With FORD MOYNES

Many years have gone by since Lord Nelson, Admiral of the British Navy, ordered the captain of his ship to turn around in the English channel and take him back to London in order that he might continue a game of lawn bowling. So we were enlightened by Alf Simpson, of Lindsay, once an enthusiastic bowler and still an ardent curler.

According to Alf, lawn bowlers of years gone by used to bowl on the crest of the green and experts steered the wooden bowls up and along the green.

Lindsay bowlers are off to a good start on excellent "curry combed" greens at Kawartha Park. Enthusiasm is running very high and the club is in high gear.

Lawn bowling in Lindsay dates back to the days of a number of dedicated bowlers including John L. Rogers, principal of the old separate school and his sons Leo and Harold, George Bell, caretaker of the Bank of Commerce, Tony Bakogeorge of the Olympia, Bill Ferguson of Sutcliffe Drygoods store, Bill Kelcher, Ford Moynes, Aubrey Brennan, George Baldwin, Harry Norton, Les Richmond, Archie Glenney, Marshall Stevens and many others.

Lawn bowling was first played on a couple of greens on the present library park, followed by greens on the lawn of St. Paul's Church and also on greens at St. Mary's RC property on Glenelg Street. The game took on a new lease of life when women were admitted as members.
