Farewell Banquet

The members and adherents of Chalmers church tendered a farewell banquet to Rev. L. W. Thom and wife on Thursday evening last in the basement of the church, when about one hundred and fifty people sat down to sumptuously provided tables of choice eatables. After the tables had been cleared away Mr. M. K. Richardson was requested to take the chair, and an impromptu program was rendered consisting of music, a reading by Mrs. Thurston, and addresses by three or four of those present, including Dr. Caldwell and the chairman. The important event on the program however, was the presentation of an address to the retiring pastor and his good wife, accompanied by a half dozen leather upholstered chairs for the former and a valuable silver pudding dish for the latter. Mr. Thom thanked his people at some length, and regretted his departure, but had felt it would be good for the congregation to have a change, as he had been with them for ten years. He did not know until after he decided to go that he occupied so warm a place in the hearts of the people here. He trusted that the congregation would be able to find a minister who would be more successful than he had been and who would be able to do them more good. Mrs. Thom also thanked the donors and hoped that God would bless them. The address was read by Mr. T. R. McKenzie, of Port Law. The evening was much enjoyed by all present. Among the guests was quite a large sprinkling of members of the sister churches in town, among whom Mr. and Mrs. Thom are held in the highest esteem and who very much regret their departure. Following is a copy of the address:

DEAR PASTOR AND MRS. THOM—We, the people of Chalmer's church, Flesherton, having learned of your intention to remove from our midst, and realizing that the time is near at hand for us to part have met with you tonight that we might once more enjoy the pleasure of your company and again exchange affectionate greetings before bidding you adieu. It is indeed with deep regret and sore hearts that we part with you. To say that we will miss you when sundered from us by distance would be but a mild expression of sentiment. It has always been a source of pleasure for us to meet with you as your presence shed a ray of sunshine which to us was ever a means of joy and gladness that has brightened our pathway and cheered us on our way. Tonight we feel that a bitter herb has been dropped into our cup of pleasure when we remember that you are about to leave us and that our relations as pastor, helpmeet, and people in a short time terminate. We thank you both for the great interest you have always manifested in our welfare both temporal and spiritual. We confess that we have not always given you the encouragement we might have given, but we always found you, although not condoning our faults, very patient with us in our imperfections. Our eternal welfare has been your chief desire and through these many years you have been with us you have striven faithfully to hold up Christ to us as the perfect pattern and Saviour of our souls. We trust that the Christ-like example you have displayed and the precepts you have taught may not be bestowed in vain but that they may lead us to live more zealous and worthy lives. As a slight token of affection and rememberance we ask you to accept these chairs and Mrs. Thom this silver pudding dish, and trust that you both may be spared many years of usefulness. We feel that though distance may divide us, "We shall still be joined in heart." We all join heartily in wishing you much happiness and success in your new home and field of labor. May God bless your efforts for His cause "And wing thy words that they may reach the hidden depths of many a heart."

Mr. A. McK. Cameron, of Winnipeg, formerly Collector of Customs at this port has begun an action against Charles F. May for a thousand dollars, being the plaintiff's share, it is claimed out of the profits of the Huron & Ontario Railway A lot of people around here want to know where the railway's profit arises and where the railway exists—except on paper.—Meaford Mirror

Accepting the challenge of Premier Whitney, and acting along the line possible to them under law, as pointed out by the Government last year and again this year, the temperance people of Collingwood have taken up the matter of getting the license fee raised to a prohibitive figure. They will ask the council to pass a by-law making the fee $25,000. The organization that worked in the recent local option campaign is still in existence, and will remain intact to carry on the agitation for this measure. The vote in the local option contest was 794 for to 556 against.

Domestic troubles resulted in the separation of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Cooper of Collingwood, and since then Mrs. Cooper has been living in Orangeville. On the 6th inst. Cooper drove down as far as Camilla, left his horse there and walked into Orangeville. Seeing his eldest boy, about 12 years of age playing on Second Avenue, he took hold of him, compelled him to walk the five miles to Camilla and then drove him off to Collingwood. Constable Hughes brought the boy back to his mother, with whom he is apparently content, and a law suit is in sight.

At the last municipal election the village of Ailsa Craig voted on local option, the vote standing 104 to 70 in favor of the bylaw. Then some clever and close mathematicians got busy and figured out that to legally carry the by law 104 3-5 votes should have been cast in its favor. The matter was carried into court. On Monday, the case came up before Chief Justice Meredith in Osgoode Hall. By consent the by-law was quashed. This is a fierce example of hair splitting but no one wants to be considered 3-5 more of a man than he really is, at least his ballot, under pervailing conditions counts an infinitesimal 1. It is strikingly singular that 3-5 of a vote is the cause of all the trouble in this case when the three fifths clause in the act is responsible for it all.—Grand Valley Star.
