Bro. Irwin Prophesies.

In his report of the corner stone laying last week Bro. Irwin of the Durham Chronicle enters the prophetical field. As a prophet we hope he will be as successful as he has in other lines of life work. Mr. Irwin says:

As in all aggressive measures, the establishment of the institution has a number of opponents, but the feeling of the speakers seemed strongly of the opinion that time and a better knowledge of the benefits of the school would wear away all feelings of antipathy.

The township of Artemesia, and the village of Flesherton, constitute the school district, and in addition to teaching the higher subjects of the school curriculum, special training will be given in scientific agriculture by a properly qualified professor. The feeling that country children are deprived of many higher educational advantages for want of higher grade schools, had its influence on the promoters in bringing the high school to the child who would otherwise be unable to get to the high school. While we have a personal feeling in favor of all educational progress, it is not our intention at this juncture to try and convince others to think as we do. We know the futility of such an attempt and wait for the changes that may come through a few years' experience.

All the rural schools are engaged, to a greater or lesser extent, in preparing candidates for entrance to the high schools, but once the high school examination is passed the child is often forced to quit school and his education is too frequently at an end. The expense of sending a child from home and paying for board and tuition is often a great hardship on the financially overburdened parents, who would often strain a point were a school at all convenient. We are now looking forward hopefully to the time when the children of Artemesia will have the advantages of a higher education and when regular lines of conveyances will carry them to school in the morning and carry them home again at night. This is not an entirely new idea. It has been in successful operation elsewhere, and may soon be regarded as a necessity by the outlying portions of Artemesia township. It would not be looking towards an impossibility to imagine stabling accommodation to be provided in the village, or perhaps on the school premises, when the children from different localities might take turns in providing means of transportation. We are living in an age of comparatively cheap bicycles which in many cases would serve a good purpose for a considerable portion of the year. Where there's a will there's a way, and a pupil who is anxious for a higher education will "find a way or make it."

Notes of the Women's Institute.

The regular meeting of Flesherton Branch will be held in the town hall on Tuesday, the 28th inst., at 2.30—Food Value of Strawberries, and Canning, Miss C. Henderson; Prosperity of Canada, and Memoirs of our Late King, Mrs. H. E. Wellwood. Mrs. Robt. Moore will give a short report of the county convention, which was held in Owen Sound. Visitors, particularly young ladies, are invited to the meeting.

A shocking accident took place near C.P.R. depot at Walkerton last Friday night in which an employee of the Haag circus advertising department was cut to pieces by the night express. The victim was Clarence A. Kellett whose home is in Greenville, South Carolina. He had been drinking and must have sat down on the track and was apparently just making a cigarette when the accident occurred. Kellet was a young fellow of 24 years of age and was to have been married in September. He was a very genial little fellew. His parents in the distant south were reached after considerable difficulty, and a member of the family is expected up to remove the remains home. An inquest will be held.

The white grub has made its appearance in this neighborhood as well as farther south. Mr. Amos. Hoover says he has lost several acres from its devastations while some of his neighbors have had to plow up some of their grain. The white grub is the larvae of the June bug which lays its eggs among the tufts of grass in the hay fields and pasture land. The first year it does very little damage but the second year it commences feeding upon the roots of the grass and grain so that they are completely destroyed. It was thought that the depredations of this pest were confined to the southern counties but this section is also suffering. Its work is said to be as destructive as that of the wire worm.—Walkerton Telescope

John Marshall, a well-to-do and highly respected farmer about one mile north of Shelburne, lost his life as a result of a runaway Friday afternoon last. He was working on the road unloading gravel when an automobile approached, owned by Dr. Gowan of Horning's Mills. The horses became frightened and ran away. Mr. Marshall, who was standing on the whippletrees at the time, was thrown on the tongue of the wagon and dragged for some distance. He only lived a short time after the accident.

While laboring at the town dock, Collingwood unloading coal off the steamer Pawnee, Thomas Briggs fell off a scantling and met death instantly. The deceased in some way stumbled, falling 25 feet and alighting on his head upon the cement dock. Mr. Briggs had been a resdient of Collingwood for a number of years and was highly respected by his many friends. He leaves a widow and two daughters.

