THE MOCKING-BIRD AND THE DONKEY.

(FROM THE SPANISH-BY WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT.)

A mockink-bird in a village
Had somehow gained the skill
To imitate the voices
Of animers at will.

Well pleased, the mock-bird's master Sent to the neighbours 'round, And bade them come together To hear that curious sound.

They came, and all were talking In praise of what they heard, And one delighted lady Would fain have bought the b rd.

A donkey listened sadly, And said: 'Confess I must That these are shallow people, And terribly unjust.

"I'm bigger than the mock-bird, And better bray than he, Yet not a soul has uttered A word in praise of me."

—As they were baking their cysters the lady gave a little scream of rapture and detached from one of the bivalves that had fallen to her share a pearl.

Her lord and master inspects it critically and returns it with a sapient shake of the head. "Bogns, sure," he says; "they couldn't afford to give you pearls with oysters at twenty-five cents a dozen." Frequently the stroller was com- GINGER, MACE, CLOVES, PEPPER the Indge asked an Irish policeman named O'Connell "When did you last see your sister?" The policeman replied "The last time I saw her, my lord, was about eight months ago, when she called at my house, and I was out." Here the Court broke out into a roar of laughter. The judge rallied to the charge by asking, "Then you did not see her on that occasion?" Breathless pause till the Irishman on hand. The cash system while treatment of DIAN CHISHOLM.

—"Now, then, state your case," said a Detroit lawyer, the other day, as he put the five-dollar bill away in vest-pocket. "Well, suppose the man living next door wants to put a barn right up against my line, coming within two feet of my house?" "He can't do it, sir. Can't do any such thing," replied the lawyer. "But I want to put my barn right up against his I'ne," remarked the client. "Oh—ah—ys: I see. Well, sir, go right ahead and put your barn there. All the law in the case is on your side."

Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a del. icately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maiadies are floating round us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame.
