Dr. Sproule's Meeting

Dr. Sproule discussed political matters in the town hall on Monday evening to a good sized audience—an audience which listened to him with the deepest attention for two hours and gave him three cheers and a vote of confidence at the end. Mr. J. A. Boyd occupied the chair.

Dr. Sproule said the government was on trial. They came to power twelve years ago with certain promises that had never been fulfilled. They had wanted reciprocity with the United States and claimed they could get it, but failed, and then decided we did not want it. Territorial disputes with the U. S. were still unsettled, and in the Alaska boundary question Canada lost everything. Sir John MacDonald, or even Mr. Blake, would have had matters settled differently. The Reform government had given England a preferential tariff without an equivalent that had caused 57 woollen mills in Canada to shut down and throwing 4720 operatives out of employment, many of whom had been obliged to leave the country. This represented 23,000 people whose livelihood depended upon the industry, and two millions of dollars worth of machinery was left rotting. This condition of affairs hit the farmer direct. The promise of pure elections, he said had been far from fulfilled, and cited the case of Hyman in London, who had been forced to flee from the country on a plea of sickness. West Huron and Brockville came in for attention, and the famous patent ballot boxes. He also referred to the "thin red line" transaction in Manitoba where three Conservatives had been cheated out of their seats. They promised reduction of taxation and reduced expenditure, but neither was done. According to the Canada Gazette, the net debt of Canada was 283 millions at the end of September—it was 258 millions when the Liberals came into power. He claimed that Canadian credit had not grown in proportion to the prosperity of the people. The government paid to the poor people, through the savings bank, 3 per cent. interest, and on temporary loans of 15 millions—it had never been less—they paid the banks 6 per cent., which was an injustice to the poor depositor. Before coming to power the Reformers had raised a great uproar about Conservative cabinet members travelling in private cars. The Conservatives had three of these cars. To-day the government had seven and were building two more. He only mentioned this to show the inconsistency He claimed that independence of parliament was a farce, and 79 men had been taken from the House and appointed to office, many of whom had held promises of office while sitting in the House. The Northwest land deals came in for very severe censure, and evidence given to show the country had been fleeced to the extent of millions through these deals, to the advantage of friends and members of the government. The Laurier tower at Ottawa, the Three Rivers wharf ann unfortunate Quebec bridge matters also came in for attention. James Sutherland of Woodstock was cited as one who had become wealthy after a few years in Parliament. When Sifton came to Ottawa, said the Dr., nine executions were registered against him which could not be collected. After 2½ years in parliament he paid off his debts on a 50 per cent. basis, has since built a house in Ottawa costing $10,000 and $5000 to furnish, bought a yatch for $13,000 and put $2,000 repairs on it, and has built a summer house on the St. Lawrence worth a large sum. All this has been accomplished in eight or nine years.

The Dr. said he had been serving the people for 30 years and he stood for honesty and faithful service, such legislation as would keep our young men at home, and above all, honest government and pure elections.

Upon request, at the end of his address, the Dr. described the transactions of the Atlantic Trading Company, which was interesting matter to those present.

Why Colds are Dangerous.

Because you have contracted ordinary colds and recovered from them without treatment of any kind, do not for a moment imagine that colds are not dangerous. Everyone knows that pneumonia and chronic catarrh have their origin in a common cold. Consumption is not caused by a cold but the cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the germs that would not otherwise have found lodgement. It is the same with all infectious diseases. Diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles and whooping cough are much more likely to be contracted when the child has a cold. You will see from this that more real danger lurks in a cold than in other of the common ailments. The easiest and quickest way to cure a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The many remarkable cures effected by this preparation have made it a staple article of trade over a large part of the world. For sale by W. E. Richardson.