Melville is a new town in Saskatchewan, of which most people have heard but not many are aware that Melville people have done something that makes them distinctive. Presbyterians, Methodists, Baptists and Lutherans at Melvelle have built and dedicated a union church costing $7,000.

Frank Quinn of St. Catharines jumped from the lower steel arch bridge into the Niagara River despite the efforts of his companions to stop him. He was not seen again.

The residence of H. E. Gifford, 7th line, St. Vincent, was burned to the ground. It is supposed to have started from a chimney spark. Insured for $1200 on building and $500 on contents.

John Bailey's horses took fright at an automobile when he was returing home from Whitby, ran away, and the old man's neck was broken.

John Whyte, a farmer of Blandford township, was sentenced to two years in Kingston for trying to set fire to his barn.

Meaford ratepayers voted down a by-law to raise the sum of $32,000 for the erection of a new public school building.

John Miller of Sullivan has gone back to oxen as a means of working his farm. He paid $160 for them.

The Sexes In Church.

The separation of the sexes seem to have been formerly by no means an uncommon practice in the Church of England. In fact, Edward VI.'s prayer book specially mentions that at the communion service "the men shall tarry on one side and the women on the other." The papers of a church in Westmorland include elaborate directions for the division of the sexes at its services. All wedded men were to be placed first before any of the young men, and all young wives were to "forbear and come not at their mother-in-law's forms"—this was presumably before the days of the pew—"as long as their mother-in-law lives."—London Chronicle.

A Poet's Pastime.

A magazine editor received a lengthy typewritten poem the other day entitled "Falling Snowflakes." The "snowflakes," having had no return postage attached to them, fluttered lightly into the scrop basket after the editorial eye had run hastily over the first lines. The editor gave, however, a trifle more attention to the letter because of the following explanatory phrase:

"The inclosed poem was written many years ago by one who has for a long time slept in the grave merely as a pastime."

Shakespeare's Anachronisms.

The very head and front of all offenders in the perpetration of anachronisms was Shakespeare himself. He speaks of cannon in the reign of John, whereas cannon were unknown until a century and a half later; of printing in the time of Henry II.; of clocks, and striking clocks at that, in the time of Julius Caesar; he makes Hector quote Aristotle and Coriolanus refer to cats and Alexander; he dowers Bohemia with a seacoast and makes Delphos an island.

A Wise Answer.

The Shah once asked a group of courtiers whom they thought the greater man—himself or his father. At first he could get no reply to so dangerous a question, the answer to which might cost the courtiers their heads. At last a wily old courtier said, "Your father, sire, for, though you are equal to your father in all other respects, in this he is superior to you—that he had a greater son than any you have."

The Business of Life.

Our business is now to make the most of this great and beautiful experiment of living, to leave behind us flowers for beauty and fruit for use, to make our life a harmony, our ending a serenity and our awaking an eternal joy.—John Page Hobbs.

Naples and Coral.

Coral manufacture is an important trade in Naples. The tourist will be astonished at the number of shops which sell this article in all forms, jewelry and table ornaments especially. The low price of labor there is an important factor.

Mr. T. I. Truman, Town Clerk of Midland, is dead.

Mayor Knechtel of Hanover donated $3,000 towards a town hall and library, provided the citizens raised another $13,000. This was done by a debenture bylaw. Hanover will now have a municipal building of which she expects to be proud. The auditorium in the proposed building will be 50x75, which, with the gallery, will seat 600 people. A hopper (slant) floor will be the width of the building and 20 feet deep. There will be dressing rooms above and below the stage.

Wednesday of last week was a banner day at the cement works here, when the shipping department loaded twenty-six cars, containing in all 4,025 barrels, or 16,100 sacks of cement. This was shipped in one special train to Toronto, and was consigned to points all over Ontario. This mill is this year enjoying a steady run with plenty of orders to fill, and should the present run of business keep up will possibly prove the red letter year of the cement industry here.—Durham Chronicle

Mr. Fennell's place is developing into a regular temperance hotel. He started with a restaurant six weeks ago and now he has waiting rooms, dining and lunch room and several beds for accommodation of travellers. He is making a reputation for first class meals. The charge to farmers is 25 cents, commercial men 40 cents. —Dundalk Herald.
