Will Remonetization of Silver Help Business Recovery?

Since President Roosevelt announced the issue of currency backed by Silver some few weeks ago, many discussions have appeared on the subject of Silver Remonetization and his latest move in nationalizing the WHITE METAL, has added fuel to the fire for these discussions.

Delving into past history, the writer finds some items on the subect which would appear to be of interest in the present situation. In a recent mining publication put out by a well-known Toronto Investment House, there appears the following quotation from a speech made by United States Senator Joseph G. Blaine, before the Senate in 1878; "I believe that the struggle now going on in this country and in other countries for a single gold standard, will, if successful, produce wide-spread disaster in the end throughout the commercial world."

This statement, no doubt, was prompted by the fact that a few years previously a number of the European nations, including Germany, France, Sweden and others, as well as the United States, demonetized Silver, and, as a result, the price of silver dropped from sixty pence per ounce to twenty-nine pence between 1870 and 1900. When it is considered that about one-half the world's population, living in Asia, depend on Silver as their internal standard of value and medium of exchange, it can be readily seen where the drop in price affected their producing power in no uncertain way. If Silver were remonetized and a definite value established with a set ratio to go on, would it not appear logical that these huge Oriental markets would again open their doors and absorb a tremendous amount of manufactured products

The fact that at the World Economic Conference in 1933, some sixty nations agreed to purchase and withdraw from circulation an average of thirty-five million ounces per year for a four-year period would appear to indicate that these nations were in accord that some move in Silver was essential before the trend of World Trade could expect to be toward normalacy.

That a similar opinion is also held by some of those in authority at Ottawa, is evidenced by the fact that the Honourable H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, recently told a delegation of mining men, that he would like to see more silver put in the country's currency, at the same time assuring his audience that he would lend his entire support to the remonetizing of silver. He stated that he had given the problem much consideration and had discussed it with business leaders of many countries before reaching the conclusion that more silver should be placed in circulation.

The recent increase in the price of silver should prove of substantial benefit to a number of Canadian Mining Companies and indications are, in the writer's opinion, that higher prices will be seen for the WHITE METAL before long and Canada, of course, stands to benefit substantially from any such increase.

Great West Saddlery Company
Shows Improvement

The annual report of this company for the year ending June 3th, 1934, shows substantial improvement in net operating profit, with $84,408.00 being shown, as against $42,673.00 for the previous year. After charges and appropriations to reserve a net profit of $10,981.00 is shown, and this is the first time in five years that the company has been able to show a balance on the right side.

During the year, company redeemed $53,500.00 of the outstanding 6% first mortgage bonds, leaving balance now outstanding at $555,000.00. The company also redeemed in the period under review a substantial amount of the first and second preferred stock issues.

Yellowknife Gold Mines Limited

First report of assays and development from the property of Yellowknife Gold Mines Limited at Great Slave Lake, in the North West Territories, are so favorable that a new rush of prospectors and miners has started to the district, according to advices received from Edmonton.

Major Burwash of the Yellowknife Company, in his report, states that a channel assay over a width of six feet, gave $49.75 to the ton at present gold prices. Another assay over 36.4 feet gave values at $10.50 per ton. It is understood that these assays have been fully and carefully checked. The showings are considered to be among the most important which have been encountered in the North West Territories.

Long Lac Adair Mines Limited

Developments at this company's holdings in the Strathy Township, Temagami, continue to give decidedly encouraging results and most recent information is to the effect that assay made from Number Five vein ran 1.84 ounces of gold per ton. While officials of the company were reluctant to confirm actual figures, they admitted important assays had been obtained from samples. The Number Five vein on the property has been traced for a length of 1,100 feet.

Long Lac Adair also holds some 440 acres in the Big Long Lac Area, on which diamond drilling has been under way for several weeks, with results said to be very promising.

Nickel Shows 62 Cents Per Share

Half-yearly statement issued yesterday by International Nickel Company shows net profit of $10,012,642.00 for the first six months in 1934, which compares with $1,862,888.00 for the same period in 1933. After payment of dividends on the preferred stock, net was equal to about 62 cents per share on the outstanding common stock. President R. C. Stanley in a letter accompanying the report, advises shareholders that the company has now taken second place in the world as a producer of platinum and first place as a producer of palladium.

Stadacona Cuts Ore

Stadacona Rouyn Mines has cut 20 feet of mineralized quartz and schist at a depth of 450 feet on its main property at Pelletier Lake, Quebec. This is the official word of latest diamond drilling, which is being carried out from the 350-foot level. This level has extended development and now has about 500 feet length of ore. Future plans call for continuing the shaft to a depth of 450 feet at which point a cross-cut will be driven to develop favorable formation revealed by the drilling.

