The postoffices are being flooded these days with circulars from brokers endeavoring to sell Cobalt and Larder Lake stocks. The prospects are glowing on paper but people should be very careful about investing their small capital in mining schemes of which they know nothing. Ten chances to one they will lose their all. The best propositions in that district do not have to go begging for purchasers or send out agents to dispose of their stock at a few cents on the dollar. Cobalt is the richest silver district in the world but that very fact gives the wildcatter an opportunity which he has not been slow to grasp. In 99 cases out of a hundred you will make more money mining your own farm at home than by investing in mining stocks.

Can't something be done in this town to keep the hoodlum element from blocking street corners at night and making things generally disagreeable for respectable citizens? The thing is getting so disagreeable that something will have to be done to put a stop to it. Respectable young women cannot walk the street at night without having disgusting noises dinned at them and disagreeable remarks passed. An example made of one or two of the worst offenders would have a salutary effect, and evidently this will have to be done before a stop is put to it. On Sunday evenings this condition is especially noticeable, and most disagreeable to people who have to elbow their way through a crowd of tobacco-chewing, swearing and generally disgusting embryonic animals of the genus homo. Just watch Boyd or Sproule's corner next Sunday night and see to whom we refer.

Division Court

The shortest Division Court on record was held in the town hall on Wednesday of last week before Judge Widdifield. The court only lasted half an hour and only one case was tried, while two other unimportant cases went by default. The one case, however, was of somewhat more than ordinary interest, inasmuch as it made plain certain law regarding lien notes which is not well understood. This case was:

The Sovereign Bank v. W. H. Allen and W. Collingburn, agent of Dundaik. Allen had signed two lien notes with the usual conditions for a Speight wagon. After using the wagon two years Collingburn seized the wagon and Allen says promised to return his notes. This was not done. The notes fell into the hands of the Sovereign bank and were sued by that concern. The defendant, Allen, claimed that he was not liable and this view the judge upheld, but gave judgement as against the agent, Collingburn. The judge pointed out that what is called a lien note is not a note, but merely an agreement or contract, and that any person purchasing such must accept it with all its conditions. A note must contain no conditions, merely a promise to pay.

Irwin Storey of Simcoe county was sentenced to nine months in the Central prison for bigamy.

Mrs. W. S. Middlebro, died in the hospital at Owen Sound after a serious operation. Deceased's maiden name was Tretheway.

Two wealthy Northwest Canadians who went to England in December holidaying, were robbed at London in January of £215. By pawning clothes they settled their hotel bill, and walked to Cardiff, where they expected money from Canada. It did not arrive, so they got work on a tramp steamer for a voyage to the Mediterranean. On their return, destitute, they were kept several weeks by a man in humble circumstances until the arrival of long-delayed funds, and have just sailed for Canada.

Word was received this week from Chicago that Douglass Youmans was killed in that city in a railway accident. Mr. Youmans was well known to many of our readers. He was the second son of the late David Youmans of Thornbury and until three years ago lived with his widowed mother near Epping. A little more than a year ago he was married and leaves a young widow with an infant a few weeks old. Mr. Thomas Gilray, ex-warden of Grey county, and Rev. Alex. Gilray of Toronto are uncles of the deceased.

Mrs. McKay, a woman over 80 years of age, left the home of her son, Southampton, on Saturday morning, about 11 o'clock, saying she was going over to a neighbors. She was not missed until evening. Since then searching parties have been going through the bush, but have not been able to find her. Her cane and mitts were picked up on the beach road a mile from her home. It is feared that she lost her way and perished.

Notice to the Public

Rumors have been spread around the country to the effect that I broke into Mr. Wm. Brackenbury's house on the 10th of Osprey, and that Mr. Brackenbury hunted me all day with a constable and could not find me, and that I came to W. Fisher's, on the 4th of Osprey, the same night and put my horse in his stable and skipped the country, leaving the horse with him to be cared for. I wish to emphatically deny all such rumors, as they are absolute falsehoods and can be proven as such.

Charlie Wolf.

To Whom it May Concern: Mr. C. Wolfe, pedlar, did not break into my house at any time and any rumors to that effect are false.
