EDITORIAL DRIFT

A foolish Englishman last week prophesied an earthquake for Canada to take place on Saturday last. Where he made the mistake was in placing the expected event so close at hand. Dr. Wild in his palmy days would have known better than that. A prophet hath more honor if the event he foretells does not become due for a generation or two. Irl Hicks, the weather prophet, belongs to another class. He and his kind foretell so much that they cannot help hitting it occasionally. It is like a woman throwing a handful of peas at a turkey A pea at a time would not hit it in a thousand years; with a whole handful one is pretty sure to strike. The weather prophets studied this out in boyhood and in old age profit thereby. The earthquake prophet, however, is a comparatively new curiosity, and has a few things yet to learn, before his calling becomes profitable.

While Manitoba and all of the great west is experiencing an unusually severe winter, still it is not probable that all the stories of death and suffering are true. Some of these tales have already been denied and others no doubt will be. When it is considered that many thousand people went out there last year totally unacquainted with western winter conditions and no doubt many of them unprepared for even the ordinary severity of a prairie winter, people of the east marvel that there are not more fatalities recorded. Thousands of people are in the west this winter who had not made the acquaintance of a blizzard and its possibilities in the line of extinguishing life. and most of the actual fatalities recorded are a direct result of this ignorance or a foolhardy ignoring of the frost king when assisted by a powerful wind on an open prairie. The Advance goes to many homes in the west and we would like very much to hear from our western subscribers as to the winter conditions as they have come under their observation. We would like especially to hear from the Armstrong colony, about whom some thrilling stories are in circulation here —stories of hardship and burning of stables for firewood, which we do not credit until actual facts are submitted Many of our Osprey readers, who have friends there, would like to know the facts.

A new patent medicine act will be passed by the Dominion Government this session which will prohibit the distribution of samples from door to door. Children have been known to mistake these samples for candies with disastrous results. The bill will also safeguard the public by placing with the government knowledge of the composition of all patent medicines so that nothing injurious to health, taken according to instructions, will be allowed on the market.

The Ontario Government has gone back on its $300 limit for school teachers' salaries, and will instead pay 40 per cent. of all salaries over $300. This was brought about by a general objection throughout the country.

The temperance people, who are only worth three to one of the other kind in Mr. Whitney's estimation, should also get after that gentleman with a sharpstick. If they don't, Mr. Whitney's estimate will be justified.

There is only one thing absolutely certain about the Thaw trial, to wit: After its conclusion a large portion of the Thaw millions will have changed hands. That conclusion does not depend upon the result of the trial.

A team of horses ran away from Stayner station and never stopped until they brought up in a hotel stable at Creemore, eight miles away, doing the distance in about 27 minutes.

For any disease of the skin we can recommend Chamberlain's Salve. It relieves the itching and burning sensation instantly and soon effects a cure. This salve is also invaluable for sore nipples. W. E. Richardson.

A most pathetic case of the ruin of an orphan girl of 14 is reported from Amaranth Station. The girl's name is Rimmer and she was adopted from the Western Home at Niagara-on-the-Lake by G. E. Lewis, a laborer at Amaranth Station, about five years ago. A few days ago Dr. Campbell of Grand Valley was called to Lewis' house and her condition was reported to Crown Attorney McKay, who at once took steps to have her removed from the Lewis household. High Constable Hughes brought the girl to town on Monday and she is now staying with a party here in whom the authorities have confidence. The unfortunate girl says that here seducer was a Jew peddler named Blumenthal, who was stopping at Lewis' house for weeks at a time last summer and fall. Blumenthall is believed to be in Toronto and High Constable Hughes has gone to the city to arrest him on a warrant issued by Squire Pattullo on the information of Lewis.—Shelburne Free Press.
