Greater Buying Opportunities

Never present themselves to better advantage than in the Month of January.

JANUARY is the month of all others that presents to the buying public the greatest buying opportunities of any month in the year. The biggest value is offered for your money during the month of January because it is the final wind-up of a year's business, and business men try to have stocks at their lowest, and in order to accomplish this many lines of merchandise are sacrificed in price and in many instances sold away below the wholesale cost to the merchant. That is why we say to you that the values we are offering this week represent big savings, and by returns for the investment of your money it will pay you to visit this store.

THE MINERAL BOOM

The mineral boom in Canada goes on and is bound to continue. Scarcely a day passes without new and important discoveries being made. What is there in the way of mineral that Ontario has not got? The latest discoveries are: Finds of zinc at Wiarton and Port Arthur, and an important oil and gas field near Toronto. Three years ago Cobalt startled the world with its richness; Gow Ganda, in the north district, only discovered within the past three months, is said to outstrip even Cobalt in its silver richness. Canada came third as a producer of silver last year, and if the discoveries in Ontario go on apace as they have been doing recently we will soon take first place. There are thousands of square miles yet to be prospected in what is known to be mineral-bearing country, and millions will be produced where today the products are not available owing to the need for shipping facilities. We predict that within fifteen years from the present time Ontario will be known as one of the richest mineral provinces in the world. It is now known that a mineral-bearing belt runs from the extreme west of this province to the east, extending into the provinces on either side. This means work and wealth for generations to come.

BEAUTIFY THE HOMES

It is time that our farming community came to a better understanding of the value of beautiful surroundings. In early days when hard labor was the only asset of the settler it was impossible for many to pay much attention to the aesthetic, but with advancing prosperity that excuse is void, and at the present time there are few who could not spend a little more time than they do in making their homes more pleasing to themselves and to all lovers of the beautiful. How often in travelling through the country do we see a comfortable farm house standing out bleak and barren without shade tree or lawn to relieve the monotony, and a home that should be cosy and comfortable-looking outside as well as in, remains a cold and forbidding spectacle. Too many people think that when they have erected a respectable, and maybe costly, house, they have done their whole duty by the family, without attempting to beautify the surroundings, and the front yard is thus left to scorching suns, chickens, ducks and geese, with weeds growing at their own sweet will.

A very little time, and very little money, would change all this as well as add hundreds of dollars to the value of every property so improved. A few evergreens planted judiciously works wonders in this respect. Evergreens can easily be secured in this country, and many more of them should be planted around our farm houses, and as hedges to the lanes. Spring is the proper time for planting these, although it can be done in August, though not quite so successfully.

There is another aspect to this, too, and that is the wisdom of making a home whose surroundings are so attractive that the young people can point with pride to their bithplace and remember its charms wherever duty calls them; who will not feel a tinge of shame when some distinguished visitor may call, at the slovenly approach, even though luxury may dwell within. The anxiety of young people to get away from the home will be largely prevented when home surroundings are made attractive.

We would like to see our country homes made more beautiful, because we know the rewards are great. Sometimes a mere hint of this nature will start people to think, and if this item succeeds in doing this the space will not be wasted.

Will Join The Star

Mr. Joseph T. Clark, in whom Flesherton claims an interest as being a native of our town, and editor of Saturday Night for the last three years, has resigned that position, and will rejoin the editorial staff of The Daily Star. The change will take place on February 15th, when Mr. C. Fred Paul, city editor of the Montreal Star, will succeed Mr. Clark on Saturday Night.

Mr. Clark is one of the prominent writers for the press in Canada. His contributions in Saturday Night many years ago over the signature of "Mack," when he was assistant to Mr. E. E. Sheppard, attracted wide attention. In 1899 he first joined the staff of The Star, where he remained until three years ago, when the proprietorship of Saturday Night changing, he was induced to assume the editorship. Now for the second time he leaves Saturday Night to join The Star.

A Markdale Lady Sues

From the Toronto Star of Monday

Elizabeth Caswell entered action this Morning before Mr. Justice Latchford, against Mr. Alexander Lyons, a cattle dealer of Markdale, for $2,300 and costs. This sum represents ten years' board at $4.50 per week. The plaintiff claims that not only did the defendant refuse to pay her, but when he left about Jan. 16 1907, he assaulted her as well. The defendant said that during his sojourn in Mrs. Caswell's house he had bought porvisions and paid part of the rent. W. E. Rooney, K. C., appeared for the defendant, and J. W. McCullough for plaintiff.

"Why did you keep him all these years?" asked Mr. Rooney.

"Because he promised to marry me when my husband would die, and he said he was working for both of us."

"Did he ever give you any money?"

"Ten cents once in a while"

"But he helped you out of trouble?"

"He paid my fine when I was convicted of selling liquor, when everyone else was doing the same.

"How much was the fine?"

"About $100."

Mrs. Caswell's history as told by herself is an interesting one. "I was born in the County Cavan, Ireland, and my mother lived to be 100 years old. I lived with my husband in Markdale, He left for parts unknown and I have not seen him for twenty years. I do not know whether he is dead or not. When he left I was the finest looking woman in the County of Grey."

She is of the true Hibernian type, is nearly six feet tall, and has shoulders that created envy in most of the male spectators in court.

In the box she stated that she had got into debt and had borrowed money from Lyons As security she alleges that she gave over the deeds of her various pieces of property in Markdale. Lyons was put in the box and told of a scene which occurred in the boarding house kept by Mrs. Caswell. "I went up there and found the men boarders outside the door. Women who were roomers were upstairs. In the hall stood Mrs. Caswell with an axe, threatening to cut everyone to pieces. I went upstairs and found all the windows open. The roomers had escaped over the roofs."

"Did you ever pay a fine for her?"

"I paid several fines, both when she was convicted of selling liquor and also when she got into trouble with her neighbors."

Mr. McCullough then attacked the statements of the witness that he had paid for provisions, rent, and lodgings for Mrs. Caswell.

"Where are your bills?"

"I have only a few. I usually paid cash and had the goods sent in her name."

"Were you not living with this woman as her husband?"

"No," thundered the witness.

"How long did you board with the plaintiff?" asked Mr. McCullough

"Only about three months in each year," replied Mr. Lyons.

In discussing the action Mr. Justice Latchford referred scathingly to Lyons, saying, "I regret very much being compelled to find against the plaintiff, for I believe that he gave this woman as little money as a man of his mean disposition could. There is no doubt that he told what was untrue in the witness box. She was evidently infatuated with him, and believed he would marry her when her husband died, and kept him friendly to her all these years by doing more for him than a man of his mean disposition was likely to do for a woman who thought so much of him." Defendant had to pay the costs.

Many Sleepless Nights, Owing to a Persistent Cough. Relief Found at Last.

"For several winters past my wife has been troubled with a most persistent and disagreeable cough, which invariably extended over a period of several weeks and caused her many sleepless nights," writes Will J. Hayner, editor of the Curley, Colo., Bulletin. "Various remedies were tried each year, with no beneficial results. In November last the cough again put in an appearance and my wife, acting on the suggestion of a friend, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The result was, indeed, marvelous. After three doses the cough entirely disappeared and has not manifested itself since." This remedy is for sale by W. E. Richardson.

Morse Blumenthal was acquitted of the charge of seducting an adopted daughter of Mr. Lewis of Amaranth station.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend
