DO YOU KNOW YOUR SALT FACTS?

Can Be Used In A Hundred Ways On The Farm

Of all materials purchased for farm use, salt, properly applied, is the most consistent money maker and money saver. It is truer economy to buy a bag too much than one pound too little. The things that interest a practical farmer are such topics as lard, livestock, field crops, barns fertilizers, butter and cheese, meat and eggs. For all of these, salt has some definite, practical, money saving or money making use. In feeding of livestock, it has been shown by Dominion Government tests that the cost of salt, properly fed, is returned to the farmer 3 to 14 times over.

Because salt is so universally necessary, it often used a vehicle to carry other food necessities which nature fails to supply. This is the reason for such products as iodized stock salt and iodized table salt. There are large areas in Ontario and the Western Provinces where natural foods contain almost no iodine. Iodized stock salt, in block form or loose, should be given the farm stock. This simple step saves thousands of young pigs, calves, lambs and foals, for the farmers of Canada every year. Take no chances; if you suspect iodine deficiency, use "Windsor" Iodized Salt regularly. It means stronger, healthier, more productive livestock, in any case.

CHOOSING FARM SALT

Coarse salt is salt or large grain size; fine salt is salt of relatively small grain: that is all that the words "coarse" and "fine" imply. As applied to salt neither word has any reference to quality, purity, or price. "Coarse" does not mean "crude and cheap," nor does "fine" mean "refined and dear."

Coarse salt is made by the "open pan" evaporation of brine which uses heat less efficiently than the "closed pan" method employed to make fine salt and it is therefore more expensive to produce than fine salt.

Fine salt is purer and drier than coarse salt; it contains more actual salt per 100 pounds. Because it is in smaller grains it is more adaptable to mixing with feeds, for spreading on hay, etc. Fine salt is actually cheaper.

Coarse salt should be purchased only for such special uses as curing hides and for freezing mixtures. For those purposes specify coarse salt. For other farm needs specify fine salt.

SALT FACTS

A mixture of ice and salt, three parts ice to one part salt will give a temperature well below freezing, in which many dainty desserts may be readily frozen. Remember this on hot summer days. Use coarse salt for this purpose.

A top dresing of salt binds dirt roads and paths, making the mhard and smooth. It dampens and lays the dust, yet prevents excessive mudding in wet weather. Keeps dirt from being tracked into the home.

The cause of heat cramps and heat exhaustion is loss of salt through excesive perspiration. Salt in drinking water makes up the loss and prevents such conditions. At haying and harvest time give your work horses extra salt. They will work better.

Salt is a controlling factor in an animal's use of mineral substances, such as calcium, phosphorous, iodine and iron. No mineral supplement is complete without salt. Proper feeding of salt increases the value of mineral mixtures.

FOR COLLECTORS

"Indians of Canada," by Diamond Jenness, published by the National Museum of Canada ($2.00), beautifully printed and bound, is a book everyone who prides himself on his library should have. Many photos and illustrations throughout the four hundred pages lend interest and are highly instructive. The chapter on "The Eskimo" I found exceptionally informati. as these people living in the far northern hinterlands have always fascinated me. An Eskimo Song, music and words, is reproduced on page 207. I found it a charming little melody.—M.M.

HAVE YOU HEARD

FOURTEEN ERRORS OF LIFE

To expect to set up our own standard of right and wrong and expect everybody to conform.

To try to measure the enjoyment of others by our own.

To expect uniformity of opinion in this world.

To look for judgment and experience in youth.

To endeavor to mould all dispositions alike.

Not to yield to unimportant trifles.

To look for perfection in our own actions.

To worry ourselves and others about what cannot be remedied.

Not to alleviate if we can all that needs alleviation.

Not to make allowances for the weaknesses of others.

To consider anything impossible that we cannot ourselves perform.

To believe only what our finite minds can grasp.

To live as if the moment, the time, the day were so important that it would live forever.

To estimate people by some outside quality, for it is that within which makes the man.

Owner's Son: Dad, all of our boarders got mad this afternoon and left. They said this place was advertised as one of the most magnificent resorts in the world but that was just a fake.

Summer Resort Owner: No wonder they said that. Young man, don't ever let me catch you wading across Bottomless Lake again.

