Live Stock Report

Monday's supplies of cattle proved to be too much for the present outlet, with the result the trading was slow and prices from 15 to 25c lower.

Choice weighty steers sold at from 6.00 to 6.50; fair to good from 5.25 to 5.75. In the butcher section, steers and heifers of choice quality brought from 5.75 to 6.00; fair to good from 5.00 to 5.65, common to medium 4.25 to 4.75. Baby beeves were considerably lower, choice from 6.50 to 7.00, medium to good from 5.50 to 6.25. The cow market held steady, choice from 4.00 to 4.25, with a few heifery cows around 4.50; fair to good from 3.50 to 3.85; common to medium 2.75 to 3.25; canners and cutters 2.25 to 2.65. The bull trade was easier, with choice from 4.00 to 4.25; bolognas from 3.50 to 3.75.

Supplies of lambs were light and choice lambs sold at from 9.00 to 9.25 and those of medium to good quality from 8.25 to 8.75. Choice butcher sheep brought from 5.50 to 6.00. Calves were in good demand, choice from 9.50 to 10.00; fair to good from 8.00 to 9.25; common to medium 6.00 to 7.50.

The hog market worked a little lower, due to heavier supplies and Monday's sales were made on the basis of 10.15 for truck deliveries. The prospects for the balance of the week looks uncertain.

Now for the trout streams!

British committee decides that flogging should be abolished. We do not imagine there will be any protests from the crooks.

MAKING A SALE

A city man owned a very fine thoroughbred Scotch Collie dog. The owner wished to sell the dog and offered it to an old farmer whom he thought would appreciate its high qualities. He described in detail the dog's beautiful coat of hair, his markings, his pedigree, and the long list of prizes he had taken at various dog shows.

The old farmer grunted and said he did not want a dog.

Th the city man turned his dog over to a friend to sell. The friend went to see the same old farmer. He asked the farmer about his rheumatism and asked him if it ever troubled him when it came to running after the cows at night. The old farmer admitted it had. Then he asked the farmer if he had lots of rats. Yes he had and they were getting to be a terrible nuisance.

And then came the matter of a watch dog. So the man asked the farmer, now that he was getting old, what special precautions he had taken to protect his property. Lots of night prowlers around; wouldn't a watchdog be a good thing to have on the farm. The farmer readily agreed to his suggestion.

Then the man said: I know where there's a dog who will drive in the cows, watch the sheep, kill every rat on the place and be alert and watchful at night. The old farmer didn't wait for him to finish, but said, "Where in the world can I get that dog? That's just what I need." In two minutes the sale was made.—Huntsville Forester.

PYORRHOEA

John Hunter, the famous English surgeon of the eighteenth century, was among the first, if not actually the first, to point out the damage which arose in other parts of the body as a result of infections in the mouth.

Of recent years, rather startling advertisements have directed public attention to pyorrhoea, which is one of the most common ills of mankind, even if it is an exaggeration to say "that four out of five have it." More teeth are lost because of pyorrhoea than from decay.

Pyorrhoea is a disease of the gums which surround and support the teeth. It is not a new disease, as evidence of its ravages is found in skulls of prehistoric times. It occurs in all lands, among all races and in both sexes.

The normal healthy gums are pink in colour, firm in texture and cling closely to the necks of the teeth, forming little pink points of tissue which project between the teeth.

The first step to pyorrhoea is gingivitis or inflammation of the gums. This shows itself by the gums becoming tender and bleeding readily. After a time the gums shrink, the necks of the teeth are exposed and it is at this stage, with the formation of pus, that we have real pyorrhoea.

The trouble apparently originates in any condition which, by irritating the gums, sets up an inflammation. Tartar which collects around the teeth will, unless removed periodically, act as an irritant. Tartar is most prevalent on the teeth close to the openings of the salivary glands, which means the inner surfaces of the lower front teeth and the outer surfaces of the upper back teeth.

Poor dental work leads to irritation. A poor bite due to irregular teeth or the loss of one or more teeth irritates the gums. There should be a law against the sale of tooth picks because the regular user of these gives his gums a great deal of punishment.

It would appear that the way to prevent pyorrhoea is to eat a balanced diet so as to provide good building materials for the teeth; to chew the food well, using all the teeth; to keep the teeth clean by regular and thorough brushing night and morning; to brush the gums at the same time as the teeth; to have the teeth cleaned regularly by the dentist, and to have such dental care as may be found necessary at the time of the regular dental cleaning.

T. B. AREAS FOR ONTARIO

Ontario farmers are becoming increasingly conscious of the necessity of eliminating bovine tuberculosis from their herds. A few years ago there was open hostility in many counties to the restricted area plan fostered by Ontario and Federal governments, but this opposition has been gradually swept away until now there are fifteen counties in Ontario in the restricted area list, Grey, Simcoe, Lanark, Victoria and Peterborough counties have signed up for tests while petitions are being circulated in Lennox and Addington, Hastings, Essex, Wentworth, Norfolk, Rainy River, Lincoln, Welland and Bruce.

Following educational meetings in Oxford county, petitions are being signed rapidly; a complete canvass is being made in Middlesex County. Brant county held a meeting last week to discuss application to County Council to have Brant made a T.B. Restricted Area. Haldimand county council has asked the Live Stock Improvement committee to hold meetings and distribute application forms.

Two meetings have been held in Elgin county, one at Port Burwell, the other at Aylmer, Mr. F. S. Thomas, agricultural representative, is in charge of the campaign for instructing farmers about the plan. The western part of the county will be canvassed later. Waterloo county is proceeding early next month to have cattle owners canvassed.

The new school teacher in trying to explain the word "slowly" walked across the floor by way of illustration.

"How did I walk?" she asked the class.

"Bow-legged" shouted little Ruth.
