He Was Afraid To Cross A Street

Lost His Nerve After 12 Months' Agony

Suffering from acute rheumatism in both his knee joints — treated in hospital twice without result — so unnerved that he was afraid to cross a street—how readily every rheumatic sufferer will sympathise with this man. Read what he says:

'For 12 months, I suffered pain and misery with acute rheumatism in both my knees. Twice, I was treated in hospital—but it was no use. I could not walk up or downstairs. I was afraid to cross the street, for I had lost all confidence in myself. Fourteen days ago, I started taking Kruschen Salts, and already I am a new man. I can walk with a smart step, go up and downstairs with ease, and cross the street with complete confidence. My rheumatism is getting better every day." — D.L.

In a good many cases, rheumatism cannot resist the action of Kruschen Salts, which dissolve the painful crystals of uric acid — often the cause of those aches and pains—and assist the kidneys to eliminate this poison through the natural channels.

Alleged WIT

Great opportunities in life may be scarce. But every hour of every day of our existence is a little opportunity to improve yourself, to the end that you may be better, your neighbor happier, and the world the gainer for your presence in it for a short time.

Lonely Valley

Blackened trunk and blackened twig, and still the living green
Comes bravely forth to hide the scars.
O Friend, when you have seen
The naked hillside, bare and gray,
where once the lilac bloomed,
Will you not give a thought to these your careless act has doomed?
The smouldering fire you left behind that bright September day,
The match you flung so carelessly as you drove on your way,
That half-burned cigarette that fell
beside the winding road;
You bear the sin in secret—yes, but you bear a heavy load.
And yet, the stricken valley wears a trusting hopeful air,
As though it really tried to say: "Now
don't you fret and care!
This frightful thing that came to me
was never planned by you;
We'll both forget the harm they did
—but YOU be careful too!"

Husband (reading newspaper account of an incident at travelling menagerie)—"With a hoarse roar the lion sprang at the trainer and pandemonium broke loose!"

Wife—"What queer names they give animals to be sure!"

Jack—"There is a lot of favoritism in our family."

Uncle—"Why, Jack, what on earth do you mean?"

Jack—"Well, I get punished if I bite my fingernails and when baby puts his foot in his mouth they think it's cute."

Judge—"Your wife complains that you never work. How about it, Sam?"

Sam—"Dat woman's crazy. Ask her what Ah was doin' de second Tuesday of August, last year?"

Shoe Merchant — "Business is so quiet that we had better have a special sale."

Store Manager—"All right. What shall it be?"

Shoe Merchant—"Well, take that line of $5 shoes and mark them down from $10 to $7.95.

Read It Or Not.—All wild men of Borneo are fakes.

Continental Landlord (to his American visitor)—"And how do you like our city?"

American—"I hate it. It's as hot as h—, and just as uncomfortable."

Landlord (admirably) — "Ah! Is there anywhere you Americans have not been?"

Narrowest Street Closed By Gates

QUEBEC.—Sous le Cap street, the narrowest street in North America and the mecca of tourists from all parts of the continent will no longer be traversed by automobiles and other vehicles, including the quaint caleche.

At the request of the Quebec Safety League fearful of injuries to the flock of children who play in this narrow alleyway which is graced by the name of a street, Chief of Police Trudel has closed it and gates have been built at either end to prevent their passage.

The children who made a livelihood by begging for pennies, now find their source of income cut off.

Wheat Prices Will Go Higher

Drought In Australia and Argentina Threatens Wheat Production

CHICAGO, — Big drought areas in Australia and Argentina threatening to curtail crop production are now looming as a major influence for higher prices on wheat.

Estimates current here indicate that 75 percent of the 13,500 acres seeded to wheat in Australia, is facing critical necessity of rain, and that the chief producing districts of northern Argentina continue to suffer from a lack of moisture. It is already too late for additional planting of wheat in Argentina.

The outlook for Argentina and Australia is regarded by the Chicago wheat trade as suggesting a below normal yield for the southern hemisphere and that the crop situation there is likely to become more important every week from now on.

