A couple of weeks ago the C. P. R. authorities changed the name of Orangeville Junction to Fraxa Junction, so that in future there will be no such a thing as Orangeville Junction. The name has been wiped off the map and in all the years to come be sure and forget that there ever was such a place as Orangeville Junction. The word Fraxa is a contraction of Garafraxa, the name of the township in the eastern half of which the Junction is situated.
