Kingdom. France and Belgium each purchased about 14,000,000; Italy and the Netherlands together accounted for 21,000,000 bushels; China and Japan 13,000,000 bushels; Germany 6,000,000 bushels; Greece 5,000,000 bushels; Norway, Sweden and Peru about 1,000,000 bushels each.

The Doukhobors fear that death awaits Peter Virigin, their fallen king, if deported to Russia. When he left Russia in 1927, it is said, he was ordered never to return. Peter and his followers should have thought of this when flouting the laws of Canada.