Rod and Gun for November

Fine diversified reading is the leading feature of the November number of "Rod and Gun and Motor Sports in Canada," published by W. J. Taylor, at Woodstock, Ont. The delights of camping, canoeing, fishing, hunting and mountaineering are dwelt upon in stories which give the added touches of personal experiences to the pleasant pictures of enjoyment each one presents. Particularly notable are papers on "The Deer of New Brunswick" by that veteran guide, Adam Moore; "Deer Farming for Profit," a summary of inquiries on this subject made by the United States Government; and "Wild Rice Growing in Nova Scotia." Everyone will enjoy reading the stories, "Running the Rapids with an Amateur" by L. W. Bingay; "My experiences as a Bear Hunter" by Dr. Henzel; "How I missed a Moose and Deer and shot a Wolf," by Jack Miner; and the friendly challenge by Mr. J. A. Shade, who believes, when all points are taken into consideration, that he has the finest moose head yet taken out of New Brunswick. This summary by no means includes the whole of the wide field covered. Diversions being made into many paths each one of which must appeal to many readers. With the various departments, the wealth of material included in this number of the magazine is surprising and includes contributions that must appeal to all lovers of outdoor life.

Alex. Mann, gardener, of Orangeville, has issued a writ against the Superior Portland Cement Co. for damages to his garden, caused, as he alleges, by cement dust and smoke from the plant. The case will probably be tried at the fall assizes on Nov. 15th.

An Interesting Visitor.

The Advance had an interesting visit on Thursday and Friday of last week from a valued old friend, in the person of Mr. Joseph Townsend, the founder of the Durham Review. When we first knew Mr. Townsend, 32 years ago, he was publishing the Orangeville daily Advertiser in partnership with Fisher Monroe. After a year of experience in this line the partnership was dissolved and Mr. Townsend came to Dundalk and started the Guide, which lasted only one year, when the plant was taken to Durham in 1878 and the Review started, which has had a flourishing career ever since. Mr. Townsend was seven years with the paper, when he moved to Toronto. He is at present living with a married daughter at Summerville, near Toronto. One of the reasons why we value his friendship is because ye editor learned his trade with Mr. Townsend in those early days, and other, probably more important reasons, are embodied in the following article that appeared in Saturday Night last spring: "A man who has given all the years of his life to the unselfish pursuit of a hobby which increases the sum of human knowledge, is Mr. Townsend, whose picture is given here. Mr. Townsend used to publish the Dundalk Guide and the Grey Review in Durham, but even in those days he used to spend every possible moment on his hobby—searching for fossils. For half a century he has carried hammer and chisel and has tramped in all corners of Ontario tapping the rocks, collecting and labeling his finds. When he enters a quarry or a river bed he is oblivious to all but his pursuit of geological specimens until he discovers, with a sigh, that darkness has fallen and to further continue his labors might cause him to destroy some valuable specimen that he or another might secure another day.

Thousands of the fossils that Mr. Townsend has collected are in the Geological Survey at Ottawa and in the collections of Toronto and McGill Universities. It is perhaps fair to say that no other man in Canada has done such a vast amount of personal collecting, and nearly all this work he has done in half a century of discouragement and personal loss. A man more entirely unselfish in all respects it would be hard to find. During the past couple of years the authorities of the University of Toronto, recognizing his ability as a collector, have sent him out on summer trips, once down East and once out to the Western provinces—and these missions he has regarded as the great opportunities of his life. But his lifetime services have in no way been recognized or rewarded, although I feel sure many who know the man's simple-minded devotion to his speciality and his ill-requited labors, will say that the country might, through the Geological Survey, grant him a pension, or offer him such an appointment as would enable him to devote his remaining days to the work in which he is so experienced."

While here Mr. Townsend visited Eugenia in his "official" capacity.

While uncoupling a car in the C P. R. yards at Hanover, Chas. P. Clark, conductor of a mail train, met a terrible death on thursday of last week. While switching the mail train off the main track to make way for the eastbound express, he slipped in between the cars to uncouple them. In some way his foot got caught and the car wheels passed over him, mangling him in a terrible manner. He leaves a wife, but has no children. His parents live in London. His father and brother are also railway men.

Our New Hair Vigor

Ayer's Hair Vigor was good, the best that was made. But Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula, is better. It is the one great specific for falling hair. A new preparation in every way. New bottle. New contents. Ask your druggist to show it to you, "the new kind."

Does not change the color of the hair.

Ayer's — Formula with each bottle. Show it to your doctor. Ask him about it, then do as he says

As we now make our new Hair Vigor it does not have the slightest effect upon the color of the hair. You may use it freely and for any length of time without fear of changing the color. Stops falling hair. Cures dandruff.