With fairly accurate figures at present available as to the 1937 harvest in the northern hemisphere, and with much closer attention being given to conditions south of the Equator, the wheat prices as compared to one week back were ranging from 1-8 of a cent off to 7-8 up. Simultaneously, corn was 3-8 to 2 3-4 down, oats ½ to 1¼ lower, rye varying from 1 cent to 1 1-8 advance, and provisions showing 22 cents to 55 cents setback.

Storing Cheese In The Home

Best Place is in Refrigerator or Very Cool Cupboard

Most people who live conveniently near a grocery store buy cheese, as they do other foods, in small quantities. In such cases there is no need for concern over the problem of storing cheese in the home. It is simply a matter of keeping a pound or less in good condition for a short time. Cheese should be kept in a cool place, as high temperature will cause some of the fat to melt and escape from the cheese, states the "Cheese for Better Meals" bulletin issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculutre. High temperature also has the effect of drying out the cheese, particularly if it is left uncovered. The best place for cheese is the refrigerator or in a very cool cupboard, free from dampness. The flavor and texture of the cheese will be preserved if it is kept in a covered container or is wrapped in heavy waxed or parchment paper. To prevent waste, scraps of cheese may be grated and put in a covered jar, to be used as required in cooking. Process cheese should be stored in the refrigerator, and may be left in the package in which it was purchased.

Prevent Drying Out

If a whole small cheese, or part of a large cheese, is bought to be stored in the home, care must be taken to prevent drying out or the development of mould. A good plan is to cut a small portion from the cheese and wax the surfaces of the remainder with a coating of paraffin wax, applying the melted wax with a small brush. When stored in a cool, well-ventilated, dry place, cheese so treated will keep in perfect condition for some considerable time. The portion cut for immediate use should be covered and kept in a cool dry place. When it has been consumed, another portion can take its place, and the operation repeated until the whole cheese is used up.

Foundation Complete For Largest Telescope

MT. PELOMAR, Calif. — A squat mass of steel 135 feet wide huddles atop Mt. Palomar waiting to receive a 200-inch glass eye that will reveal to man more than eight times as much of the universe as he has ever seen before.

It is the turntable foundation for what is to be the world's greatest telescope. For 14 months scientists at the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena have been grinding the great reflecting mirror—200 inches, or almost 17 feet, wide—that will rest in the bottom of a 60-foot tube to be mounted on the steel base.

The tube is nearing completion in Philadelphia and soon will be shipped here.

California technicians are now boring 36 holes in the bottom of the mirror. Base supports will fit into the holes.

When that task is finished, they will start the tedious process of making the flat surface concave so that it will centre its view of the heavens into the telescope's eyepiece. Seven smaller mirrors will aid this procsss.

The large mirror is expected to be finished and installed in 1939. It will weigh 20 tons.

The mirror, tube—all material used in the observatory—must be hauled by truck up this 5,600-foot mountain, 50 miles northeast of San Diego and 150 miles south of Pasadena.

Lindbergh May Move To Home In France

PARIS, — Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, was reported to be negotiating this week, for the purchase of Milio, a small island once owned by Aristide Briand, near Trebeurden on the Breton coast.

The newspaper Le Journal published the report in a special dispatch from Perrosguirec, saying its informants believed the flier would buy the property to be near Dr. Alexis Carrel with whom he has collaborated in a scientific research.

Dr. Carrel has a residence on St. Gildas Island nearby. Lindbergh has made frequent visits recently to the Carrel home.

Briand, now dead, used to spend vacations on Milio Island when he was premier of France.

Lindbergh, with his wife and five-year-old son, Jon, has been living near Weald, Kent, since the family left the United States in December, 1935.

Residents about St. Gildas believe Lindbergh and Dr. Carrel are working on a "very important" invention.

Public Health In Newfoundland

Peculiar Task Faces Government —One Doctor For Every 7,000 People

Public health, which has been commanding increased public attention in Canada and the United States year by year, is now being considered by Newfoundland authorities with more serious thought than ever before.

