Some Trade Marks May Be Invalid

Viewed In the Light of the Recent Privy Council Decision—Manufacturers Should Check Up on Themselves

All manufacturers owning trade marks which are descriptive, geographical, the name of a patent expired product, or the name of a person, firm or corporation, should be considering whether their trade marks are valid or not in view of the recent decision of the Privy Council in the case of The Canadian Shredded Wheat Company, Ltd., vs. Kellogg, wherein the question of descriptive trade marks was discussed.

Invalid After Forty Years

This decision is of real importance to all trade mark owners who desire to protect their marks, because in this case a trade mark, which had been used for almost forty years in Canada, was held to be invalid. The Court points out in the decision what is necessary in order to prove that such marks have acquired distinctiveness so as to entitle them to protection.

It may be that in view of this decision an amendment to the law is necessary for the protection of such trade marks. Trade mark owners in favour of such an amendment should, at the earliest opportunity, express their views on this point.

Majority of New Canadians Come In From The States

5,643 Admitted in Last Year With 5,209 Canadians Returning

The United States provided the greatest number of immigrants to Canada in the year ended March 31, 1938, when 15,645 men, women and children from 50 different countries came to the Dominion to make new homes. This compared with 12,023 the previous year and represented an increase of 30 per cent.

From across the international border came 5,643 American citizens to settle in Canada. They came from 48 states with one from Alaska, nine from Hawaii, and 17 from the District of Columbia. In the fiscal year 1936-37, 5,113 migrant U. S. citizens moved to the Dominion.

Most From Michigan

In the 12 months ended March 31 the greatest movement of immigrants came from the State of Michigan, with 1,113; New York 993, 307 from California, 291 from Illinois, 217 from Ohio, 271 from Washington, 232 from Maine, 217 from Ohio, and 210 from Pennsylvania.

In the same period no fewer than 5,209 Canadians returned to the Dominion from the United States. This compared with 5,064 in the previous year. Of those who came back to Canada 4,524 were native-born Canadians, 356 British subjects with Canadian domicile, and 329 naturalized Canadians with domicile.

From Britain and Europe

Immigration to Canada from the British Isles in the last year numbered 2,972 against 2,264 in the previous year. From England came 1,949 with 364 Irish, 604 Scottish and 55 Welsh.

Immigration from other countries were: Germany, 523; Italy, 408; Hungarians, 622; Polish, 615; Ruthenian, 1,356; Slovak, 1,249; Japanese, 139; Chinese, none; Hebrew, 317, and 188 Croats.

By sex the migrants were: adult males, 3,670; adult females, 6,319; with 5,656 children under 18.

....Gardening Notes....

FLOWERING PLANTINGS

The first flowers to be sown are those very hardy kinds which would naturally reproduce themselves in Canada, such as cosmos, california poppy, alyssum, calendula and candytuft.

In the second group are the zinnia, marigold, nasturtium, stocks, aster and petunia, which do not stand serious frost, and of the tender things, which must be held back until all danger of freezing is over, are the dahlia, canna and gladiolus. As the latter are all bulbs and do not come up until a week or so after planting, they may be risked within a few days of really warm weather.

Vegetable gardens should be very productive affairs. Where space is limited it is possible to grow two crops, even in those sections of the province where the summer season is inclined to be short. This is done by planting rows of very early stuff like lettuce, radish and spinach in between later maturing vegetables such as corn, tomatoes, parsnips and swiss chard. By the time the later things are beginning to need full room, the first named group will be used and out of the way.

Don't Rush

Undoubtedly the average amateur gardener loses more by rushing the season than in planting too late. One sharp frost in May will often completely ruin a promising early start, or at least set the hardier things so far back that the later planted sorts will actually be ahead.

There is no objection, however, in getting started early. There is more pride in the first marigold or zinnia, and more satisfaction in the first meal of peas or potatoes right from the garden at the door than in a dozen later on. But there should be a certain amount of judgment used.

HAVE YOU HEARD

Girl Friend — "My little brother will tell if he sees you kissing me."

Young Man—"But I'm not kissing you!"

Girl Friend—"Well, I thought I'd tell you anyway."

Advice

Say it with flowers, or say it with eats;
Say it with kisses, or say it with sweets;
Say it with jewels, or say it with drink,
But, never, oh never, say it with ink!

Mrs. Jones was discussing the latest fashions with a caller:

Mrs. Jones—"Did you say your husband was fond of those clinging gowns, Mary?"

Caller — "Yes. He likes one to cling to me for about three years."

Harold—"I've got a new idea. There is a fortune in it."

Gerald—"What now?"

Harold—"It's an alarm clock that emits the delicious odors of frying bacon and fragrant coffee."

Definitions

Pessimist—One who sees things as they are.

Moron—One who is content with a serene mind.

Good Sport—One who will always let you have your own way.
