The Owen Sound local option case has not yet been settled, it seems, leave having been granted last week to appeal to the Court of Appeal against the decision upholding the measure. It is said the case may eventually reach the Supreme Court.

The Durham Chronicle issued an illustrated trade edition last week which is a credit to the office and the town as well. For the past few years Durham has been steadily advancing among manufacturing towns and it was fitting that it's progress should be recorded in this manner. Br'er Irwin appears to have made a special study of half tone printing, and in this case the product was equal to any city work.

Jas. Bowler, bandmaster, visited in Toronto last week and took with him a number of old horns to be thoroughly overhauled. While away he got three new ones—a cornet, an alto and an upright tenor. The addition of these horns brings the band up to a membership of twenty. He also got a lot of new music which the boys are to get up this winter and emerge in the spring still better than ever and a credit to the town. The books show an excellent summer, financially, considering the number of new horns it war necessary to buy.

W. Morgan, a young man who a few months ago thought there was room for a second barber shop in town, appears gradually to have had his mind disabused of the idea. In any event on Monday morning his shop was found empty, everything having been removed during the previous night. Willie leaves a few mourners behind but not many and the mourning valuation amounts to only about $25. He could surely have departed in a more manly way. His whereabouts is at present unknown.

There are a few young men in town who will find themselves in deep trouble some of these days if they do not cease throwing things around at entertainments. On Monday evening a young lady was hit on the forehead by a small piece of wood which was large enough, however, to do serious injury. We are ashamed to let the public know that there are young men in this vicinity of such low mental calibre as to make of themselves public nuisances in this manner, but order demands that we chronicle the fact. In future if anything of a like nature occurs and the guilty party is discovered there will be a good fat job in this town for the magistrates. The better element does not propose to be disgraced by hoodlum actions of this description as the hoodlums will probably find out to the tune of four or five and costs if they persist.

The Speare moving picture entertainment given in the town hall Monday evening was, undoubtedly, the best of its kind ever exhibited here, and in quantity of moving scenery was also ahead. There were comparatively few still life pictures, although several illustrated songs tended to relieve the monotony and were highly appreciated. The Buster Brown pictures which are so popular with young and old, brought howls of delight from the youngsters and laughter from the older members of the audience. The Dream of a Rarebit Fiend was a marvelous piece of phantasy. Several other excellent films were also run off. This was Mr. Speare's second appearance here, but his entertainment was much improved on this occasion and the hall was crowded. He certainly gives a show worthy of patronage.

Thomas Manders, an old gentleman well known in this township, died at his home here on Thursday last at the advanced age of 82 years. Mr. Manders was born in England and settled in this township about the year 1860. In his early residence here he suffered a broken leg which always gave him trouble and incapacitated him from doing steady manual labor, and as a consequence he was unable, though frugal, to accumulate any property; in fact at times he was a slight charge on the township, though most of the time he was able to do small jobs which gave him a precarious living. He was never married until a few years ago when he joined his misfortunes to those of a woman who survives him. Mr. Manders was always highly respected. He carried his troubles with a light heart and trusted in a higher power, whom he knew would make all things right. The funeral took place to Flesherton cemetery on Friday last.

The new County Council Act will give Owen Sound a reeve and three deputies in the Grey County Council next year. This means that the voting power of Owen Sound in matters of county legislation will be equal to that of Sullivan, Derby, Holland and Sydenham. If the County Council Act pleases the rural ratepayers of Grey County they are not hard to please.—Meaford Express.

It is announced that the field survey work in connection with the Georgian Bay Ship Canal from Georgian Bay to Montreal, has been completed after being under way for two years. The proposed canal would be 22 feet deep, would cost $125,000,000, and would mean a saving of 500 miles, or 72 hours.

Mrs. James Vause Dead

Mrs. James Vause of this township died suddenly of heart trouble at her home on Saturday last. While feeling somewhat unwell for some time past, no uneasiness was felt, and the deceased lady was about the house doing her work until within a few hours of death. Mrs. Vause was 67 years of age. Her maiden name was Lomas. She was born in Staffordshire, England, and came out with her husband in 1873, living four years at Moorefield, thence coming to Artemesia, and has, with her husband, been a resident of this township for the past 29 years, where she had endeared herself to all who came in contact with her, either in business or social relations. The funeral on Monday to Evergreen cemetery was very largely attended, a number going out from this village to pay their respects to one who was admired for her many sterling qualities. The deceased lady leaves behind a devoted husband and four sons who keenly feel her loss, and for these much sympathy is felt.
