Eugenia.

Wedding bells have been ringing all around, and still we expect to hear them soon again. Eugenia boys are getting discouraged, as all our prettiest girls are being picked up by other young men from a distance. Serves are boys just right for being so slow.

The Rev. Dr. Caldwell of Flesherton celebrated a very interesting wedding on Wednesday last at noon, in the Methodist church, Eugenia, when Miss Ruby Graham of Eugenia was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Hoggard of Thornbury. The bride looked charming. She wore her traveling dress of brown and was unattended. After the congratulations of a large circle of friends a splendid dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents, where a large number of the immediate friends of the family sat down to enjoy the wedding feast. After dinner the happy couple started on a bridal tour. They will reside at Thornbury. A large number of useful presents were received by the bride, as she was one of our most highly esteemed young ladies. The best wishes of her many friends here accompanies her to her new home

Some impudent person went into Bob Williams' stable one night last week and took out his buggy and one of his horses and almost ran the poor horse to death, and put it back in its stall the next morning. If he finds out the party he will make them pay dear for their trip.

Port Law

Wednesday of last week marked an important epoch in the history of this section, the event being the public opening of our new school building. The people of the section turned out and a number of speakers from a distance also responded to an invitation to be present, while some others sent their regrets. After the meeting was called to order, Mr. R. D. Meldrum, secretary, upon motion occupied the chair. The program was started with music by Mr. and Miss Osborne, who afterwards interspersed the speeches by instrumental and vocal selections. Short addresses were given by Reeve Muir, W. J. Bellamy, Charles Stafford and T. R. McKenzie, followed by the speaker of the occasion, Dr. Sproule M. P., who occupied about an hour, the most of the time being devoted to salutary and practical advice to the pupils with a lesser share for the parents. We are sorry at our inability to give a synopsis of the Doctor's address, and if it could be published entirely it would be profitable and interesting reading for the public generally. The building is built of red brick upon a stone basement, the floor of which is cement. The school is twenty-eight by thirty-eight feet. Also teachers room eleven by twelve feet and two cloak rooms, six feet by twelve feet. The windows are of white diamond and prism glass placed so that the light enters to the left and rear of the pupils. The air and floor space is sufficient for all the pupils of the section. The heating apparatus is of the latest improved and the ventilation is a system approved by the department. The seats and desks are of the individual kind, sixty-six in number, graded in size to suit pupils in the various stages of developement. The rest of the furniture including teacher's desk and chairs are new. A slate blackboard extends entirely across the room with shorter hyloplate boards at each side. The equipment is all first class. A new bell has been placed in the handsome belfry. The interior is finished with oiled maple. Messrs. Geo. Woods and son of Dundalk were the contractors and Mr. C. G. Gilby of Chatsworth, the architect. The building in every way meets the requirements of the act and will grade No, 1. The cost will be between $3,400 and $3,500. Last year more land was added to the ground, bringing it up to 1¼ acres. A new wire fence was also built and the ground leveled.

Altogether the ratepayers are proud of the production and justly so as we have now at least one of the best rural schools in Grey. May those who are now bearing the burden be rewarded by seeing the rising generation securing such an education as will enable them to battle their way through life to the citadel of success.

Mr. Samuel Badgerow has taken unto himself a partner in life, in the person of Miss Violet Warling of Chatsworth, formerly of this place. After their honeymoon trip they will take up their residence on the fourth line. We join their many friends in wishing the young couple a long and happy wedded life.

"Granddmother's Garden" is the title of the beautiful picture painted by Charles C. Curran for The Youth's Companion panel Calendar for 1909. It is printed on the finest finished stock, by the most recent methods of litography. All the strength and beauty of the original painting are faithfully shown by employing thirteen seperate colors.
