DRY FEET

There are certain small things which, if neglected, may cause a considerable amount of discomfort; whereas, if attended to, they go far to make comfort. One of these is the question of keeping the feet dry. If we allow our feet to become wet and then sit for some hours at home, in school or at work, the chilling of the feet, while the rest of the body is warm does, for some reason, predispose to colds in the head. In order to avoid head colds which are such a nuisance and which, sometimes, lead to serious trouble, the feet should be kept dry and warm.

It is much more sensible to buy a pair of rubbers than to spend money on doctors' bills. It is much better to take an extra minute or two to put on a pair of rubbers than it is to spend a day or two in bed as a result of having got wet fee.

It is not always possible for us to avoid wet feet; sometimes the rain is unexpected and we are caught unawares. In such cases, shoes and stockings should be changed without delay, and the feet given a good brisk rub with a rough towel.

Clothes should be worn according to the thermometer. In winter, shoes should have thick soles, or light shoes should be worn under overshoes. If woollen stockings are necessary to keep the feet warm, they should be worn. There is a difference in individuals; some require heavier foot clothing than others in order to keep the feet warm. This is something which we must learn from our own experience and by which we must be guided.

Parents will find that they will accomplish something worth while in preventing colds if they make sure that their children's feet are kept dry and warm during the fall, winter and spring seasons. It requires a little preparation in the way of providing rubbers and overshoes, and, when they are provided, it needs some supervision to see that they are worn, but the effort will be well repaid in greater freedom from this winter nuisance and danger.

NO LAUGHING MATTER

Farmer Brown complained that he could find no old clothes to put on the scarecrow.

"Well," said his wife, "our George said I could give away his plus-four suit, as he's got a new one. Why not use that?"

"Don't be ridiculous, woman," said the farmer. "I want to scare the crows, not make 'em laugh!"

Just An Accident

A pleasant Sunday afternoon in the country. Thousands of happy families "out for a drive," whizzing along typically picturesque Ontario highway. Suddenly, around a curve — screams, the shriek of brakes and tires, a terrific crash, the screech of tearing metal, the sickening shatter of glass, agonizing moans — then a deathly moment of silence.

A man, one arm hanging limp, crawls from the wreckage. One ear has been flayed from the side of his head. He leans over someone else in the car, then collapses.

Help comes almost immediately. Limp, broken bodies are dragged from the wreckage and laid on the roadside. A thin read stream trickles over the running board of the car and forms a pool on the highway. One body is covered with a blanket. Two others are rushed to the hospital; there may still be time to save them. A bystander peers curiously into the back of the car. He turns away with a shudder and is violently sick; someone else fishes out an arm and tucks it under the blanket beside the still body.

Horrible, isn't it? But neither uncommon nor exaggerated. It is simply a factual report of one of the 501 motor accidents in 1936 which resulted in fatalities. The headline in the newspaper next day read something like this: " ONE DEAD IN CURVE CRASH, TWO IN HOSPITAL MAY DIE." You've seen dozens of headlines just like it, but how often do you stop to think of the hideous picture of blood and pain and death which lie behind them.

Accidents are horrible. Horrible to hear about and look at. Horrible in the pain and agony and sorrow they bring. Most horrible in the realization that THEY NEED NOT HAPPEN.

In Ontario, the Department of Highways is determined they will not happen. But to prevent them, it needs your help. You must drive (and walk) carefully, sanely. YOU MUST STOP TAKING CHANCES. And you must make sure that others do the same thing by reporting those who endanger lives by reckless driving. Dismiss any silly prejudice which suggests "it's none of your business." It is your business! It is one of your responibilities to yourself and to the community. It is one of your duties as a citizen—and it is one of your duties as a human being to help save others from a needless death or injury. YOU ARE YOUR BROTHER'S KEEPER.

WHAT BECOMES OF LOST THINGS?

A perusal of the "want ads" is interesting—especially the Lost and Found columns. If you are a scanner of these you have noticed, no doubt, that there is a big discrepancy between the number of articles lost and the number found. There may be quite a long list of "losts;" but only occasionally do we see a "found."

Why is this? Do the things that are lost just disappear, never to be seen again? Are they found by persons who hold them until they see that the loser has advertised and then returned them? Or do the basis of the old saying, "Finder keeper, loser weeper?"

We can hardly believe that when a thing is lost it is gone forever—that it fades into nothingness. Most of the articles advertised as lost are too substantial for that. So we must look in classes 2 and 3 for the explanation.

It is not hard to understand the attitude of the finder who waits for an advertisement. It is much easier to say, "Well, if he really wants this thing he'll advertise it," than to send an ad, of his own to the paper. That, of course, should not be; the finder should try to get in touch with the loser at once; but the tendency is to wait—and quite often the finder does not scan the papers any too closely.

Then there is the finder who picks up an article and calmly appropriates it. That class is by no means small. A Toronto newspaper once made an experiment. It had two representatives drop purses in different parts of the city and watch them being picked up. The purses contained, besides a $1 bill, the owner's name and address; but only one was returned—and that by a young Chinaman! Not a very flattering testimonial to the white man's honesty!

All things considered, it does look as if our standard of honesty is not very high. At a rough estimate, the ratio of "lost" and "found" ads. is about 50 to1—which indicates that about 98 percent. of those who find lost articles are either passively or actively dishonest. Perhaps it is not quite as bad, for possibly some things are lost beyond recall; but even if we allow a ratio of 9 to 1 we have no reason to be proud of the record.

Diner: "Waiter, look at the ends of this sausage."

Waiter: "What's wrong with them, sir?"

Diner: "They're very close together, aren't they?"

Live Stock Report

Seven thousand cattle, including left-overs from the week previous, were offered for sale on the market on Monday and the trade continued much the same as the week previous, as the bulk of the offering consisted of medium quality cattle, for which there was a limited outlet. Choice baby beeves, cows and bulls held about steady, while all other classes of cattle generally were lower.

Only a few lots of choice heavy steers brought $9.00, with the most of the fair to good weighty steers selling from $6.00 to $7.50. In the butcher section, baby beeves sold at from $10.00 to $10.50, but those of medium to good quality were lower, from $5.50 to $8.00. Choice handy weight butcher steers and heifers sold at from $5.50 to $7.00 top, with the bulk of the sales of fair to good butchers from $5.00 to $6.00; common to medium $3.75 to $4.50. Only a small percentage of the stockers and feeders, were of desirable selection, best light kind from $4.50 to $5.00 and feeders of heavier weights from $5.50 to $6.00; fair to good stockers ranged from $4.00 to $4.50; common to medium $3.25 to $3.75. Choice light heifery cows sold at from $5.00 to $5.25 and choice fat cows from $4.00 to $4.50; fair to good from $3.00 to $4.00; canners and cutters $2.25 to $2.75. Choice butchers bulls brought from $3.75 to $4.25; bolognas from $3.00 to $3.65.

Supplies of lambs were heavy and the trade very slow, sales being made on the basis of $8.00 for choice ewes and $7.00 for bucks, the market closing very weak on Monday. Choice butcher sheep sold at from $3.50 to $4.25. The calf market was active and steady, with choice calves selling at from $9.00 to $9.50; fair to good from $7.00 to $8.50; common to medium $5.00 to $7.00; grass calves $4.00 to $4.25.

The hog market worked lower on account of liberal supplies and much lower reports from the United Kingdom. Monday's sales were made on the basis of $9.75 for truck deliveries with the possibility of lower prices during the balance of the week.

The market will be open on Monday, Thanksgiving Day, in order to assist the shippers and buyers of stocker and feeders, as well as other classes of cattle.

In arguing with your wife, be sure you are right—then keep still.
