Mr. Jared Lyons, of this place, had the end taken ohf his left thumb in a peculiar accident on Saturday at the farm of Thomas Mills, north of town. He was leading a farm animal on a rope, and in some manner the rope got twisted over his thumb. The animal lunged, with the above painful results. Dr. Martin, who dressed the injury, was forced to remove the bone at the first joint.

An unfortunate accident befell Frank Moody, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Moody of this place, while assisting to draw in hay at Earl Ludlow's near Bethel on Thursday afternoon. The team of horses which was hauling a load became frightened and ran away. Frank jumped from the load and in striking the ground two bones in his left leg were broken near the ankle. He was taken to Orangeville hospital where he is still confined.

Cobean, of the local Commerce staff, has been called to his home town, Chesley, to assist in the branch there for two weeks.—Dundalk Herald.

IN MEMORIAM

SIMMONS — In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Walter Robert Simmons, who passed away July 29th, 1925.

Happy days we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still;
But death has left a loneliness,
The world can never fill.
Only for the hope we'll meet you,
In that bright and better land,
When God will reveal His purpose,
Only then we'll understand.

—Sadly missed by loving wife and daughters.

EASY COOKING THIS WAY

One of the latest inventions is a mechanical cook which turn out pancakes or coffee piping hot, according to which of the two buttons you press. And, wonderful things are to follow. The inventor has already perfected a ham-and-egg machine. Press the button. Crack goes the egg whilst a slice of ham falls into the pan. As soon as it is cooked to a turn the machine delivers the dish. A great future opens up for the invention. No longer will young husbands be reduced to nervous wrecks by the burnt offerings of meat, the flint-like cakes, and the soggy pastry of young wives culinary ambition outrun their skill. Many a promising marriage has been wrecked on the rocks of home-made buns. But all these tragic happenings will soon be things of the past. Returning to a home provided with a multi-button cooker, Edwin, having embraced a smiling Angelina, will plan olt a dainty menu. Then buttons will be pressed and in a few moments the most wonderful meal will be served.

MODERN LIFE

Whether or not the modern way of living is an improvement on the old is largely a question of theoretical interest. We are alive today and we cannot escape from this modern life.

It is in the world of today we must work and live. We need to understand existing conditions if we are to adapt ourselves to them and enjoy health and happiness.

In more primitive times, life was full of danger, which called for the display of strength and courage. Until recent years, much muscular effort was demanded of the individual. Today life is safer and people are less active. Such changes, together with the creation of large centres of population, have rid us of many problems, while they have given rise to others —the health problems of modern life

Life in the city means in a chair for many. As the city dweller grows older, he becomes less active and continues to eat as much as, or more than he ever did. Not using the large muscles of the body, he loses the proper support for his abdominal organs and the tonic effect of physical activity.

One of the most common mistakes is the effort made to overcome, by some routine exercises, the ill effects arising out of the lack of physical activity. Muscles can be strengthener by exercises of this type, but what the individual needs is something which gives, not only strong muscles, but which takes him away from the routine and worry of life into the interests of some game or play.

Modern life is full of worries because it is attended with so many uncertainties which are beyond individual control. Today we are more dependent, we lack the security which is essential for happiness. It is, therefore, of great importance that we have healthy interests outside of our routine work to free us from the monotony, strain and worry of such work.

Modern life means living in overheated rooms, losing the natural stimulation that lies in cold air. Modern life means indoor living with a lack of fresh air and sunshine.

Just how far any one of these factors affect health, we cannot say, but in combination they seem to be factors in modern life which, largely, account for the health hazards to which the modern man and woman are exposed. We cannot change modern life, but we can use our intelligence to adapt ourselves to it in a more satisfactory way and thus to overcome these newer health problems.
