STARLINGS STARTED "SNITCHING" MAIL

On Thursday last Mr. Chas. Melbourne, mail carrier on R. R. 1, Bradford, while on his route discovered a 6starling packing away merrily at an unstamped letter lying in the ditch about ten feet from Mr. John Watson's mail box. Investigating, Mr. Melbourne found that the letter had been stolen from the mail box by the starling, and, lying upon the ground below the box, he found the three cents which the sender of the letter had put in the box with the letter for the stamp. This is the first instance of the local mail carriers having caught these robber birds in the act, though many a starling's nest has been found in the boxes. Last year considerable excitement was caused by rumors that letters were being stolen from the rural mail boxes in the Sutton district, until postal authorities actually discovered the starlings taking mail from the boxes, in some cases the letters being found two hundred yards from the box.—Alliston Herald.

Names Will Not Be On Memorial Need More Money

Since publishing the names that will be placed on the memorial to be erected in Memorial Park to the memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War several more contributions have been received. On the opposite side from where those names will be placed will be the names of all who served from this village, but it is the wish of the committee in charge of the erection of the memorial to have all the names of thoes who served from this entire district inscribed on the memorial. To do that will require more money than is now available, so it is up to the public and those interested in the boys whose names were not mentioned to get busy at once and make arrangements to have them inserted. The cost will be 25 cents for each letter of the name. Let the committee have your contribution this week. If any name is omitted the blame cannot be placed on the committee but to the relatives and others who have not sent in their conributions.

WHAT FLAGS PORTRAY

A blood-red flag has always been a symbol of mutiny or revolution. A black flag was the symbol of the pirate, now flown only after an execution to show that the law has been carried out. All over the world a yellow flag signals infectious disease, and a white flag in universally a flag of truce At sea, striking of the flag means surrender. When the flag of one country is placed over that of another the victory of the former is denoted. In time of peace, this would be an insult and if done, even by mistake, an apology would have to be made. In the old days, it was customary to trail the flag of a vanquished foe behind the ship.