New N.B. Stamp Out

Ottawa. — To commemorate the 150th anniversary of the founding of the province of New Brunswick, the post office department has issued a special double-size pictorial postage stamp, in the denomination of two cents.

This stamp was issued on Aug. 16.

The new stamp was old-rose in color. The inscription included the dates 1784-1894. It was also inscribed with the name of the province.

The vignette depicts the original seal of the province of New Brunswick which was prepared under the direction and authority of Queen Victoria. The seal bears the motto "Spem Reduxit," and also the provincial designation "Nov Bruns Sigill Provinciae."

The stamp is issued to coincide with celebrations which are to take place in New Brunswick in commemoration of the anniversary.

May Can Giant Tuna

The giant tuna of Maine and Nova Scotia shores, which sometimes weighs half a ton, may soon be taken to supply a canning industry at Gloucester, Mass. Canada has already established such an industry, while in New England an investigation has been ordered before canneries are allowed to determine if the giant tuna is good food.

Sportsmen who pursue the tuna with rod and line object to the large-scale capture of the fish which commercial operation requires. They point out that the wholesale capture of tuna for canning in Japan has so harassed the fish that none has been taken in Japanese waters with rod and line for five years. The same condition, they say, prevails along the California coast.

During July, August and September, the giant tuna abounds off the western coast of Maine. — Border Cities Star.

Aid British False Teeth

Duty on Imported Molars Is Raised in New Campaign

London, Eng.—British teeth to fit British faces is the patriotic end aimed at by a new move in the government's "Buy British" campaign.

In future, Britons who equip themselves with new sets of "store" teeth will have to pay considerably more for them unless they are made in this country. This is the result of a government order substantially increasing the already existing 20 per cent. duty on artificial molars.

A committee was appointed recently by the government to look into the whole question of the false teeth worn by some millions of the king's subjects. This inquiry revealed that, while the government has taken steps to insure that more of the roast beef of Old England than in the past is really of British origin, artificial molars imported from abroad are being set to work on the Sunday joint in the homes of Great Britain.

It has come to something of a surprise to many Britons to learn from the committee's findings that there is a real prejudice in favor of some better-quality foreign teeth imported at prices giving a large margin of profit to the importer.

BLIND DOG SMART.

Estlin, Sask.—Although blind as a result of an accident, Duke, a police dog, has developed his sense of smell to such an extent he scarcely misses the loss of his eyes. Duke herd the horses and cattle, directs searchers to hidden eggs in the hen house and makes himself useful in many other ways.

An aching heart will drag a man down quicker than neuralgia.

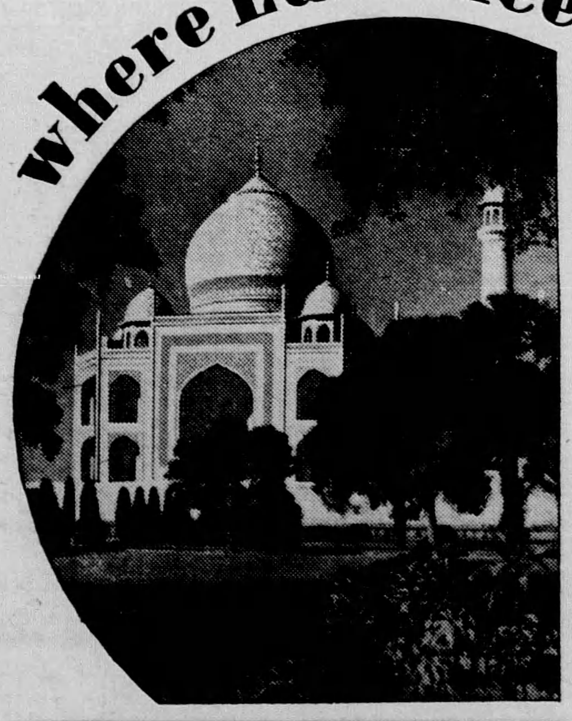
where East meets West!



The peoples of near lands and far lands foregather in friendly rivalry ... in commerce and in sport, in the arts, the sciences, music and industry ... at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Merchants are attracted from the bazaars and market places of distant Calcutta ... from the potteries of Stoke-on-Trent ... from the plantations of Ceylon and Sierra Leone. In an atmosphere of carnival gaiety and romance the enterprising strangers from abroad transact business and join their Canadian brethren in whole-hearted appreciation of the world's largest annual Exhibition.

From over the seven seas, from the Antipodes and the United States come athletes who strive mightily with Canada's best for world championships on land and water.

East meets west on common ground at the "Show Window of the Nations" where Toronto once again becomes "a place of meeting". This is the big year at your Exhibition.
