News and Information for the Farmer

Rural Population

During the past sixty years the increase in population in Ontario has been chiefly in the category designated urban. In 1871 the urban population numbered 356,000 and rural population 1,265,000 or 78 per cent. of the total. In 1931 the urban population had increased to 2,096,000 but the rural population was only 1,33 ,000, or 39 per cent. of the total. The number of occupied farms in the same sixty years showed an increase from 172,000 to 192,000, but the size of the average farm rose from 93.8 acres to 118.9. These two changes indicate a decrease in the size of the farm family and an increase in the total area of occupied land from 16,162,000 acres to 22,841,000 acres. The area improved, however, showed a much greater percentage gain, rising from 8,834,000 acres to 13,273,000.
