The Meaford Express regrets that the people of that town do not take more interest in their public library. It is a long time since we began regretting the same thing about this town, brother. There are whole herds of people in this world who do not know a good thing when they are looking at it, and there are others who refuse even to look.

The Divisional Court in Toronto overruled the order of Judge Mabee quashing the Owen Sound local option bylaw, and the bylaw stands. It was held that "where a municipality is divided into wards, each ratepayer shall be entitled to vote in each ward in which he has qualification," does not apply to voting on a local option bylaw. Too, there was no evidence to show that a single elector was prevented from recording his vote or that the return was not made in strict accordance with the voting.