In his recent budget speech, the Commissioner for Finance declared the problem of public health was one of the most important with which the Government had to grapple. The Department of Public Health and Welfare has been given over three million dollars for its year's estimates and in addition, it is expected that part of the $8,000,000 reconstruction grant from the British Government will be devoted to improvement of medical facilities.

Newfoundland has a gigantic task in bringing better health to about 290,000 people scattered over the island and another 5,000 along the Labrador Coast. In the remote fishing villages there is only one doctor to every 7,000 people, the area covered being so large that the burden is tremendous.

Within the last year, nine cottage hospitals have been put into operation and the work of planned public health commenced by various preventive measures.

Some idea of the need of public health facilities in Newfoundland may be had from the infant mortality figures. Canada's rate of 73 deaths per 1,000 births is considered large, yet in Newfoundland the infant mortality rate in 1936 stood at 96.5 for St. Johns City and 103 for the country district.

Britain Seeks Long Air Flight Record

LONDON, — The Royal Air Force will soon make an attempt to capture the world long-distance flight record with a non-stop hop from England to Australia, according to the aviation reporter of the London Daily Express.

Air distance from England to Port Darwin, Australia, is 9,124 miles — 2,394 miles longer than the Soviet, 7,730-mile record gained in a flight from Moscow to San Jacinto California.

Air Ministry officials, following consultations with experts, are said to be working out proposals for sending a high-speed R.A.F. bomber, capable of 350 miles per hour and reaching a "ceiling" level of 23,000 feet, which would enable it to fly over the top of the Himalayas without making any deviation.

It has been calculated the flight would take about 55 hours at an average speed of nearly 220 miles an hour.

BOMBAY — Nationalist Congress ministers accepting office in six provinces have decided to take only one-sixth of their stipend, in order to emphasize that India is a poor country.

Appendicitis Thought To Be Hereditary

WASHINGTON, —Appendicitis, one of the commonest human troubles requiring surgical treament, is apparently a hereditary disease, a Midwestern scientist reported this week.

E. G. Stanley Baker, of Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Ind., announced in the Journal of Heredity he had found infection of the appendix, resulting in inflammation, soreness and rupture, "runs in families."

He found it running through four generations of one family, in which 12 cases occurred. A second appendicitis-susceptible family was found, "without any especial searching," he added, and a third was reported to the Journal simultaneously.

The trouble is not that a child is born with an infected appendix, the Indiana scientist declared. Instead it inherits a predisposition to the disease in the same way that other persons are believed to inherit a predisposition to cancer.

"Since the immediate cause of appendicitis is usually absterial infection, it is impossible to say exactly what weakness may favour the onset of such a condition," he explained.

Cecile Dionne Ends "Talk Strike"

CALLANDER. — It required a mother's cajolery to end the first strike in the Dionne nursery. Mrs. Olivia Dionne, mother of the quintuplets, heard the "middleweight," Cecile, crying plaintively in the isolation ward.

On one of her frequent visits to Dafoe Hospital, Mrs. Dionne left the four sisters in the playroom to visit Cecile. A nurse told her Cecile had been on a "talk strike" for several days and pettishly refused to answer when spoken to. The doctor was worried about her, said the nurse.

Mrs. Dionne talked to the pouting youngster for some time before a reply was forthcoming. "Will I bring Pauline's little pet dog over?" she asked in French.

"Oui, oui," Cecile murmured. She scampered from her cot to her mother's chair, kissed her soundly and trotted meekly back to bed.

Mrs. Dionne pursued her questions and finally got the child answering readily. On visits from Mr. and Mrs. Dionne and the older brothers and sisters of the quints last week, Cecile had not been allowed to see them due to her cold.

So much enthusiasm had the four well quints for Papa Dionne's felt hat, it has become completely devoid of lining in the last week. The little girls find it jolly sport to rip and tug at the now battered fedora.

Hay Fever Cure

DAWSON, Neb., — William Stevens of Dawson, explains how he fights hay fever sniffles and sneezes. His technique:

Takes all the furniture except the bed out of the room.

Wipes the floor with wet cloths.

Hangs wet sheets in the room, but takes them down an hour before retiring.

Keeps the doors and windows in the room locked.
