EDITORIAL DRIFT

Mr. I.B. Lucas, M. P. P., has been made chairman of several important committees, one of which chairmanships is said to be the next best thing to a cabinet ministership itself. Some people may be satisfied with "the next best thing" but not here—we want the thing itself, and until I.B. gets that cabinet position may Mr. Whitneys dreams be all nightmares rampant.

Hon. Mr. Emmerson, minister of Railways, delivered a speech in Toronto last week in which the statement was made that the Intercolonial railway carries freight for just 50 per cent. less than any other railway in the country, and that this was the reason why it has never been able to meet expenses. The idea conveyed by this statement was that the undercharge was a virtue rather than a misdemeanor, granting benefits to people living along that line of railway enjoyed by no other people in the country. There are those who cannot look upon it as a virtue. Why, they ask, should the people who are so fortunate as to live on that line of railway enjoy benefits not enjoyed by others who helped to build the line? If all railways were owned and operated by government the situation would require no apology, but under existing conditions it is the duty of the government to put that asset of the Dominion on a paying basis. It is manifestly unfair that the country at large should be taxed to pay for the transportation facilities enjoyed only by a small section of the country. The Dominion government cannot get busy too quick at readjusting their Intercolonial tariff of shipping rates.

President Roosevelt was largely instrumental in stopping the Russians and Japs from killing one another, but his influence is not so evident when it comes to the matter of the great slaughter of innocents, which takes place annually in his own country. During the past six months, from August 1 last, the railways of the United States were successful in destroying 351 human lives and seriously injuring several hundred human beings. It does seem strange that people will stand this sort of horror as as they do without an attempt to discover a means of curtailing the destructive qualities of their modern Juggernaut. As a humanitarian Mr. Roosevelt ought to make of this the great crowning achievement of his administration. He brought the beef ring to time, has had the Standard Oil indicted, and has looked into the railway methods as common carriers, but as common murderers the railways have not received the attention to which they are justly entitled.

A Letter From E. R. Steinhauer

Last fall a Christmas box was prepared by the Epworth League under the direction of Mrs. W. A. Armstrong who is the second Vice President, and sent to Rev. E. R. and Mrs. Steinhauer, of Fisher River, Manitoba, who are supported by the Owen Sound district Leagues. Last week Mrs. Armstrong received a letter from Mrs. Steinhauer acknowledging the receipt of the box. As we believe the letter to be of interest to our subscribers we publish a portion of it as follows,—

"But after all one thing in your letter went to our hearts more than the presents did and that was this little sentence 'you are ever in our minds and hearts.' We stopped when we came to that and talked it over, wondering at it. Mr. Steinhauer said it must be so, and it seemed, as we accepted it for a fact, to add a joy to our hearts, knowing that we have friends who truly have sympathy for us, who are praying for us, and who care what the final issue of it all shall be. Oh, dear friends, you do not know how much alone we feel sometimes, as far as humanity is concerned and how we long for human recognition when the work is hard, each day filled until eleven at night with work for the hands and feet as well as for the head and heart. But you have refreshed us and we thank you, believing you too do it all for Christ's sake, for the love of Christ, with whom we all hope to meet together. When He shall come again we know not, what joy shall be ours, but we have His hope as an anchor to the soul. Our people have had a great deal of sickness this winter, and it has been very cold and much snow. The people are better now and we hope things will be better all round. We pray that God shall bless you all in your work, and us in our work for His Name's sake."

Yours very affectionately,
Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Steinhauer

Mr. Paulsfrud, of 30-10-21, on the morning of the 15th went to his barn and found three horses and three cows and his chickens dead and two horses and five cows almost dead. He built his barn very tight and the frost made it air tight. His stock smothered to death as a result. After the barn was opened and air admitted he succeeded in saving the two horses and five cows.—Milestone Mail.
