

On the Main Street

with Ford Moynes

A. E. Silverwood was a name repeated by a commentator at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, this year. The name Silverwood heard on the program "Footloose at the Ex." brought back memories to some local residents, chiefly because Al Silverwood was born on a farm near Oakwood and he graduated from the Lindsay Collegiate Institute, married a Miss Ferris of Lindsay and later on his name became prominent in Lindsay when Silverwood's took over the Flavelle Dairy Products in Lindsay, with offices in the present fine buildings at the corner of Kent Street and Victoria Avenue.

A. E. Silverwood was very successful in headquarters at London, Ontario, and he also played his part in civic, fraternal and service club activities in the "Forest City".

He was one of many Lindsay boys who donated to the drive staged for the Ross Memorial Hospital several years ago when the late Col. Ivan Moore spear-headed a successful financial drive when he was chairman of the Board of Governors.

Incidentally among the executive members who rendered the Company yeoman service in the past were the following gentlemen among others: Howard Clemes, Stewart A. Flavelle and Alex McKessock. the late H. S. Johnson was another of the popular managers.
