A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative ever for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

Talbot--Moore

A very pretty event took place at the home of Mr. Geo. Moore, gravel road, Wednesday evening, the eighteenth inst., at seven o'clock p. m., when their youngest daughter, Mayme, was united in marriage to William Talbot near Dundalk by Rev. Mr. Wellwood, Flesherton, assisted by Rev. Mr. Laidlaw, Inistioge. The bride, who entered the parlor on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march, played by Mrs. Robt. Moore, wore an empire gown of white embroidered Swiss batiste with a yoke of guipure insertion and lace, and carried a shower boquet of white sweet peas. Emily Acheson, niece of the bride, acting as flower girl and ring bearer, wore a dress of white muslin and carried a basket of pale pink sweet peas. The ceremony was performed under a horseshoe of evergreens and sweet peas, immediately after which the congratulations where offered, while the organ softly played. The guests then repaired to the dining room, where dinner was awaiting them. The bride s table was in white and green. Suspended from an evergreen wreath at the ceiling four white ribbon streams, caught in several places with white pansies, were fastened one to each corner of the table, in the middle of which was the wedding cake. The gift of the groom to the bride was a pearl crescent, to the flower girl, a heart shaped locket, set with a turquois. Among the guests were some from Owen Sound, Toronto, Shelburne, Acton and Dunkirk, N. Y. The gifts were of such a nature as would give the young couple many happy remembrances of their friends. The going away gown was blue cloth trimmed with black and gold braid, with white net waist and white straw hat trimmed with roses and brown foliage. Mr. and Mrs. Talbot left for their home amid showers of confetti and good wishes.
