Since Peary has so kindly presented the ice at the north pole to President Taft, the refrigerators at the White House will doubtless have an ample supply.

At last the question that naturalists have puzzled over for ages, as to exactly what species the proverbial "bear with a sore head" belonged, has been answered. It was a polar bear. This information comes from Commander Peary himself.

Edward Eggleston's picture of the end of the world in the Hoosier School Master has been duplicated in Massachusets, where a crowd of misguided individuals spent a night awaiting the destruction of mother earth and the wicked that inhabit her. So far there have been no extraordinary phenomena with the exception of one spot on the sun, and there has been no diminution in the population of Dundalk.

At infrequent intervals, fortunately, humanity is shocked by an insight into the depths of degredation to which mankind can fall. Such a sad awakening has recently occurred at North Bay, and a poor woman who, in her frenzy upon discovering the guilt of a bestial husband, committed a murder for which she now lies under the death sentence. The jury, it is alleged, twice refused to bring in a verdict of "guilty," and were practically forced to do so on their third retirement. A great deal of public sympathy rests with that wife and mother. There is a general feeling that justice would not be advanced by administering capital punishment to this woman. Her case, however, will no doubt by properly looked after. If the jury's position was as outlined above the trial was much in the nature of a farce.

According to the report of the Department of Indian Affairs, the Indian population of Canada is now on the increase. During the last fiscal year the Indian population increased from 110,205 to 111,043. This increase is due to improved sanitary conditions and increased knowledge of sanitary laws. That the Indians are becoming valuable producers of wealth is shown from the fact that they tilled 52,899 acres of land, on which crops were raised to the value of $1,477 977. The fur production was worth $616,884, showing that it now holds a very secondary place. These two items are a very small proportion of the earnings, however, as thousands of Indians are hard workers and producers for others who are not taken into consideration in these figures. The Department of Indian affairs is now considering the advisability of establishing an improved school system for the Indians.

To show to what extent the Indians of Ontario at least are becoming Anglicized, the writer offers the following incident: While talking to an Indian boy of 17 years, who was engaged in a river drive, during the past summer, the information was given that in his family (on a treaty reserve) only English was spoken, and he had only learned his native tongue a year before. Previous to that English was all he knew. The boy's father went to the same school that the writer attended 35 years ago. We look upon this as a rather remarkable evidence of the wonderful progress that is being made in assimilation and progress among the aboriginal tribes. The boy's father was Joe Jones, second son of Peter Jones, the highly respected old man who was so widely known by pioneers in this county many years ago.

Fire at Hepworth

Hepworth, Ont., Sept. 24.—The Royal Hotel, a temperance house, owned and managed by J. J. Downs, was completely gutted by fire at an early hour this morning. The fire is supposed to have originated in a frame cookhouse, which adjoined the main building in the rear. Mrs. Downs was awakened about 1.30 o'clock by a strong smell of smoke, and opening the kitchen door, the flames and smoke immediately forced themselves into the main building. She gave the alarm, and the boarders gathered together as much of their belongings as were handy and got out. They had narrow escapes.

R. Morrisson, traveller for W. E. Sherling & Co., Winnipeg, lost his clothes, samples and $200 in cash. He got out by dropping from a side window, as all means of escape were then cut off. F. S. Clark, another traveller, crawled through his bedroom window to a balcony and then dropped.

Two daughters of Mr. Downs, the proprietor, were not missed until nearly every person was out. Their brother made a dash for their rooms, found them overcome by the smoke, and dragged them out.

The loss will be about $2,000. The insurance is small. The hotel was an ideal temperance one, and was liberally patronized by travellers.

Beck—Menzies

The following wedding announcement appeared in a recent San Francisco paper. The bride and her family are well known in Artemesia. The family removed from here some years ago. A brother of the bride worked for M. K. Richardson & Co. for a time. Mrs. Sam Fisher and Mrs. Wm. Fisher are sisters. A brother lives at Wareham. The paper says:

One of the prettiest home weddings of the season occurred at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. George Menzies, in Berryessa Wednesday evening, August the eleventh, when Miss Ida May Menzies became the bride of Rollo Howard Beck, the immediate relatives only being present. The spacious rooms were beautiful in their profusion of greenery and blossoms, and the bride never looked lovelier than when, as the soft strains of the wedding march began, the bridal party wended their way through the rooms to a bower of palms and flowers, where the couple were made one by the Reverend N. M. Parsons, brother-in-law of the groom. The bride, attended by Miss Hazel Sigurd, was gowned in white silk, her only ornament being a beautiful diamond and jade pendant, the gift of the groom. She carried white carnations and ferns. The bridesmaid looked lovely in a gown of pink silk and her flowers were pink carnations. Littte Francis McCart, a niece of the bride, looking dainty in a dress of pink silk, very sweetly took the part of flower girl. The groom was attended by Mr. John Menzies. After the ceremony and breakfast the couple were whirled away to the train, followed by showers of rice and old shoes. Their honeymoon is being spent at Pacific Grove. Mr Beck is a well known taxidermist of the State, being chief field assistant of the California Academy of Sciences. The happy couple will soon leave for the Hawaiian Islands, where Mr. Beck's work will be for the coming year. Mr. and Mrs. Beck will leave behind a host of friends who wish them all the success and happiness the year can give.
