This week we put on sale many lines, some are balances of good selling lines, others are lines that have not been moving as fast as we would like to see them. We wish to insure a quick sale, and if any of the line should fit your requirements we would advise that you be on hand early.

SCHOOL GARDENING

study. The names of the weeds were taken up, the kinds of seeds and the natural method of dispersion studied, and finally the best means for their eradication. What proved most interesting was the dispersion of seeds. The thistle of course predominated but dandelions were also present. These gave up two splendid examples of seeds carrid by the wind. Various kinds of burs were present affording examples of seeds that steal their way by clinging to passers-by. These and others led to a discussion of the various methods provided by nature for the dispersion of weeds.

After the eradication of these weeds we utilized the ground for mouldings for the purpose of teaching geography. As North America was involved in the geography for all the classes we moulded it first after filling in the paths so as to make ample room. The Atlantic, Pacific and Arctic Oceans were made the way in which the soft land had been worn away by these to form the gulfs and bays was represted, thus we prepared the outline of our continent. The soil taken out to form the ocean beds was now used in building up the mountain ranges and hilly regions such as the Rocky mountains, the Alleghanies and the Laurentian Hills. Then we sloped the land to show the river-beds such as the St. Lawrence, the Mississippi and the MacKenzie. The Great Lakes were made after which we carried water and formed the lakes, gulfs and all the bodies of water that are involved in the consideration of the North American continent.

After the natural features we took up those that are artificial—the division of the continent into countries and the capital or capitals of each, the great trans-continental railway systems and the necessity for these. The climate and vegetation was also studied, constant reference being made to the zones and locations.

The historical interests were taken up, Leif, the Norseman's, voyages and successes, the experiences of Christopher Columbus, Jacques Cartier and other noted navigators.

It is hardly necessary in the presence of teachers to go into further details as it will easily occur to them what would naturally be taken up with such a relief map before us. Suffice it so say that no more practical and impressive way has yet been discovered for teaching the physical features, climate, occupations of the people and all that has to do with this continent as the abode of man.

In conclusion let me add, that in the process of school gardening many important phases of character are developed, among which may be mentioned originality, responsibility, patience, the love of plants and of a nice garden, and the habit of industry, as well as a profound respect for manual labor.

Cut this out and take it to Richardson's or Douglass' drug store and get a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For billiousness and constipation they are unequalled. They improve the appetite, strengthen the digestion and regulate the liver and bowels.

Priceville

The fine weather during the last few days has enabled many farmers to finish harvesting their root crops.

Railroad construction is in active progress in this vicinity. Several hundred dollars per day is paid in wages. Tradesmen and boarding houses are reaping a harvest and thanks to local option, peace and good order prevail; no scraps, no brawls, no arrests, but trade is good, mortgages are being lifted and old debts are being paid up.

G.W.Tryon has opened up a butcher shop on Main Street.

Jas. Watson, a former resident of this place, has returned from Cheboygan, Mich., and is fitting up his blacksmith shop on the corner of Artemesia and Kincardine Street.

A well drilling outfit from Markdale began operations some time ago on the farm of Angus McKechnie, gravel road, and now looking westward against the sunset we see a Toronto air motor pumping water for all farm purposes. Our school trustees also had a well drilled on the school grounds which we presume will be more satisfactory than borrowing water. Mrs. M.McLaughlin also secured the services of the drilling machine and now has a supply of water.

We are sorry that we are unable to give a report of the recent marriage that took place at the residence of Mr. M. McDonald, South Line, but hope to get the particulars in time for next week's issue.

Feversham

The excitement over the famous horse-trade has somewhat subsided. The suit in the last division court in Dundalk between Dr. Park and John Francis resulted in a decision of Judge Widdifield giving judgement in favor of Dr. Park in the matter of the writ of replevin served by the doctor, also judgement to recover account of $7.85 and $10.00 advanced Francis on the horse deal. This together with costs of court making a total of about $50 for Mr. Francis to cash up. Of course there is a trial at the December assizes, but it will be easier for one to hang onto the steep side of the stone grist mill with one's eyebrows than to ade Doc to a dull drab at Owen Sound.

It is rumored that the J. P. is a wee bit nervous for fear of losing his job. "There is somethin' slippin'."

A very popular young man of this town was sued by a down-town merchant for a small account. The plaintiff states that the machinery in the bank in which his note was placed as collateral took a little slip and he was sued quite by accident.

The Jones boys are getting along well with Heitman's store number two. They hope to have the brick work completed in a couple of weeks, weather permitting.

One of our citizens is trying to win a few friends for himself by circulating a report that the building lately destroyed was heavily insured. This statement is absolutely without foundation as operations were begun on the new store immediately without waiting for an insurance inspector. This fact should convince the sceptical that there was no insurance whatever. The only motive for starting this report is through jealousy of the sympathy which is extended to Mr. Heitman from all quarters.

A citizen near the burned district who had his insurance fattened up a few days before the fire was rather surprised to find his insurance cancelled a few hours after the fire occurred.

Mrs. E. Buckingham who has been employed as clerk by Mr. A.T. Hutchinson has resigned her position and has left for her home in Collingwood. Her many friends here are very sorry to hear of her departure.

MAXWELL

A social evening was spent at the home of Mr. Adam Kinnear Thursday evening, Nov. 8, when between eighty and ninety assembled and partook of an excellent fowl supper prepared by the ladies of the Institute. The supper as usual was the grandest of the season. Fowl were very plentiful, there being five lovely birds left over, and pastry cooking certainly showed what the Institute was doing in this neighborhood. The tables were beautifully decorated with flowers. After supper a first class program was given. It consisted of recitations, singing, instrumental music, gramophone selections and speeches. The remainder of the evening was spent in games and other amusements. The ladies intend holding their next meeting at the home of Mrs. Thos. Julian, Nov. 22nd. All members are invited to attend.
