Big Aviation Meet At Toronto.

Much interest attaches to the big aviation meet to be held in Toronto for the week beginning July 9th as practically all the leading aeronauts of the world will be in attendance while every known type of aeroplane will be represented. The flight as arranged will take place over the lake and it is confidently expected that a number of records will be broken as prizes aggregating $75,000 will be offered in the different events, one of which will propably prove a long distance flight.

Of the noted aeronauts to compete the most picturesque is Comte. de Lesseps, son of the noted French Engineer who built the Suez Canal, Comte. de Lesseps took up the science from choice and not necessity, as he has paivate means. He signalled his advent by winning the Daily Mail cup for a flight across the English channel from Calais to Dover. He will be seen at Toronto in the famous Bleriot machine in which he accomplished the feat. Miljean, another noted Frencah aviator, will be present with a Bleriot machine.

It is just possible that Hon. C. Rolls, the distingulshed English aeronaut, whose recent flight from Dover to Calais is causing much comment, may be induced to enter the competitions. Mr. Rolls was in the air for about one hour and a half. He estimates that he covered fifty miles altogether and a great part of the flight was made at a height of a thousand feet.

The honor of Canada will be upheld by Mr. J. A. D. McCurdy of Baddeck, Nova Scotia. Wright Brothers will send five of their famous biplanes and Guy, of Curtiss, of Hudson River fame, will be an added attraction. Other features such as races between aeroplanes and motor boats are announced. The meeting will undoubtedly prove one of the greatest competitions of the kind ever held on this continent. It is under the auspices of Ontario Motor League. Mr. E M. Wilcox of Toronto, Managing Director of the International Aviation Association, is in charge of the arrangements for the event.

The Rooster Mothered 'Em.

There have been hen stories and egg stories innumerable this spring but our Formosa correspondent tells a story that has a hero instead of a heroine. Jos. F. Klein of that village had a hen that brought out eight chickens, but the hen died and left them motherless. But in this day of woman's suffrage and woman's clubs the men are compelled to do some of the household duties. So it comes about that the rooster, trained in household work, was equal to the occasion and adopted the brood. We were a little skeptical of the story and we asked J. B. Goetz, what he thought of it and that worthy gentlemen vouches for the truth of it and says that the rooster takes even better care of them than the hen did.—Walkerton Telescope

Of these thirty-one children, twenty-three are still living, and the eldest is forty-five years of age.

Mr. Poudrier appears no older than his eldest son.

Two Old Flintlocks

A rusty old Indian flintlock rifle hanging in the window of the Warder office this morning attracted considerable attention. It is owned by Mr. Wellington Austin of Haliburton, and thereby hangs a tale.

Mr. Austin has just returned from Gow Ganda, where he had been prospecting for some months past with much success. It was while out on one of his explorations that he stumbled across the two old Indian flintlocks. Mr. Austin was prospecting along the Montreal river and along the shore of Lady Dufferin Lake. He came to a clump of bushes, and, noticing what appeared as the rotten remains of an old tree standing near by him, he stretched forth his hand for the purpose of resting on it, but when his hand came in contact with a smooth piece of iron on top of the supposed dead slim stump, he began at once to examine the thing more closely. On treading down the surrounding high grass he found that the stump was in reality an old Indian flintlock, and that the barrel was sticking into the earth. When he pulled forth the gun it was so rusty and old that part of the wood broke loose from the barrel of the gun. On examining the ground more closely he found on the other side of the clump of trees another old flintlock in a similar position with the barrel stuck deep down into the earth. Mr. Austin also discovered that there appeared to be two graves side by side which were almost covered over with grass and shrubbery.

In conversation with an old fire ranger in that vicinity, Mr. Austin learned that for years past the inhabitants of that vicinity, and they are few, had expressed their belief in an old, old story that centuries ago two Indian chiefs fought a desperate duel with flintlocks and hatchets, both being killed as a result. The fire ranger stated that no doubt the two flintlocks served the purpose of tombstones and marked the graves of the two chiefs.

The flintlock is hacked about the butt, showing where the tomahawks had chopped off pieces of wood in the duel. Mr. Austin states that the guns are supposed to be from 150 to 200 years old, and he prizes them very highly. He has had several good offers for them.—Lindsay Warder.

Inspecter Chisholm of the public schools has issued a very important circular to trustees pointing out the necessity of advertising at once for a teacher to fill any vacancies which may become necessary. The circulars point out that there will be 50 vacancies in Bruce, that there is a scarcity of teachers and that it will be necessary to pay no less than $500 to get a teacher with high qualifications. It also sets forth the government grants and will, no doubt, be of great assistance to trustees, as this year will show the greatest scarcity of any time —Walkerton Telescope.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills Cured

"I think it should be the duty of the schools to teach children how to keep well," writes Miss Nannie E. Naydon, a well-known and highly esteemed resident of Bristol. "Ignorance of the laws of health and the use of improper remedies destroyed my vigor, and led me to the verge of invalidism. I was as a girl ruddy and strong. Nothing seemed to affect me until I was about thirty. Then gas began to form in the stomach. I suffered with bloating and a general failure in strength set in. If I went upstairs my breath hurt. My system was very irregular, and until I grew pretty bad I didn't pay much heed to my condition. Then I got blue, worried all the time, wakened in the night, and couldn't get to sleep again. None of the medicine I took helped me. One day I was reading of a very interesting case like mine cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I took the same treatment. It was just right—didn't physic me to death, but took hold of the weak, sick parts of my system, and set things right. It seems as if Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made me young again, and all my color, spirits, vigor, and health of former days have returned to stay."

Every girl and woman should use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly. They help a woman in many ways. Beware of the dealer who asks you to take an inferior pill on which his profit is larger than on Dr. Hamilton's. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone, Co., Kingston, Ont.
