It is not generally known, but nevertheless a fact, that there are people still living who can remember the time when tomatoes were raised merely for their beauty as we raise roses. It was then called Love Apple. While its beauty was admired it was considered like the poisonous oak, dangerous to even handle except by "dark complected" persons. Years of acquaintanceship, however, wore off its superstition and a few "foolhardy" actually owned up to having tasted the fruit. From this small beginning has gradually grown a use that makes today an industry with combined capital of over thirty millions of dollars, which disburses millions of dollars to its employes each year and aggregates an output of two hundred and forty million cans.

We suppose no man yet touched a syndicate horse without getting his fingers burnt. But that fact does not put an end to the business. The next slick talker that comes along with a horse will be able to pick up suckers enough to buy him. But what we started out to tell about was a note which a number of people of this vicinity gave to Kidd of Listowel on a syndicate horse deal. The horse cost $3000, and was bought by 10 men. At the end of the first season, he was sold back to Kidd for $2500, for which Kidd gave his note. Subsequently Kidd made an assignment, and never paid the note. One of the notes made in favor of Kidd was for $900, and came due the other day. The makers were: Richard Harrison, Jos. Ohlheiser, Jno. Johnston and Thos. Wilton. It was paid on Saturday. —Walkerton Telescope.

The value of a knowledge of how to restore a drowning person was illustrated last Saturday when Thos. Radford resuscitated little Elsie Barlow, the five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barlow, Hill street. The child had been playing about the house when she was missed by her mother who went to look for her. The Barlow home stands near the foot of the hill and the domestic water supply is obtained from a well about four feet deep about thirty yards from the house. Mrs. Barlow ran to this well and was horrified to see her child's feet just above the surface of the water. She hastily drew her out to all appearance dead, and carried her to the house, where the mother's cries soon attracted the neighbors. Mr. Radford went to work to resuscitate the child and with such good effect that by the time Dr. Rutherford, who was telephoned for by Mr. James R. Clarke, arrived, she was restored to consciousness and was ejecting the water which had got into her lungs. She is now fully recovered. A rather strange circumstance is that the child says that she heard her mother call her after she fell into the well.—O. S. Advertiser.
