—At Chicago on Saturday night James Jamieson's head was almost severed from his body by one simb from a reser in the hands of Charles Jones. The men, who were colored barbers, were engaged in a saloon quarrel over their sbilities as white-washers.

-William Dobson, a wealthy and respected farmer of Chinguaceury township, blew the top of his head off with a shot gun at an early hour Sunday morning. No cause for the act. He was in Brampton on Saturday and returned home in the evening in good health and spirits.

The citisens of Wingham have been very successful with their test salt well, having struck a rich salt depositat a depth of eleven hundred feet. The extension of the Canada Pacific railway to the town, which was conditional on the establishment of salt works, is expected to speedily follow.

-A cherry tree stood in the way of the Southern Pacific narrow gauge railway extension that is being pasted at Almaden, and the owner seked about $900 for the snd the owner asked about sade for the tree. Experts were appointed, and he then showed that it had for years yielded him crops each of which sold for sums equivalent to the interest on the amount named. They finally agreed to award him $600, and the tree had to go.

—A milch cow belonging to a farmer named Hall, living near Little Rock, Ark., was bitten by a mad dog last week. She showed no signs of being affected by the wound, and it was thought all danger was past until two days ago, when she began to show signs of hydrophobia. At the same time the farmer's two children, who had drunk of her milk, exhibited similar symptoms, and are suffering great agony. Other members of the family are also ill, but not so alasmingly as as the children. but not so alarmingly se as the children.

—A little five year old girl in Connecticut was taken to a doctor to have her treated for what was supposed to be a polypus in her nose. The doctor decided to lance it. He then found that what was supposed to be a polypus was in reality a shoe button, which the little one had put into her nose four years ago, and which could not be found at the time, and it was supposed had come out. It had been entirely formatien. It was imbedded for some distance in the curtilage. She had experienced little or no pain from the strange and dangerous sub-

The detectives seized Most a few hours afterlocating him, and when he was pulled by the heels from under the bed he presented a sorry spectacle. His head and face were covered with dust and dirt, and his eyes were large with craven fear. He recovered, however, sufficient to wave his arm aloft, and shout a demand for liberty for the people. He was handcuffed and taken to the police headquarters, where he was locked up.

A London cable says: The defection among the supporters of Mr. Gladstone has crown rapidly. The number of adherents of Lord Hartington and Mr. Chamberlain has risen from 88 to 108. English and Scotch radical papers that have hitherto supported Mr. Gladstone now concur that his concessions are inadequate, that a joint commission is practically impossible, and that the home rule bill is doomed to defeat unless crucial amendments be made. Onunless crucial amendments be made. Op-nonents calculate that there will be a ma-jority of 40 against the bill. Mr. Gladstone

-A Dublin cable says: Heartrending details have reached here of evictions on the estate of Lord Kenmare at Headford, near Killarney. While he, as lord chamber-lain, was attending the queen at the Liver-pool festivities and enjoying the good things of life, the sheriff and bailiffs, backed by 97 policemen, turned out a large number of his tenants of the poorest kind, with the usual concomitants of sympathizing neighbors and an exasperated people fighting the police. The most aggravating case is that of Jeremiah Callaghan, who has eight children all under 12 years of age, who, turned out on the readside, cried and marked by two things—abuse of Mr. Giscostone and the invasion of society by ancient Greece. As regards the first of these, never within memory has parties feeling found such bitter expression against anybody as against the prime minister during the last few days. At a political soirce on Wednesday evening, Mr. Chamberlain, talking about the situation, began speaking of Mr. Gisdatone by saying, "That infernal old—," Then he corrected himself with a smile to "that extremely setute old gentlemen." This is a specimen. Then an old epigram of years ago has been revived to do duty, namely: "Gisdatone will merifice a principle where he will not give up a penny." Even nonsensical verses about him have been going the rounds. This fer example was raising the length at a party last night:

"Have you heard of this wicked old man, Who does all the mischief he can!" He would be intended to order the first night:
