

A momentous decision has been reached by the local Board of Education. Perhaps not in the minds of the high school students of today, and that is the edict concerning the decapitation of the third centre section of the old LCI, the top floor which was for many years called the Assembly Hall.

Old time senior residents may well remember climbing the winding stairs three flights up and how the steps were worn down by the heavy shoes of hundreds of students. It was a long and steep climb. The assembly hall was crowded with uncomfortable wooden chairs, the stage was up in the air, all of four feet and many a student stubbed a toe and stumbled up to stage level.

Drama was a popular subject, especially "Merchant of Venice", "Midsummer Night's Dream", "Macbeth", "As You Like It", and other dramas.

How many remember when the handling of the dumb bell was a daily routine.

Football was an enjoyable pastime and drilling of Cadets was liked by many and shirked by others. Cadet drill was a must for the strong and weak, and the annual inspection day, with a wind up march down Kent Street and the partaking of ice cream at the Olympia, was a real break for the majority and a much disliked task for others. when the girls were wait-Dinner in the gym for the resses. The awarding of the Cadets was a gala event and prizes was a highlight of the was rendered more delightful occasion and as a rule the "Speech" by the Cadet Inspector was acceptable but boring.

However this was part of the school year and on the whole
was enjoyable. "School days,
dear old golden rule days"
were actually among the best in the period.
