Control Destructive Cabbage Insects

Velvety green caterpillars, known as imported cabbage worms, are commonly found feeding on cabbages and cauliflowers. They eat large circular holes in the leaves and frequently bore into the centre of the cabbage heads. Control measures should be applied as soon as injury to the plants becomes evident.

Dusting with arsenate of lead and hydrated lime is the most widely recommended remedy. One part of the poison should be mixed with eight parts of the hydrated lime and the resulting powder dusted on the plants in the early morning or late evening when the leaves are wet with dew. Particular attention should be paid to the central portion of the cabbages and cauliflowers, since this is a favorite spot for feeding. Two or three applications should be made as needed, care being taken to apply the dust immediately after feeding becomes evident. Due to the waxy condition of the leaves, spraying has not given satisfactory results.

If the plants have to be treated shortly before being marketed, fresh pyrethrum powder should be used, one part to three parts hydrated lime or flour. Pyrethrum powder is non-poisonous to human beings and can be secured at local seed houses, drug stores or wholesale drug companies. Fortunately the remedies recommended for cabbage worms control other destructive cabbage and cauliflower insects as the cabbage looper and diamond back moth.

It is much easier to be critical than to be correct.