Some people are now installing revolving doors in their homes so that they can go out the same time the bill collector comes in.

Wifey: John, there's a burglar in the silver and another in the pantry eating my pies, Get up and call for help.

Hubby (at window): Police! Doctor!

Youth: Am I the only man who ever kissed you?

Girl Friend: Why will every man ask a girl that same question?

It may be possible to obtain a reputation for being wise by simply keeping still and saying nothing, but there is one person that will not be fooled———yourself.

Joe: I never clash with my boss.

Man: No?

Joe: No; he goes his way, and I go his.

Heard of a man the other day who really enjoyed going to a dentist. He was henpecked and it gave him his only opportunity to get his mouth open.

Young Man: May I have the pleasure of the next dance?

Sweet Young Thing: You May. I know I won't get any pleasure out of it.

SHAVINGS

A postage stamp sticks to just one thing and succeeds.

Many a self-made man might be happier if he could blame the job on somebody else.

If you play with your money, how can you expect it to go to work?

In some cases the life of a very sick patient might be saved by showing him the biography that the minister expects to read at his funeral.

They used to beat the swords into plow-shares. But now they beat the plow-shares into niblicks.

A checkered career often ends in a striped suit.

The world contains an over supply of average men.

Generally the fellow who makes the most fuss about the way the election goes did not vote.

The fool thought requires just as much time as that which turns out to be a big idea.

Love is the sweetest story ever told until somebody pulls the trap door from under you.

HORSES DIE OF EPIDEMIC

Strange Disease Strikes Quick And Sure At Manitoba Equines — 75 Already Taken.

WINNIPEG—New supplies of serum were being rushed to Manitoba to combat an outbreak of disease which is killing horses in central and southwest sections of the province.

Provincial and Dominion authorities co-operated to fight the strange ailment.

The nature of the disease, which has taken a toll of at least 75 horses, was not definitely known, but it was believed to be encephalomyelitis, which attacks the brain and spinal columns of horses. The bite of a new type of mosquito was thought to transmit the minute virus.

Viscera of the dead animals has been sent to Ottawa for laboratory diagnosis.. In the meantime, local quarantine measures in the infected areas are being enforced.

At a meeting, at which preventive measures were discussed, Hon. D. G. McKenzie, Manitoba minister of agriculture, promised the co-operation of his department with the Dominion health of animals branch. Whatever measures may be ordered by federal authorities will be backed by the province.

Serum for combating the outbreak has been exhausted, and orders have been rushed for fresh supplies. The serum is difficult to obtain and is expensive, the three applications recommended by veterinaries costing $25 per horse.

The outbreak first appeared in southwestern Manitoba, rapidly spread north and northeastward. Provincial authorities have no accurate estimate of deaths, or the number of horses attacked. One report told of 126 deaths in one area. Reports of new outbreaks were received from Hartney, Elgin, Boissevain and Pearson.

EXPECT 3 MILLION IN A YEAR FROM AMUSEMENT TAX

Two Months' Revenue Amounts to $504,574 for Treasury of the Government.

Toronto.—Based on returns for the first two months' operation of the new Act, the Provincial Treasury will be enriched more than $3,000,000 through the amusements tax in 12 months at the expense of theatre owners, sport organizations and patrons, according to statistics compiled by the Allied Sports and Amusement Association.

Taking Heavy Toll

This will be more than four times greater than the Amusements Tax revenue of $745,056 for the fiscal year of 1934 and 200 percent. greater than the tax total of $1,016,793 collected in 1932 when the Government granted exemption on admissions of 25 cents and under.

"Amusements tax returns for the last two months plainly indicate how the people of moderate means and children are being badly hit by the new impost," declared W. M. Gladish, secretary of the association which is waging a campaign against the entertainment levy. "The chief changes in the new Amusements Tax Act were the wiping out of the exemption on low-priced admissions and a tax increase of 150 percent. on the 30-cent ticket, which was the lowest admision previously assessed. The tax revenue for July was five times greater than that for the same month one year ago. Therefore it is the ordinary man and his family who are shouldering the burden. The figures only emphasize the need for amusements tax modifications without delay."

"The one big blunder is in calling the English simple when they are subtle."—G. K. Chesterton.
