With The Lordly Moose In Algoma.

Comanche Indian. Going over to see what the fuss was about we found two members of the party standing over the respected remains of a bull moose, who, however, was minus his horns, which had been knocked off in some manner only a few days previous, probably in a fight with another moose. The story of the killing was not romatic. Mr. Wilfrid Phillips was standing on a deer runway waiting for a deer that the dogs were driving, when he heard a slight noise in a ravine below him. Creeping cautiously down he looked into a thicket and saw what he took to be the head of a deer, but which proved to be a moose's ear. Firing at it the huge animal lumbered out towards him, staggering. Thee more bullets were placed into his head and shoulders in quick succession before he fell. The animal would weigh about 700 lbs., live weight. After trussing he was left where he fell for the time being.

Tuesday produced two deer only. Wednesday was the big day of the hunt and was a day long to be remembered by some members of the party at least.

OUR SECOND MOOSE.

On that day our party was strung out at different points and the dogs were put out. Our dogs would not run moose and little hope was expressed that any more would be secured. In fact one of our dogs had run a deer within a few rods of the animal captured on Monday and it did not stir out of its tracks. The day in question Mr. James Rose was stationed on a narrows of the lake where deer crossed. The dogs ran one deer, which he secured. Later in the day he heard a noise behind him, and looking around he saw a huge bull moose bearing down on him at full sail not two rods away. He quickly fired at the animal's head, We believe it was three shots that he fired and the great beast fell within seven feet of the water, where, after trussing, it was only necessary to roll him into the boat to take him to camp. He was a magnificent animal and would weigh 1000 lbs. live weight. Another member of the party secured a splendid buck that day, making two deer and the big moose one day's bag, a record for the hunt. Mr. Rose was on his first hunt and was justifiably elated over his good fortune. This animal only had one horn, the other having been knocked off.

Thursday morning the hunt proceeded and the afternoon was devoted to drawing out our first moose some quarter of a mile to the water, whence he was towed to camp.

Friday, Saturday ahd Monday no hunting was done. We had ten deer and two moose, about as much venison as we cared to bring home. The time was devoted to making arrangements for and getting our game out to Bay Fin where the tug was to meet us. Owing to rough weather the tug did not arrive until Wednesday following. We arrived at Killarney Wednesday afternoon and were obliged to wait for a boat—the Germanic—until Friday evening. The party arrived in Owen Sound at 3 a. m. Saturday and came down on the morning train.

This is the whole story of the hunt without bothering our readers with details. The season was pleasant for hunting but rather warm to keep the game. While at Killarney awaiting the boat the time was relieved by studying the fishing conditions, etc., but hung heavily all the same and we do not desire any more fall hunting trips by boat. They are too uncertain.

We heard a good story while at Killarney, told by a guide, at the expense of a Collingwood gentleman who hunted for moose in the vicinity of Collin's Inlet. The guide showed him a moose and told him to shoot. The gentleman asked the guide if he was sure it was a moose, and was again told to shoot. Again the gentleman asked if the guide was quite sure it was a moose. Then he proceeded to adjust a pair of eyeglasses, but before this could be accomplished Mr. Moose had decamped. The hunter then told the guide he would give him $25.00 if he would follow and secure the animal, but, as the guide said, the game would be about twelve miles away by that time and the quest would be useless. Thus the one and only opportunity was lost and the gentleman had to return home without his moose meat.

Of course it is superfluous to remark that the game laws were observed, as Deputy Game Warden Jacob Loughead was a member of our party. We believe that the laws in that district are fairly well observed and few transgressions occur. The Spanish river Lumber Co. issued strict orders to the cooks in their fifteen camps that not an ounce of venison was to be cooked by them, which had the effect of knocking illicit work in the head, and was creditable to the company.

An exchange publishes the names of a party of "dear" hunters. There can be no objections to this, but suppose some of the dear hunters were already married. We imagine there would be a curtain lecture coming their way after the paper came out.

A 14-year-old girl was married recently in Meaford, her parents consenting.

Twenty-five years ago it was difficult to sell spring wheat flour for pastry at any price.

People didn't want it—they were using soft, winter wheat flour, and saw no reason for changing.

But hard wheat flour was persistently pushed. The women tried it and succeeded with it,—to-day hard wheat flour is the favorite for Pastry as well as for Bread.

Ogilvie's Royal Household

is hard wheat flour at its best—milled by modern methods, retaining all of the good of the wheat. It is without an equal for every kind of baking in which flour is used. 16
