EDITORIAL COMMENT

The Whitney Government at last appears to be taking a stand on the question and trying to enforce its liquor laws. An attempt is being made in a great many Ontario towns and cities, especially, to compel the hotel keepers to obey the law. It is well known that the great majority of hotel keepers are inveterate law breakers, in that they sell booze whenever they can, whether they have licenses or not. The sooner they are shown that laws are laws, and are meant to be enforced the better it will be for Ontario and for themselves. In the meantime Ontario is enriched by their fines which amount to no small sum. The worst feature of the case is that the fines do not teach them to observe the laws, but to become more expert in breaking them.

The mechanics of the C. P. R. repair shops have been indulging in the luxury of a strike for about three weeks and yet no sign of a settlement. The company makes statements that the strike is not affecting their business in any serious manner. This may be so or it may not, but for some reason the trains on the Owen Sound line have been late ever since the strike began. If the strikers are responsible for this state of affairs we would be much obliged if they would go back to work and be good.

The probability of war between England and Germany has become a popular theme for newspaper discussion, and the prevailing impression seems to be that the next five or six years will see startling changes in the relationship of England and Germany. It is well known that Emperor William is ambitious for Germany, but surely his dreams would not carry him so far as to declare war with Great Britain. He could not but foresee the inevitable results that would follow such an insane course, with no other cause than a conceited desire to "do the big walk" and point with pride on "Germany the mistress of the sea," for of course in his dreaming he could see no possible chance of defeat. In event of war between these two great nations the effect would be felt the world over and its results would be just as disastrous in Canada as anywhere, for where there is scrapping to be done for their King the Canucks are never far away. Let us hope that Kaiser William will not follow the course some people love to prophesy, but show good sense and judgement, for any friction between the two nations would be extremely disastrous to the commerce of the world and the two nations in particular.

A Little Holiday

The Advance man took a short pleasure trip into the wilds of Parry Sound district during the past week in company with Mr. George Mitchell and Mr. John Wright of this place and Mr. Jos. Hodgson of Brooklyn, Ont. It was something of an exploring expedition, as none of the party had before been in the district visited. We had heard of a lake where salmon trout were plentiful and we found the spot. It is a lake some three miles in length and of varying widths with several very beautiful islands nestling on its bosom. It is the most beautiful lake we have ever seen in that district, selecting from probably a hundred or more. The shores are low but rocky and covered to the water's edge with beautiful evergreen growth. The water of this lake is quite translucent and is evidently fed from springs at the bottom, as we could discover no inlet. It is well stocked with splendid salmon trout and black bass. We secured some of both these varieties, and in a nearby lake caught a large number of pike. For a short outing it was ideal, but the time at our disposal was too limited. The lake is difficult of access, being some twelve miles from the C. P. R. and eight from the C. N. O. It is laid away in the solitudes where the loon and the blue heron make their summer homes, and the timid deer comes down to drink of its rarely sweet water. We made the acquaintance of some of the pretty animals, dressed in their summer coats of red. A fawn trotted away a short distance and began feeding not more than forty yards from where we sat. The mother ran out of sight but came back as we waited. We had no business with them on this occasion, however, and they were left unmolested. Others were seen at greater distance.

With C. P. R. connections as they now are, it is possible to go all the way to Sudbury in one day, taking in the Muskoka, Parry Sound and Nippising districts.

The Governor General was in Parry Sound on Monday as we came through. He is visiting the lake ports on the government yacht Speedy.

The Advance man brought home a couple more relics to add to his museum, in the form of the hide and rattles of a rattlesnake. Two of these vermin were killed on the trip, both very large ones. One shook nine rattles at the party and the other five, before he was killed by a well directed blow from a stick. The largest snake measured three feet and the other two-and-a-half feet in length, but the smaller one had much the larger rattle.

Some twenty-five or thirty years ago a terrific forest fire burned over hundreds of square miles in the Parry Sound district. This has grown up with a scrubby growth, and there is a danger of a repetition of the horror. Two railways are now running through it and these are continually starting bush fires, some of which are of considerable dimensions. The land is parched at the present time and covered with tinder, which only requires the passing spark to touch it into a blaze that might easily reach very costly proportions. The Ontario government has fire rangers up there, but their chief occupation appears to be to sit around the isolated railway stations and wait for the latest news. A settler up there claims that they are practically useless, and that the paying of their salaries is a waste of public money.

A telegram received at the Interior Department from Mr. J. Bruce Walker, Commissioner of Immigration at Winnipeg, states that the farm labor congestion has been somewhat relieved at Moose Jaw and in southern Manitoba by distribution. Reports from Indian Head, Virden, Brandon and other points show that these towns are feeding about one hundred men each. The C. P. R. has engaged some of the men to work at double tracking east of Winnipeg. Threshing will likely be general this week, and no more men are required from the east.
