Eugenia Development Will go Ahead

The development of the Eugenia water power for electrical purposes is likely to be resumed in the near future. Owing to a want of funds the company were unable to complete the development, and the work has been at a standstill for the past two years.

This condition, of course, was the direct result of the money stringency which seriously affected many another industry as well throughout Canada, but the effects of which have now practically passed away.

On Saturday last a party of eight Owen Sound gentlemen, consisting of Messrs. W. P. Telford, Christopher J. Eaton, J. M. Kilbourn, D. M. Butchart, Horace B. Smith, Thomas L. Dates, J. R. Wainwright and R. McDowell, visited the falls to personally inspect the work that had been done, and to gain an idea of the possibilities with a view to investing money in the scheme in order to get it going. The company is said to have already spent $100,000 on the development, and another $200,000 is needed.

The property as it stands to-day is a valuable one and it would be a great pity to leave it uncompleted when the rate at which power can be sold, and the advantage accruing therefrom to the industries of the county, are taken into consideration.

The gentlemen who visited the works on Saturday were very favorably impressed and believe that little difficulty will be experienced in securing sufficient funds to complete the construction. Owen Sound is especially interested in the scheme, as it could absorb a large proportion of the power in its local industries and at a much lower rate than the present cost.

Mr. W. P. Telford, ex-M. P., is a prime mover in this rejuvenation, and does not think any difficulty will be experienced in securing sufficient funds to complete the development.

On Tuesday Secretary McLaughlin of Toronto took another party of gentlemen over to view the prospect, including W. A. Brackenbridge of Buffalo and J. W. and T. W. Baillie of Toronto.

Holstein

Willie Norris, a young chap about 13 years of age, who worked at O'Connell's, was returning on horseback from taking the cows back to pasture on Saturday morning, when his horse stumbled, throwing him on a stone pile, and, from the nature of the bruises received, it is surmised that the horse also fell on him. He received a nasty gash on his forehead and several bruises on the front part of the body, while two ribs were broken at the back. It was a pretty serious fall, and while he is not yet out of danger it is expected that he will pull through all right.

One evening last spring Archie Baird was driving into town, when he was run into by Wm. Ramage of Thistle, and his buggy was considerably damaged. Mr. Ramage wrote regretting the accident and agreeing to do what was right regarding the costs. When the buggy was fixed Mr. Ramage was notified, who in the meantime had placed the business in the hands of the lawyer who wrote Mr. Baird, refusing to pay the damages asked for. The result was that the case came up for trial at Durham last Wednesday, and the judge awarded Mr. Baird $10 for the damage done, the defendant paying the costs of the court.—Leader.

Durham.

The Orangemen of Durham District intend to hold a celebration here on the 12th of July, 1910.

On Saturday afternoon last Mr. Thos. McGirr had a fine frame barn erected on his north hundred acre farm.

Monday, August 2nd, has been proclaimed Civic Holiday for the town of Durham.

Mr. N. W. Campbell, and son, W. A., left recently for their summer home at Norway Point, Lake of Bays.

A few evenings ago one of our local clergymen bought a loaf of bread at Stinson's bakery, and started off to see one of his parishioners on the other side of the street. Soon a number of young people left the refreshment parlors and got mixed up with a cord which curiosity led them to chase up. At the other end of the string they found the preacher with the loaf of bread under his arm, but whether he was discussing politics, religion or local option we have not yet learned. We presume that the girl who tied up the bread forgot to cut the cord that tied the loaf that lay on the arm of the preacher, but Jack Kinnee is evil-minded enough to think that George Stinson intended to steal back the bread as soon as the preacher laid it down on his neighbors doorstep. We don't for a moment imagine that George would ever think of stealing any of his own bread.

We regret to report a sad event in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Yiirs, who mourn the loss of their bright little son, Albert George, who died on Tuesday morning under very distressing circumstances. He was a bright healthy little child, and as the baby of the family was the joy and happiness of the home. On Saturday last he happened to get some matches, from which he sucked the sulphur, but showed no signs of illness till the following Monday, when he turned very sick. The doctor was sent for and at once diagnosed the trouble as a case of poisoning. This led the parents to think of the matches, and they believe that poisoning from this source is the probable cause of their little one's death. The fond parents are very much distressed over the sad event, and much sympathy is expressed by the citizens.—Chronicle.

An illustration of the difficulties met by those who seek to raise the social standard comes from London, where a borough council recently erected forty little dwellings for the poorest class, each with a bath-room. An investigation a few months later showed that in thirty-six of the forty houses the tenants used the bath tub wholly for the storage of fuel, clothing and general rubbish.
