On The Main Street

With FORD MOYNES

Many relatives and friends gathered in the Mackey Funeral Chapel to pay their last respects to the late Reginald Vickery last Monday.

In his active days, the deceased gentleman was one of the artisans on the staff of Lindsay Woodworkers, a local company which operated a large plant in the old Sylvester building at Kent and Victoria Avenue.

He was for many years on the official board of Queen Street United Church, and his memory is cherished by members of the Independent Order of Oddfellows.

Following the close of Lindsay Woodworkers, the late Mr. Vickery became a staff member of Lincraft Ltd. In his days as an athlete, he was a member of the Oddfellows baseball team, when the team were local champions. As a member of Queen Street United Church, he designed and presented the congregation with a pulpit, at present in use in the basement hall of the church. The late Mrs. W. E. Ferguson, the former Valeria Vickery, was a sister of the deceased.
