Summer may have its overdose of heat but at least none of it costs anything and it doesn't require shovelling.

People Will Talk

You may get through the world, but it will be very slow, if you listen to all that is said as you go. You will be worried and fretted and kept in a stew, for meddlesome tongues must have something to do—And people will talk.

If quiet and modest you'll have it presumed that your humble position is only assumed; you're a wolf in sheep's clothing or else you're a fool, but don't get excited, keep perfectly cool—For people will talk.

And then if you show the least boldness of heart or a slight indication to take your own part, they will call you an upstart, conceited and vain, but keep straight ahead, don't stop to explain—For people will talk.

If threadbare your dress and old-fashioned your hat, someone will surely take notice of that, and hint rather strongly you can't pay your way. But don't get excited whatever they say—For people will talk.

If your dress is in fashion don't think to escape, for they criticize then in a different shape. You're ahead of your means or your tailor's unpaid. But mind your own business there's nought to be made—For people will talk.

The best thing to do is to do as you please, for your mind, if you have one, will then be at ease. Of course you will meet with all sorts of abuse, but don't think to stop them it's not any use—For people will talk.

"Tell me, papa, what is a consulting physician?" said the little boy. He is a doctor who is called in at the last minute to share the blame.

Say less than the other fellow and listen more than you talk. It's easier to look wise than to talk wisdom, for when a man is listening he isn't telling on himself and he's flattering the fellow who is.

What He Went For

A clergyman who had failed to gain the confidence and esteem of his flock was giving his farewell sermon.

He stated: "My dear friends,—It is clear God does not love you, for I have not buried any of you. It is equally clear that you do not love one another, for I have not married any of you. It is painfully clear that you do not love me, for you have not paid me my last quarter's salary. I shall, however, be independent of you in future, as I go to take the position of chaplain at a convict prison."

He then calmly gave out his text: "I go to prepare a place for you."
